Better Biters.
A Great Mystery.
A Colored Bank.
Gasping Descendants.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

IF WISCONSIN trout would bite the President's bait as savagely as "respectable" usury, encouraged by the Federal Reserve bites American business, it would be wonderful.

WHEN he finishes with the trout, President Coolidge may want to know why the Federal Reserve has been acting as an agency to promote usury and increase the cost of doing business.

A well known Los Angeles business man wires the suggestion that some Wall Street gentlemen, with strings on the Federal Reserve, having gone short of the market are raising interest rates to knock down prices under pretext of "restraining excessive speculation. . . ."

A YEAR ago, Wall street respectabilities warned against higher prices, which probably meant that they were "short." Will the President, or perhaps his successor, Hoover or Smith, look into this matter?

Besides crippling business and prosperity, our artificially created usury rates are helping London to regain from us control of the world's money market.

DR. PAUL, French medico-legal expert, reports he found poison in the organs of Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian millionaire, supposed to have jumped from his airplane.

London's Scotland Yard detectives are working on what they think may be the greatest murder mystery of all times.

The motive for the murder may have been to produce profit for stock gamblers. Stocks controlled by Loewenstein dropped tens of millions on his death.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, Jr., interests himself in New York's race problem, as regards colored people. He has built model tenements for them at reasonable prices, and will build more, instead of compelling the colored population to pay exorbitant rents for miserable quarters.

In one of his model apartment houses for colored people, Mr. Rockefeller has installed a bank in which his son is a director, the latter's first directorate.

The original thing about the bank is that it will treat colored people, borrowers and depositors, fairly, and not tell them in the words of the old story, "Can't you understand that the interest ate up the money that you deposited with us?"

WE LIVE in an age that will amaze our descendants. Let us hope so, at least.

Chicago's Crime Commission says 60,000 complaints to the police were pigeonholed, simplest way to get rid of them.

You cannot blame the police, busy with bootleggers from whom collections must be made regularly.

MR. CYRUS H. K. CURTIS' private investigator reports that speakeasies in New York City alone pay at least ten million dollars a year for "protection" locally. This means that $10,000,000 does not include sums paid to Federal "enforcement" gentlemen.

A distinguished official replies: "You're away off in your figures. It isn't $10,000,000, it is $15,000,000, if it's a nickel."

IT IS said the Federal Trade Commission will investigate the absorption of Dodge Brothers by the Chrysler Automobile Company.

The commission should congratulate Mr. Chrysler. The country needs bigger units, more efficiency, smaller overhead. Mr. Chrysler buying the Dodge company, which happened to be in the hands of bankers, rendered service to the public, and to the Dodge company.

COSTA RICA asks the League of Nations "to interpret the Monroe Doctrine."

The League should reply that the Monroe Doctrine is the business of the United States, and the league has no interpretation to offer.

Under the Monroe Doctrine, the United States says to the world, "You can't conquer and hold territory on these American continents unless you first conquer us."

That ought to suit Costa Rica.

THE marathon at the Irish games was won by the American, Jole Ray, beating the recent Olympic record by one minute. Steytler, from South Africa, was second; Adams, a Scotchman, third. O'Reilly, Doyle and McKeon, all Irish, were fourth, fifth and sixth, which won't please Dublin.

OHIO yesterday reported Drys winning, Wets "slipping."

Josephus Daniels, drier than the hottest spot in the Desert of Sahara, gives Democrats comfort with positive assurance that they will carry North Carolina.

BATTLE ENDS IN SIXTH ROUND

COAL DUST EXPLOSION KILLS 13 IN MINE

COALPORT, Pa., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The sole survivor of 14 men known to have been trapped in the No. 3 mine of the Irvona Coal and Coke Company when an explosion occurred late yesterday afternoon, today told the story of the blast while rescue workers from various districts explored the gas-swept facings of the mine for bodies which might have been overlooked.

The survivor, Marina Coccia, of Coalport, owes his life more to luck than anything else, he having refused to follow a fellow miner whose body later was brought from the workings badly mangled and burned.

Coccia, one of 150 men in the mine at the time of the blast, was with the 14 in the section where the blast occurred. The other 136, in another section of the mine, escaped, their working place not having been visited by the force of the explosion.

TELLS OF EXPERIENCE.

"I was with W. H. Mays about 3:15 o'clock," Coccia said. "We heard a dull thud and thought the dynamo had let loose. We were thrown to the ground and smelled gas and felt a terrific heat. Mays, his face ghastly, turned to me and said: 'We'll die now. No one but God can save us.'

"We ran toward the tunnel exit but were forced back and reaching an entry Mays dashed to the left. Something sent me to the right. I escaped, poor Mays is dead."

The bodies of the 13 victims were brought to the surface shortly after midnight.

Those killed were: Steve Corable, Emery Spannar, Joe Fulare, C. W.

Shoots to Kill Wife's Friend

UNIONTOWN, Aug. 18.—Declaring he was "driven crazy" by thoughts of losing his wife's love, Michael Burick, 20, shot and perhaps fatally wounded Abe Fickman, 35, proprietor of a general store here, late yesterday.

Burick walked into Fickman's store, according to police, and opened fire with the declaration, "I'm here to give you what you deserve."

Fickman received a bullet in his left lung and two in his head. Burick ran from the store, but was captured by a policeman, who fired several shorts at him.

Mrs. Burick formerly worked in Fickman's store. The Buricks were married last November, but have been separated for some time.

ILLINOIS AIRMEN SOAR FOR EUROPE

International News Service.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 16.—Undismayed by the tragedy featuring their first hop-off several weeks ago, Bert R. J. Hassell, veteran Rockford aviator, and Parker D. Cramer took off in their Stinson monoplane, "The Greater Rockford," early today for a scheduled flight to Stockholm, Sweden, by way of Greenland.

A crowd of several thousand swarmed the airport as the big plane was wheeled into position. Hassell climbed into the cabin, waved his arm and yelled to friends and relatives: "We're going to make it this time."

The nose of the ship was turned to the wind, the motors roared and the Greater Rockford swept slowly down the long runway and lifted lazily into the eastern sky.

MESSAGE PICKED UP

The first word of the fliers' progress came at 12:58, Pittsburgh daylight time. H. P. Ferdinand, amateur radio operator, reported he had received from the Greater Rockford a message reporting the plane was over Whitefish Point, Mich.

Several weeks ago, a few minutes after the plane had taken off, Hassell and Cramer crashed into a cornfield. Undaunted, they repaired the plane and today planned to consummate a flight they had prepared for more than two years.

It became necessary, however, to change the itinerary, with a stop

Kidnaped Girl, 15, Dies

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Aug. 16.—With the death of Miss Bertha Kasanovich, 15, of 436 Hopewell avenue, in the Rochester Hospital yesterday, police renewed their search for the two young men accused of abducting her and throwing her from a speeding automobile at the West Aliquippa station, July 23.

Before her death the girl told police she had been seized on the Colona road by two young men who dragged her father into the car when he tried to help her.

The girl was found in a serious condition by Motor Patrolman Salvatore Silla.

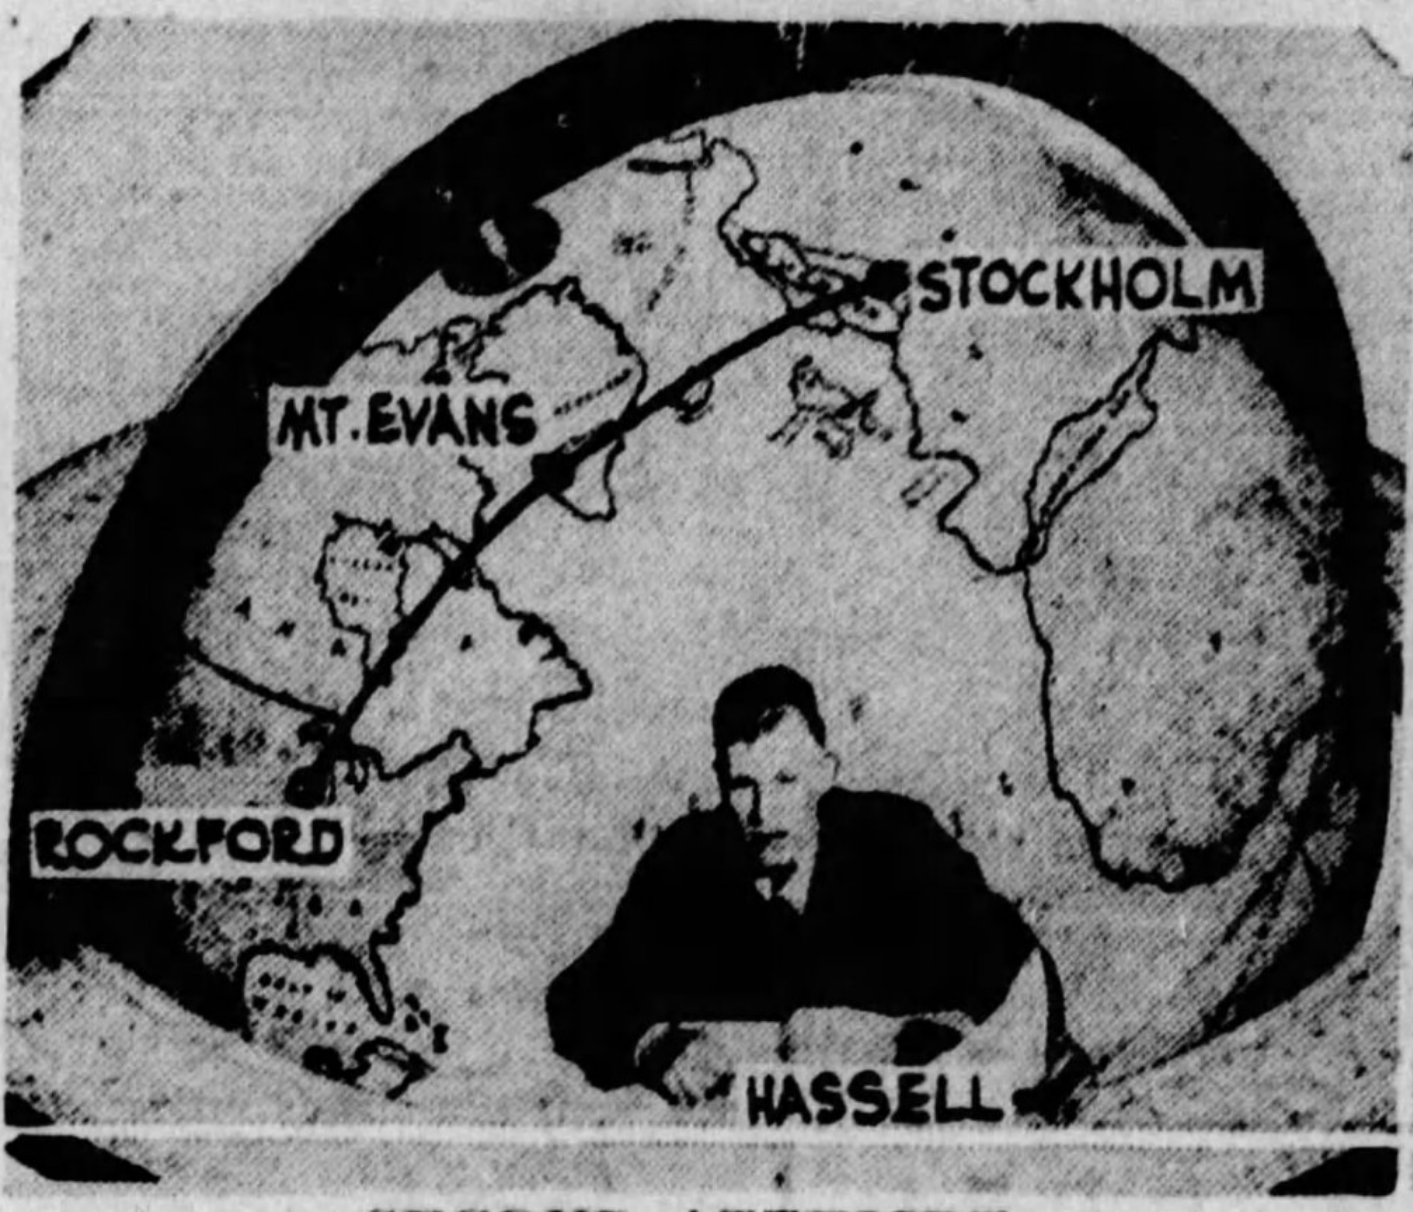
As Hassell Hopped for Sweden



SECOND ATTEMPT

For the second time, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer have hopped off from Rockford, Ill., in an effort to fly to Stockholm, Sweden. The route includes a stop tonight at Cochrane, Ontario, and at Mt. Evans, Greeland.

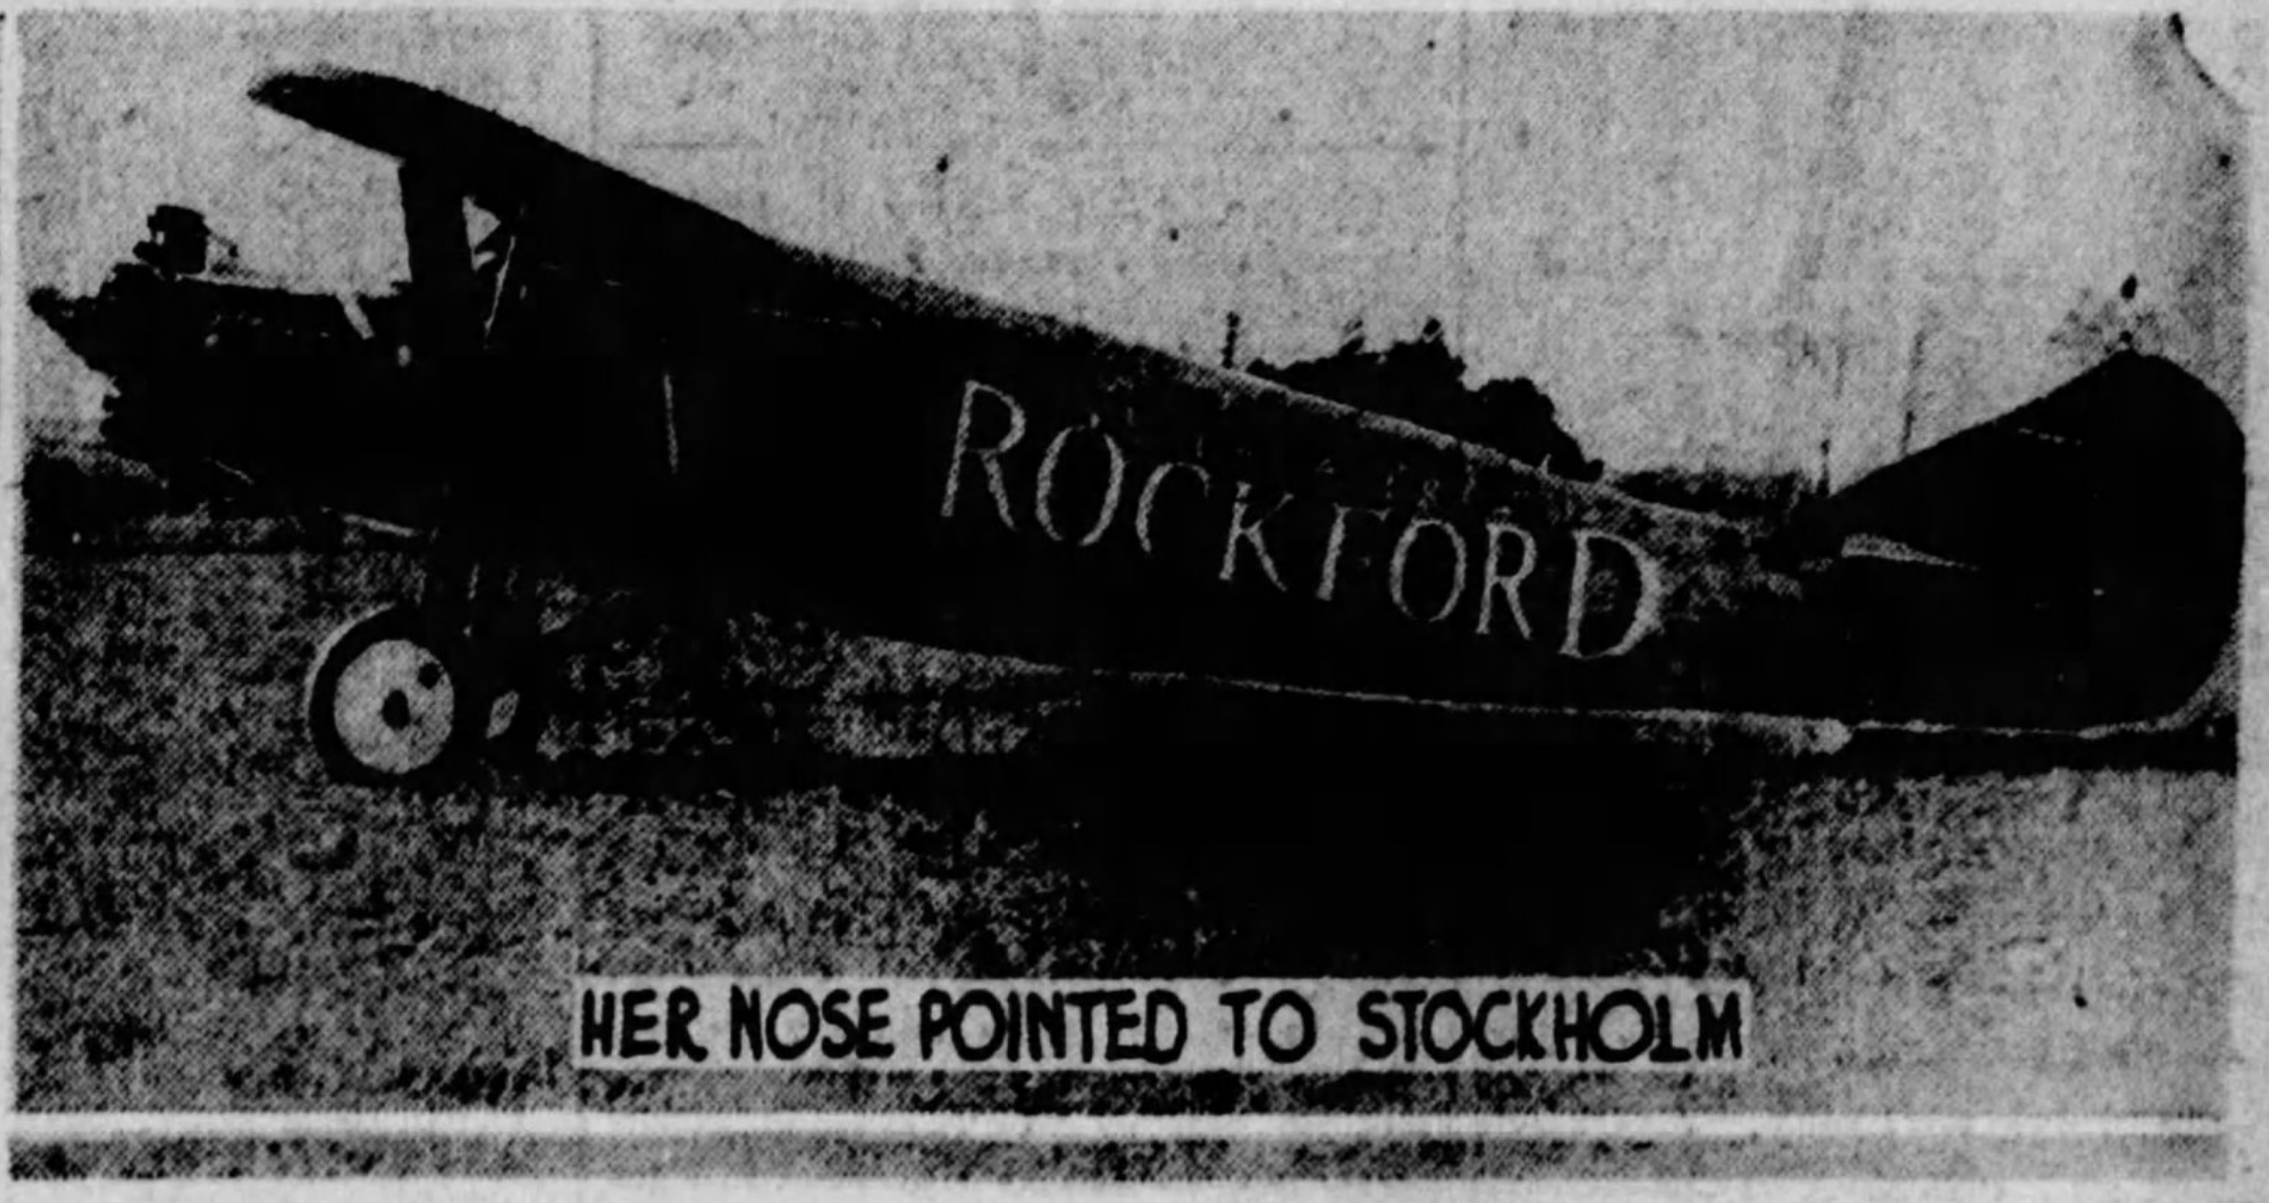
TRANS-OCEAN PILOTS

FLIERS

These are the two fliers in the plane, Cramer (left) and Hassell. Cramer is co-pilot and navigator for the flight. "We'll make it," were their parting words.

PREPARED

Here, Hassell, as he waited several days for fair flying weather, bids his wife and children goodby. The fliers prepared for weeks.



PLANE

This is the plane which today wings the two across North America. It is the same as those used in other trans-oceanic flights. On the first attempt made by the fliers, about two weeks ago, they crashed in a cornfield at the take-off.

DRYS BEAT WETS IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—With Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati Republican, and Congressman Martin L. Davey, Kent, Democrat, picked by Ohio voters to make the November race for governor, political observers already are predicting a battle of even greater intensity than that witnessed in the Republican primary between Cooper and James T. Begg, Sandusky.

The neck-and-neck race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination between Cooper and Begg went into Ohio political history as one of the most spectacular on record, with the final result still questioned by supporters of the Sandusky congressman, who await the complete official returns from the secretary of state. It is doubtful whether the official vote for each candidate will be known before next week.

5,568 IN LEAD

Complete returns compiled by the Associated Press gave Cooper, a Cincinnati business man supported by the Ohio Anti-saloon League, a plurality of 5,568 votes over Begg who also had dry backing. Attorney General Edward C. Turner, who openly attacked the Anti-Saloon League and certain public utility interests which he charged had joined with the league to control state legislation, was a poor third in a six cornered race.

The final vote stood: Cooper 259,725; Begg 254,157; Fred Kohler, former mayor of Cleveland, 25,115; Harry A. Shanley, Cleveland, Negro

Pennington Defies Foes

"I decline to be promoted, demoted, transferred or resign."

John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator for Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, today replied to reports that his "promotion" to other fields of activity was being urged by local political forces in Washington.

"That report is, in my opinion, a deliberate attempt to break down the morale of my organization," Pennington said.

BLOW AT FORCE

"I have denied that report at least once a month ever since I came here two years ago. These constantly recurring rumors of a change in the administrative head of the prohibition forces is a deliberate attempt to break down the morale of my force.

"It would be effective if there were any truth in it, but there is to be no change here.

"There is no movement afoot in Washington to transfer me. I am not to be promoted, transferred, nor will I resign.

"My duties are to enforce the Volstead act and not to play politics."

Mr. Pennington admitted having heard the latest "rumors" since returning early in the week from an inspection trip.

Persons closely identified with the prohibition office believe Mr. Pennington will continue here indefinitely and carry on his duties in the characteristic manner he has done during the last two years.

BOSSES DEMAND REMOVAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Demands of Pittsburgh politicians that John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator, be promoted so he could be transferred from the Pittsburgh district, have been ignored by administration officials and Republican leaders here. The change is rumored to be the price for giving the support of Allegheny county to the Hoover-Curtis ticket at the November election.

The request for Pennington's removal is said to have been made by Pittsburgh politicians to the Republican leaders at Washington. The rigid enforcement by the administrator in Pittsburgh has hit many politicians and for their support at

4 Rescued Off Plane Land

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The crew of three and one passenger who survived the forced descent of the Havana-Key West Pan-American Airways passenger airplane into the Gulf of Mexico here last night were brought to St. Petersburg today by a coast guard cutter which reported that the other passenger, Charles N. Ageton, of Flushing, L. I., was killed in the crash.

They were taken aboard the cutter from the tanker Ligonier, near which the plane alighted and which picked them up just as their craft sank. Ensign M. Braswell, of the local coast guard base, said Eggeston's body was not recovered.

William Mallon, the other passenger, and H. C. Leuteritz, radio operator of the plane, were taken to a hospital for first aid treatment, the former having suffered a scalp wound and the latter body bruises. Robert Fatt, pilot, and Alfonso, the mechanic, were not hurt.

The survivors said that Ageton was killed when the plane struck the water with a terrific impact after it had been blown more than 100 miles off its course and its fuel was almost exhausted.

Mallon said the cabin immediately was submerged by the water and he was dragged out by the radio man. Ageton, he said, never was seen and no trace of his body was found despite a long search inside and outside the plane.

ABANDONED 3, MOTHER ADMITS

A 20-year-old bobbed-hair mother confessed in Morals Court today that she had abandoned her three babies, each a few days after it was born. Her excuse was, "I had no money to provide for them."

The mother, Mrs. Margaret Reilly, of Brentwood road, was arrested Wednesday as she was trying to escape from the New Future Home at 418 Sherman avenue, where her 12-day-old child was being cared for.

She admitted that in 1924 she had left her first child with her mother in Brentwood and departed. The second baby, born last year, she had taken to Mrs. Laura Mantz, of 122 Kempfield street, with a promise, never fulfilled, that she would return in an hour. Mrs. Mantz later had the baby adopted by a friend.

HELD FOR COURT

Mrs. Reilly had tied the bedclothes into a line and was sliding to the street from the second floor of the New Future Home Wednesday when an employe detected her. A few days earlier she had taken the baby to the home and pleaded that she and her child be cared for.

Magistrate John J. Orie held her for court. The husband, George S. Reilly, 23, who pleaded that he had intended trying to "get the family together again," was held for investigation.

Rain Due; No Heat Relief

The fling of the second tropical storm that swept the South was expected to bring showers to Pittsburgh late today, but little relief is expected from the heat.

Light rains were reported today from points along the Monongahela River to the Gulf, and these are drawing near to this district, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said. The center of the storm is along the Carolina coast.

With the sun behind the clouds much of the time today, the mercury likely will not reach yesterday's peak of 89.

HOOVER AGAIN LEADS HERE

Hoover again took the lead in the day's voting in The Sun-Telegraph's straw vote on the presidential election, getting 124 ballots to Smith's 104. This brings the total vote up to Smith, 1,445; Hoover, 1,186.

Of yesterday's vote for Hoover, 65 were male votes and 59 women's votes. As for Smith, 54 of his were from men and 48 of them from women voters.

The rural and suburban vote continues to swell the Hoover figures, yesterday's vote from these districts showing 32 for the Republican candidate and 19 for the Democratic candidate.

Of the 1,608 total Coolidge voters in 1924, the straw balloting showed that 990 of them were women's votes, and 967 male votes. Davis had only 209 of the straw voters' ballots in 1924, of which 132 were male and 77 female. LaFollette polled 546 of the votes, with 347 of them being male votes and 199 of them female votes.

Analysis of nation-wide straw vote on Page 2; detailed returns by states on page 3.

An amusing sidelight on the straw voting feature is the discontent of loyal party voters. When the Democratic candidate is leading, the complaints come from the Republican side that there must be something wrong with the figures. When the Republican candidate takes the lead in the totals, the Democratic kickers write letters to the newspaper.

All in all it is quite spirited and enthusiastic and shows a lively interest on both sides. Complaints are only the expression of an earnest and insistent Republican or Democrat, and offer relaxation in a swirl of definite votes returned by determined voters in both parties.

CONVICTED VOTE CLERK GETS 4-YEAR PAROLE

Jack McKenzie, clerk of the election board of the Eighteenth District, Third Ward, sentenced to serve six months in the county jail when the election fraud cases were tried, today was paroled for four years. He had served about three months of his sentence, and is the second of those incarcerated to be released.

Judge H. H. Rowand, in granting the parole, reminded McKenzie that the law for an election violation disfranchises the defendant for four years and warned him not to attempt to vote or serve on an election board during that time.

Attorney Harry Estep, appearing for McKenzie, stated that McKenzie is the only support of his aged mother, and that he needs medical attention which he cannot obtain in the jail. Recently McKenzie, who was employed in the jail kitchen, was injured by a barrel falling on his right foot. The great toe, it was said, will have to be amputated.

AUGUST 25

When World War veterans from all walks of life in Western Pennsylvania gather August 25, Saturday, at Kennywood Park for the annual reunion, sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, this may be remembered. The "smoke" was made October 31, 1918, when Three Hundred and Eighth Regiment, Seventy-seventh Division, went into action with rifle grenades in Argonne Forest.

TO THE LINES!

This was a sad and happy day. Capt. Woodend, acting major, led these boys to the front lines above Fismes, September 3, 1918. The marching men here were members of the One Hundred and Tenth Infantry. At the reunion, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will have arranged for free amusement tickets for veterans showing credentials to prove their service.

FOUR KILOMETERS

Four kilometers! Which means, Buddy, a distance equivalent to four million or more miles. In this case, Company G, Three Hundred and Thirteenth Infantry, Seventy-ninth Division, shown atop this ridge, is maneuvering at Combres, Troyon Sector, October 23, 1918, four kilometers behind the front line. You can hear much more about this at the veterans' reunion.

3 STATES IN GRIP OF FLOODS

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16.—Draining a territory drenched by almost incessant rains during the past two weeks, rivers of three Southern states were flowing out of their banks today, isolating cities and causing tremendous damage to crops, highways and railroads.

From Spartanburg, S. C.; Asheville and Tryon, N. C., and Macon and Quitman, Ga., came reports of flood conditions equalling or surpassing any in the history of the affected sections.

All the menaced area of North Carolina was cut off from communication late last night, but before the lines went down Asheville reported preparations to care for hundreds of refugees from the French Broad River Valley, where Bee Tree Dam was threatening to collapse.

Many mill communities along the Pacolet River were threatened, with Tryon, N. C., already feeling the rush of flood waters unleashed when Clifton Textile Mill Dam No. 2 went out last night.

MILL AREAS FLOODED

The suburban mill communities of Beaumont and Arkwright at Spartanburg, were flooded for the second time within a week and Spartanburg was without gas. Anderson Mill Bridge on Tiger River was swept away.

A freakish tornado tore up 50 houses at Bath, S. C., yesterday and injured one woman. A score of houses were damaged or destroyed by a similar storm at Newberry, but no casualties were reported. Charleston also reported heavy damage from the storm and high water.

In Georgia, Quitman appeared the worst hit, having been isolated by flood water released by the collapse of two dams on Okapilco Creek. Brice dam, impounding a 17,000-acre lake, and Melton dam, holding 500 acres of impounded water, collapsed yesterday.

TOWN ISOLATED

Milledgeville, Ga., was without drinking water and was isolated. Macon had but one rail line open, and reported the Ogmulgee River two feet over flood stage, with another four-foot rise expected today. More than 15 inches of rain fell there in the last few weeks, one-third normal annual precipitation.

Meanwhile, with Quitman itself on high ground, the waters of Okapilco Creek were joining the alreday swollen Withlacoochee River, which in turn was threatening several northwestern Florida resort towns.

OHIO DRYS WIN

publisher, 6,840; Harry C. Smith, Forest, Ohio farmer, 16,181; Turner 90,236.

Congressman Davey, of Kent, was the choice of Ohio Democrats in approximately 80 of the state's 88 counties, leading Peter Witt, former Cleveland Traffic Commissioner, by a comfortable margin.

OFFICE IN DOUBT

Nomination of the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor still hung in the balance today as George C. Braden, Warren, and State Representative John T. Brown, Champaign county, author of the Ohio gasoline tax law, continued the same "neck-and-neck" battle that Cooper and Begg carried on yesterday. Brown held a lead of 595 votes early today.

Congressman Theodore E. Burton, Cleveland Republican, and Graham P. Hunt, Cincinnati attorney, Democrat, were chosen to fight it out in November for the four-year unexpired term of the late Senator Frank B. Willis. Congressman Burton, who retired from the Senate in 1915 without seeking reelection only to return to Washington as a member of the Lower House, defeated Chief Justice Carrington T. Marshall, of the Ohio Supreme Court with a plurality in excess of 140,000. Five candidates sought the Republican nomination.

Although Senator Cyrus Locher, Cleveland, apparently was defeated by Hunt on the basis of unofficial returns, he issued a statement hinting fraud in the counting of his vote, particularly in Cuyahoga (Cleveland) county, and indicating that a state investigation might be requested. Hunt's unofficial plurality with about 700 precincts unreported was 12,479. Locher, who had the support of the Anti-Saloon League, claimed a loss of his home county by approximately 3,200 rather than the more than 10,000 votes announced.

Error of 10,000 Votes for Ohio Wet

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A mistake of 10,000 votes in favor of United States Senator Cyrus Locher in the count in Cuyahoga county (Cleveland), was discovered today when the official count of votes was made.

The unofficial vote, as tabulated by election commissioners yesterday, gave Graham Hunt, Cincinnati, wet, 26,224. Today it was found Hunt's vote in Cuyahoga county was 16,224. Locher's unofficial vote in the county was 12,989. This descrepancy cut Hunt's margin of victory to not more than a handful of votes.

The vote, as changed by the Cuyahoga figures, was:

Hunt, 88,510; Locher, 88,172.

Announcement of the discovery of the error in Cuyahoga county came after Locher headquarters indicated the Secretary of State would be asked to investigate the Cuyahoga county vote.

BUY LIQUOR HERE?

This is the thorn today in the side of the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, New York pastor, who told things from his pulpit about Gov. Smith. Dr. Straton, you see, owns this hotel, Green Lake, N. Y., and a newspaper reporter sent him a quart of liquor purchased across this bar. Now, Dr. Straton's miffed and would seek to oust the lessee, William Hecht, shown here behind the bar, as fair guests at the hotel refresh themselves. Hecht denies the liquor sale.

TAKES POISON HE FAILS TO MAKE WIFE DRINK

NEW KENSINGTON, Aug. 16.—Worried over domestic troubles, according to police, David Potts, 25, of Seventh street, attempted to force his wife to drink poison this morning on a street corner here and, failing in this, he drank some of the poison himself.

The couple had been separated for about a week, according to police, and last night both husband and wife signed separation papers preparatory to divorce proceedings. Potts met his wife this morning at Third avenue and Ninth street, and after a few words, he seized her and tried to force her to drink the poison. She struggled free and he grabbed the bottle which had been knocked from his hands and swallowed a small draught before his wife could prevent it.

During the struggle, some of the chemical was spilled over husband and wife and both are suffering from burns. Police took Potts into custody, and after receiving treatment from a physician, he was turned over to his parents.

13 KILLED IN MINE BLAST

Richards, and Charles Kubicina, of Madera; William Small, John Collins and W. H. Mays, of Coalport; Andy Apramovich and his son, Tony, of Emmons; James and Louis Hunt, brothers, of Irvona, and Herman Britton, Osceola Mills, R. F. D.

Officials of the company said it was a dust explosion but refused to advance a cause until a further investigation could be made. This investigation was being carried on today by Deputy State Inspector of Mines Ira H. Thomas, of Harrisburg.

Most of the bodies brought out were mangled and burned and with but two exceptions all were without clothing, denoting, rescue workers said, the explosion was of terrific force. The two bodies not mangled were evidently suffocation victims, physicians stated.

A density of gas and preponderance of heat prevented rescue workers from entering the mine for considerable time following the blast. When the men finally won their way to the lower recesses and to the point, three miles back in the mine where the explosion took place, Drs. Goheen and Stewart, of Coalport and Clearfield, respectively, and a nurse, found one miner still breathing, but he expired before he could be brought to the surface.

Had the explosion occurred 15 minutes later than it did, the mine would have been cleared of humans, officials of the company stated. All inside were to have quit work at 3:30, and because many of the miners were on their way out, and had passed the south facings, the death list was kept down, they said.

The mine is a slope working, and normally employs upwards of 300 men.

BOSSES CRY FOR SCALP

the November election they are asking that Pennington be relieved of duty there.

WANT HONEST VOTES

The administration officials here refused to be quoted on the matter, but one of the men stated that he believed it good politics "to prosecute a crook and that no votes were ever lost by enforcing the law."

Republican leaders point out that as far as good politics are concerned it is up to the Republicans in Allegheny county to deliver that district for Hoover in November, or they can't expect anything from the new administration should Hoover be elected.

In Pittsburgh the rumors are that Pennington already is slated to go and that his successor already has been selected. The new administrator is rumored as being wet and favorably known to the Pittsburgh politicians.

According to the Pittsburgh politicians' plaint, unless liquor flows more freely between now and the election, Smith may win the county.

WOMEN IN TEST VOTE FOR G.O.P.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—If the women vote in November as they are marking the straw ballots in the nation-wide poll being taken by Hearst newspapers, they will be the deciding factor in naming the next president.

They are not voting with the men this time.

Many politicians have claimed that the women voters did not think independently and that the only effect of giving woman the ballot was to bestow two votes on every married man. But the straw votes recorded in the table printed today indicates how wrong the professionals are.

A careful study of the more than 150,000 votes received thus far reveals the following interesting percentages:

Herbert Hoover has received 50.9 per cent of the straws registered throughout the nation, but of the men's vote he has but 48.3 per cent. But now the women are marking their ballots for him. Of the ballots of the fair ones, he has 56.4 per cent.

Smith has 49.1 per cent of the national total, 51.7 per cent of the men's vote and only 43.6 of the women's ballots.

BACK G. O. P. CLAIMS

Republican managers have claimed from the start that Hoover would win the women's vote and the straws are blowing that way.

To get closer to home, Hoover has 57.7 per cent of the vote in Illinois with more than two-thirds of the counties represented. He has received 52.9 per cent of the men's vote and 56.8 per cent of the women's. Smith has 45.3 of the total vote, 47.1 of the men's, but when it comes to the women's expression, his portion falls away to 43.2.

Let us move in a bit closer and see what is happening in Chicago. Here Smith has the majority of the men's ballots, with 50.5 per cent to 49.5 per cent for Hoover, but he has received but 47.3 of the women's straws, as compared to 52.7 per cent granted Hoover. The Republican has a slight lead on the combined men and women's vote with 50.9 per cent to 49.1 for Smith.

SAME IN MARYLAND

In Maryland the Democratic candidate has 2,867 men's votes to 2,653 Hoover, but the Republican has 1,077 women's votes to 814 for his rival. Outside Baltimore, the ratio is even more against Smith, his women's vote being 58 to his rival's 231.

In San Francisco, Hoover received but 2,858 men's votes, while Smith has 3,889. Of the women's votes, Hoover has 4,687 to 3,692 for the Democrat. In Los Angeles, strongly Republican normally, the women's vote is: Hoover, 974; Smith, 271.

Going into Gov. Smith's own state, the city of Syracuse furnishes a striking example of Hoover's strength with the women. There the men's vote is divided, Hoover, 4,730; Smith, 4,556, but the women's division is Hoover, 4,134; Smith, 2,741.

Along the Political Front Line

Albany—Josephus Daniels conferred with Smith; said there was some unrest in South, but regarded the section as safely for the Democrats.

Minneapolis—Senator Schall (Rep.), of Minnesota, announced he would take no part in the campaign for Hoover because of the farm attitude; he will not support Smith either.

Greenwood Lake, N. Y.—The Rev. John Roach Straton in letters urged Senator George, of Georgia, and Josephus Daniels to bolt Smith.

Portland, Ore.—Senator Moses, New Hampshire, Eastern Hoover leader, predicted an "election of surprises," and looked for big electoral majority.

Milwaukee—Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, charged Hoover with attempting to "hide the outstanding corruptionists of the Harding-Coolidge administration."

Galesburg, Ill.—Earl C. Smith, president Illinois Agricultural Association, urged farmers to disregard politcal alignments and "vote for men who are for agriculture."

Fairmont, W. Va.—West Virginia Republicans adopted a plank resenting what was described as an effort to "Tammanyize Federal government."

Annapolis — Gov. Ritchie planned trip to New York today for conferences with Democratic leaders.

ILLINOIS AIRMEN HOP OFF

scheduled at Cochrane, Ontario, instead of a non-stop hop to the tip of Greenland and thence over the northern circle route to Sweden. The new plan will enable the aviators to carry a lesser load of gasoline, minimizing chances of being forced down because of excessive weight.

The eyes of Rockford followed the big monoplane as it became an indistinct blur in the haze of early morning. For Rockford and every person in the city had built the plane.

SCHOOL MONEY HELPS

School children donated their lunch money, merchants gave from the cash register. Everyone added their little bit of money which eventually created the lump sum necessary to construct the plane and buy supplies for the flight. Their hopes dashed when the plane crashed several weeks ago, the Chamber of Commerce again solicited funds and the Greater Rockford was repaired.

Hassell and his New York manager, Cramer, hope to provide a new air lane to Europe by making the flight, a lane minimizing the hazards experienced in other transoceanic hops. The longest water journey will be only 550 miles.

From Rockford the big Stinson will fly over Green Lake and Green Bay, Wis., Sault Ste. Marie on Lake Superior and on to Cochrane, which Hassell hopes to reach tonight. Thence the plane will fly to James Bay, southern point of Hudson Bay, near Moose Factory. Then the giant craft will head over practically uninhabited land to the promontory of Labrador at Cape Chidley and thence to Mt. Evans Observatory on Greenland, where gasoline and oil await the aviators.

GUARDSMEN-PILOTS SPOT GUNS FROM AIR

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Perfect flying weather at Shepherd Field here, where the Maryland National Guard Flying Corps is undergoing its summer training, gave the pilots several hours in the air yesterday. During the morning pilots of the unit were busy with flying missions, and during the afternoon gave the 94 enlisted men of the corps "joy rides." At intervals during the morning flying, pupp guns were set off on the ground, representing gun emplacements and areas where shell fire was to be concentrated. The men in the planes, using radio ground crews for adjusting range and informed them of "enemy" gun emplacements in action.

Those who waited while his life hung in the balance, grieve today as preparations go forward for young Gallagher's funeral. Here are, left to right, W. J. Haskell, Albert's father; Miss Fanny Gallagher, sister of the dead youth; John Killian, another chum who offered his blood, and Mary Gallagher, another sister. They stood watch all day at the doors of Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington.

ULTIMATUM ISSUED BY RAIL MEN

CLEVELAND, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Western railroads which have failed to meet the wage demands of the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen will be given until September 4 to do so, A. F. Whitney, president of the trainmen, said today.

"The 70,000 western members of the Brotherhoods are now voting upon a strike; the ballots will be counted at Chicago on September 2 and if a strike is approved the railroads will have two days to avert it," Whitney said.

Whitney replied to a statement made in Chicago by J. W. Higgins, chairman of the conference committee of the managers of western roads, who accused the Brotherhoods of ignoring the Watson-Parker Railway Labor act, providing for mediation of disputes.

"The railroads have manifested 10 times more opposition to the Watson-Parker act provisions than have the unions," Whitney asserted. "If they had been willing to arbitrate real issues, we would have agreed."

MAY PETITION COOLIDGE

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 16.—Representatives of Kansas City shippers and of railroads operating in and out of this city at a meeting yesterday decided to petition President Coolidge to assist in an effort to avert the threatened strike of members of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in the Western district.

Officials of these unions, representing 70,000 workers, have rejected a 7½ per cent wage increase, which the railroads agreed to, provided certain working conditions be changed.

At the meeting today it was agreed to ask the president to appoint a fact-finding commission to investigate the causes of the difference. This commission could submit its findings to the Federal Board of Mediation.

TWO DIE IN FIRE AT RESORT

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Trapped in their bedroom on the second floor of an amusement place at Harvey's Lake, near here, two young boys, identified as residents of this city, were burned to death early today. The bodies, awaiting definite identification at a morgue here, are said to be those of Abraham Diamond, 16, son of Max Diamond, city policeman, and Methodius Tatko, 17, also of this city.

Both were employed as pin boys on the bowling alleys conducted in the Casino at the nearby resort, the Diamond youngster having been employed just yesterday. Twelve other employes of the establishment, also sleeping on the same floor, were warned of the fire by John Kovack, World War hero of this city, and all made their escape.

FIRST MARRIAGE "ALL OFF," SHE WEDS TWICE

When she refused to live with her first husband, he told her the marriage was "all off," Mrs. Rose Solomon, 24, testified today in Criminal Court, so she thought there would be nothing wrong in marrying again. Her second husband, Feris Solomon, of 1611 Webster avenue, is a third cousin, he revealed. They were married here last May.

The woman was married in Winnipeg, Can., several years ago, she admitted, to Edward Walker, but they separated after a short time and Mrs. Walker, as she was known at that time, came to Pittsburgh with her mother. While here she met Solomon and married him, her mother returning to Canada.

When Mrs. Walker's passport bond was not lifted, immigration authorities started an investigation which led to her discovery here as Solomon's wife.

Judge Thomas D. Carnahan, before whom the case was heard, remanded the woman to jail pending action of immigration authorities towards having the woman deported.

FIND DEAD MAN IN GUTTER

The body of a man was found in a concrete gutter in the rear of the Pittsburgh Coal Company's building in Second avenue near the Armstrong tunnel at 8 a. m. today. An examination at the morgue indicated that no bones were fractured and there is no suspicion of foul play, according to deputy coroners.

Action of the weather had reduced the clothing to shreds and nothing else was found on the body that would lead to its identification.

Slain Man Found In Closet

Jammed into a cupboard, the body of Wate Haley, 47, a Negro, was found today in his apartment No. 3, at 223 Greenfield avenue, Hazelwood, with a 45-caliber bullet in his head.

Anderson Brown and the Rev. George Solomon, made suspicious by Haley's absence from his accustomed haunts, forced their way into his room.

Brown told the police he called at Haley's room last Saturday night and was met at the door by a man who told him Haley was too busy to see him. The police are searching for this man.

Harry Wilson, chemist, identified Dell as a man who had loitered about the store the night before the robbery.

Amundsen Note Held Genuine

LONDON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from The Hague says that the Norwegian consul at Amsterdam believes a message found in a bottle reporting the sighting of Roald Amundsen is genuine. He has compared it with letters in his possession and has sent it to Mrs. Amundsen.

A Lloyd agent at Rottubroog, on an island off the coast of Groningen, Holland, Saturday reported finding a bottle in which was inclosed a message reading:

"Latham, 1-7-28. 84 degrees 23 minutes last Roald Amundsen seen."

Roald Amundsen and five companions hopped off from Tromsoe, Norway, on June 18, in a French Latham seaplane to join in the work of rescuing the crew of the dirigible Italia. They have been missing since then.

The position, 84 degrees 23 minutes east, would be at least 300 miles east of Franz Joseph Land, in a region where it had not been regarded as likely that the men would be found. Since no latitude was given in the message an attempt to determine the exact place would be impossible.

FORD DUCKS FORD

DRAGS FRIEND FROM PATH OF FLIVVER

International News Service.

SUDBURY, Mass., Aug. 16—Henry Ford was alive and enjoying his historic Wayside Inn today only because of his agility and quick thinking when he came near being the victim of one of his own make of automobiles.

Coming here from Benson, Vt., and while inspecting the place with an elderly friend, Mr. Ford started across the old Boston Post road. A youth in an open flivver bore down on the two pedestrians.

Mr. Ford quickly sized up the situation. Grabbing his friend by the arm, he half dragged him out of the path of the speeding automobile, which, as it was, narrowly escaped clipping the coattails of the automobile magnate.

PLANE SAVES MAN LOST FOR 48 DAYS IN WILDS

THE PAS, Manitoba, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—After being lost for 48 days in the North country and living on frogs and dead fish, Andy Taylor, prospector, came back to civilization yesterday—in rags and so weak from starvation that he could hardly walk.

He came back in an airplane, and with him was his friend, Fred Coleman, Ontario prospector, who refused to believe he was dead, stayed on the ground and kept up the search long after everybody else had quit, and finally found him.

The plane was piloted by Capt. Kenyon, Western Airways pilot, who flew up to Burntwood yesterday to get them.

When Coleman found him, Taylor was at the point of giving up the fight. His shoes were worn out, and he had wrapped pieces of his tattered clothing about his bleeding feet. For days, he said, he had been able to walk only about 50 or 100 feet before falling down exhausted. A seven weeks' beard covered his pale, gaunt face.

Wild berry bushes were still in blossom in the north woods and swamps when Taylor wandered away from his companions and lost his way. Before he was found, the raspberries had formed and ripened so that he could eat them.

After he had been wandering about several days, he had to abandon his ax and his pail. Once, when he had not eaten for days and days, he saw dead fish floating on the surface of a lake. He swam out to them and devoured them. Later, he says, he became adept at catching live frogs, and he lived on them for weeks. Finally he reached the south shore of Burntwood lake, which he thought was Gold lake. He swam out to an island, where he said he found potatoes growing wild.

He was tottering aimlessly along through the brush when Coleman, who had followed every clue and stuck to the trail, found him.

Taylor was too weak to talk much tonight. But—he could grin.

5TH GANGSTER FOUND

ALLEGED BANDIT IDENTIFIED IN PRISON

The fifth member of the bandit gang alleged to have perpetrated a series of robberies here was identified, according to city detectives, at Rockview Penitentiary, where he is serving a term of two to four years. Identification was made, detectives say, by two members of the gang who were taken to Rockview from Pittsburgh last night.

The bandits making the identification, detectives say, were John Otis and Sylvester Mantz. They pointed out John Koecha, who has been in the penitentiary since last April, as a member of the gang on a dozen or more occasions when drug stores and radio stores were robbed. Koecha, the detectives say Otis and Mantz told them, was in jail at the time of the Ward Baking Company and the Pittsburgh Railways Company holdups.

Two other alleged members of the gang still are being held by police. They are George Schreiber, 25, of Arch street, and William ("Tug") Murphy, 44, of 149 Thirty-eighth street.

NEW SUSPECT HELD

Said to be the leader of a gang of youthful robbery suspects, Steve Waters, 23, of Grand avenue, was held for court today by Magistrate John Orie in Central Station. He was identified at the hearing by Louis Grile, of 52 Bascom street, watchman at Riverside park, as one of a crowd of young men he routed with shots during an attempted robbery two weeks ago.

Detectives say Waters is a former inmate of the state reformatory at Huntingdon. Eight other members of the gang have been held for Juvenile or Criminal Court.

SHOULD START AIRPORT AT ONCE, M'GOVERN SAYS

PATIENT'S FRIENDS REJECT KEARNS' DENIAL HE'S WED

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Mystery and uncertainty today cloaked the identity of a woman critically ill of food poisoning in a Long Beach (N. Y.) hospital, known as Mrs. Jack Kearns. She declares she is the wife of the former manager of Jack Dempsey.

It was said that several days ago she had eaten some sea food which did not agree with her and that complications set in. It is expected she will recover.

Kearns, in a dispatch from Los Angeles, is quoted as saying:

"I am not married. There was a Miss Edith Angel who was a friend of mine in New York about nine years ago. We were friends for a couple of years, but were never married. I am still a bachelor and always have been."

Jacob Klein, attorney for the ill woman, said:

"If Kearns isn't married, then why did he enter into an agreement for separate maintenance of his wife and agree to pay her $500 a month?"

Mrs. Charles Schneider, a sister of the patient, said that the latter had been married to Kearns and that she was receiving alimony from him.

New York newspaper clippings in April, 1928, quote Kearns as saying he was married.

Friends of Kearns in New York said the girl was known as La Gana, a dancer, and once appeared on the same vaudeville bill with Dempsey. They said that she and Kearns separated about four years ago.

ENTHUSIASTIC AFTER FLIGHT OVER SITE

Work on the proposed municipal airport should be begun at once, declared County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern after he had made a flight over the Mifflin township site recommended by the Chamber of Commerce.

"Grading should be started immediately so the public can see that the city and county really mean business," McGovern said. McGovern was the only one of the Commissioners to make the flight yesterday, but he declared it was quite probable that the other two commissioners, Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock, would favor the proposed site.

McGovern said he was in favor of condemnation proceedings in case the county encountered trouble in buying the property. The contract for the sale of bonds was let yesterday, he said, but he expressed the belief that grading should get under way without waiting until the bonds are placed in the market.

WELL-BITTEN SAVANT FINDS SPIDERS LIBELED

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Fear of spiders, tarantulas and such varmints is largely "a mental illusion," says Dr. W. J. Baero, of the University of Arkansas, who should know. Besides being an authority, he has tested most of the varieties by letting them bite and sting him.

FOURTH OF APPLICANTS FOR AUTO PERMITS FAIL

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Fines resulting from the arrest of 858 motorists during July for violating the motor vehicle laws totaled $34,037, of which $1,465 was returned to the counties, it is announced by the State Highway Department. Twenty-three per cent of 35,434 applicants for driver's licenses failed to pass the examinations and were refused permits during the month.

DEATH CAR DRIVER, FREE, FACES SUIT FOR $20,000

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Aug. 16.—Although exonerated by a coroner's jury in the deaths of Mrs. Justine Gaydos, 52, Pittsburgh, and Arthur Sable, 19 Detroit, Mich., killed along the Darlington road August 4, Frank Domabyl, 35, Cleveland, O., driver of a truck, today faces two suits of $10,000 each. The suits were entered by Mr. and Mrs. John P. Sable, Detroit, parents of the boy, and the seven children of Mrs. Gaydos.

MERCER COUNTY JAIL FULL TO OVERFLOWING

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 16.—The county jail is doing double service. Built to accomodate 50 prisoners, it has for six months housed an average of 100 prisoners daily, despite the releases and workhouse departures. Sheriff D. K. Callahan says the only solution is a bigger prison.

Now Betty's never guilty of "B. O." (Body Odor)

Becomes most popular girl in her set

—after learning why people were unfriendly to her

FLOCKS of eager young men seek Betty—"now the most popular girl in her set."

And this is the girl who used to be so lonely, so friendless.

How did she do it? A lucky accident. She chanced to overhear a whispered conversation and found out that she, too, was guilty of "B. O."

Betty knew what that meant—Body Odor! And then she found an easy way to overcome it, too. She's never lonesome now. She's a favorite with everyone.

Easy to end "B.O."

It's hard for anyone with body odor to win popularity.

Of course, we all must perspire to live. Even on a cool day, our pores give off as much as quart of odor-causing perspiration. We don't detect this odor, our sense of smell is so used to it. But others do!

Why take chances? To keep safe just wash and bathe often with this delightful purifying toilet soap—Lifebuoy. Its bland and abundant antiseptic lather purifies pores—giving freedom from body odor.

Healthier complexions, too

This same mild, antiseptic Lifebuoy lather also purifies face pores—keeping complexions smooth, clear and glowingly fresh. Guards health, too—by removing germs. You'll learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you it purifies, and which vanishes as you rinse. Get some today.

the charm of a clear skin
S.S.S.

You cannot be attractive without a clear skin

EVERYBODY wants to be attractive. It is a great and just ambition. But no one can be attractive without a clear skin—you know that.

Do you realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of most skin disorders is in the blood?

Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs, and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning. Instead, you feel refreshed, ready to meet the world.

Your appetite is keen—you enjoy work or play—your skin is clear, cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood builds and sustains the body.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

—purely vegetable

"S.S.S. cleared my skin of pimples and blackheads. I think it a most wonderful blood medicine. Several of my friends are taking it for the same reason I did."
Miss Margaret Frye

STILL FOUND IN AUTO

Charged with driving recklessly in an automobile containing a still, Carlo Mavroni, 36, of Cheswick, arrested by Tarentum police yesterday on a reckless driving charge, will be turned over to Federal agents after the disposition of his case there.

A Tarentum patrolman who stopped him reported finding a 75-gallon still fully equipped in the machine. The car and still were seized and turned over to prohibition agents, according to their report.

Liquor valued at $200 was reported taken in a raid on a saloon at 1506 Fifth avenue, along with two men who were released on bail. In a dwelling in Elm street, the agents said they found a 75-gallon still in operation and a quantity of moonshine.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

ULTRA-MODERN

By EVANGELINE WEIR

FRANCES WAYNE believed in liberty, and had fought for it from the time she began to walk up to her twenty-fifth birthday when she decided that it was time to change her name and become the head of an establishment herself. With an eye single to her own future, she weighed the merits and demerits of every eligible man in her set. She had no false idea of love reforming a man or holding him against his will to a dead ideal.

Frances was modern. She knew that old things and old times had passed away, and that she had to meet life with new ways and new values to make it a success. Just as bobbed hair and short skirts were a part of the new-regime, so the choosing of a husband must depend upon something stronger that the rose-hued love that 'so often lost its color in the kitchen or other places it was intended to soften with shining light.

Her choice fell upon a very charming bachelor who was quite content with his own way of life. If he thought of marriage at all, it was not to share life with a restless, efficient girl of Frances' type. This did not worry Frances, however, for the efusal of one man could not spoil her life. If he did not choose to marry her that was his business and merely an incident in her own. Of course she hated to see her carefully thought out plans fail, but she would not waste her time or youth in idle mourning.

Frances Wayne was a handsome girl with good manners and money enough to make her interesting. She knew her value, did not spare herself when she made mis takes; she kept a balance.

Dick Morris, who was five years her senior and had known her since nursery days, was surprised one day at the country club when Frances asked him to marry her.

"Life is a journey, Dick, and I should like to take the trip with you."

She lifted her head, looked him straight in the eyes, and there was no doubt as to her meaning.

"Heavens! It would not be a trip; it would be a race from beginning to end," he answered, making light of her proposal.

"You are a poor sport—afraid to take a chance," she said.

"Frances," he said in desperation, "I don't like—no man likes to have a woman propose to him. You should not do it even in sport."

"But I'm in earnest, Dick. You are not obliged to say yes. I believe in liberty for both sexes."

"Freedom for women!" he said warmly. "And you take advantage in or disadvantage of the privilege—"

"This is my first experience," she explained, "and I am rather crude, I suppose."

"Sounds exactly as if you were repeating something out of a textbook," he told her, recovering from the shock.

They walked on in silence until Frances called his attention to the beauty of the trees.

"I love color, Dick, and the passing of all this beauty in the autumn makes me sad. It seems like the end of things."

"Frances!" he said desperately.

She did not answer; her eyes were on the hills beyond them.

"If you—if you really care, I'll—"

"If you mean, am I in love with you, Dick, my answer is no. A woman in love does not approach a man as I have you. I'll not remember this tomorrow, neither should you. We'll keep the old friendship and forget what I dared to do because of my belief in the equality of sexes. I can see you are not ready to meet new conditions."

"You know I really think a lot of you, Frances."

"We'll take that for granted. Let's turn back. I'm hungry—we'll eat."

Dick Morris did remember the amazing incident every time he saw Frances Wayne and many times when he did not see her. The idea of Frances proposing irritated him. She was a good modern sort with some common sense but surely she ought to know that a man liked to do his own proposing. Frances, too, was disturbed. She found herself flushing when she happened to look up and find Dick's eyes on her; she went out of her way to avoid him and usually succeeded in running into him. It seemed to her that he was always just around the corner.

As the boy grew bolder, the girl grew shyer. He had almost become a shadow now which she could not elude. Friends began to connect their names, and Frances in a fit of desperation told Dick to stay away from her.

"I do not feel that you are to be trusted out of my sight," he said with mock earnestness.

"When I was a little girl, I was always trying to get away from my shadow. I tried every means to lose it. I used to shut my eyes to avoid seeing it. You've become something like that—hideous!" she declared.

"Let me tell you that I am not easily discouraged, and that I've become a very sinister shadow hovering over a very modern girl," he answered.

"Dick Morris, you are taking advantage of a mistake I once made and deeply regret. I want to thank you for refusing—"

"Beg pardon, but I did not refuse to marry you. I consider myself engaged to you, Frances."

"Not to me."

"To you, Frances Waynes."

"I changed my mind after that departure."

"And I changed my mind after you showed me the advantage of such a departure."

"Tony Van Lears wants to marry me," Frances said, looking down at her ringless third finger.

"I know. I warned him to keep off."

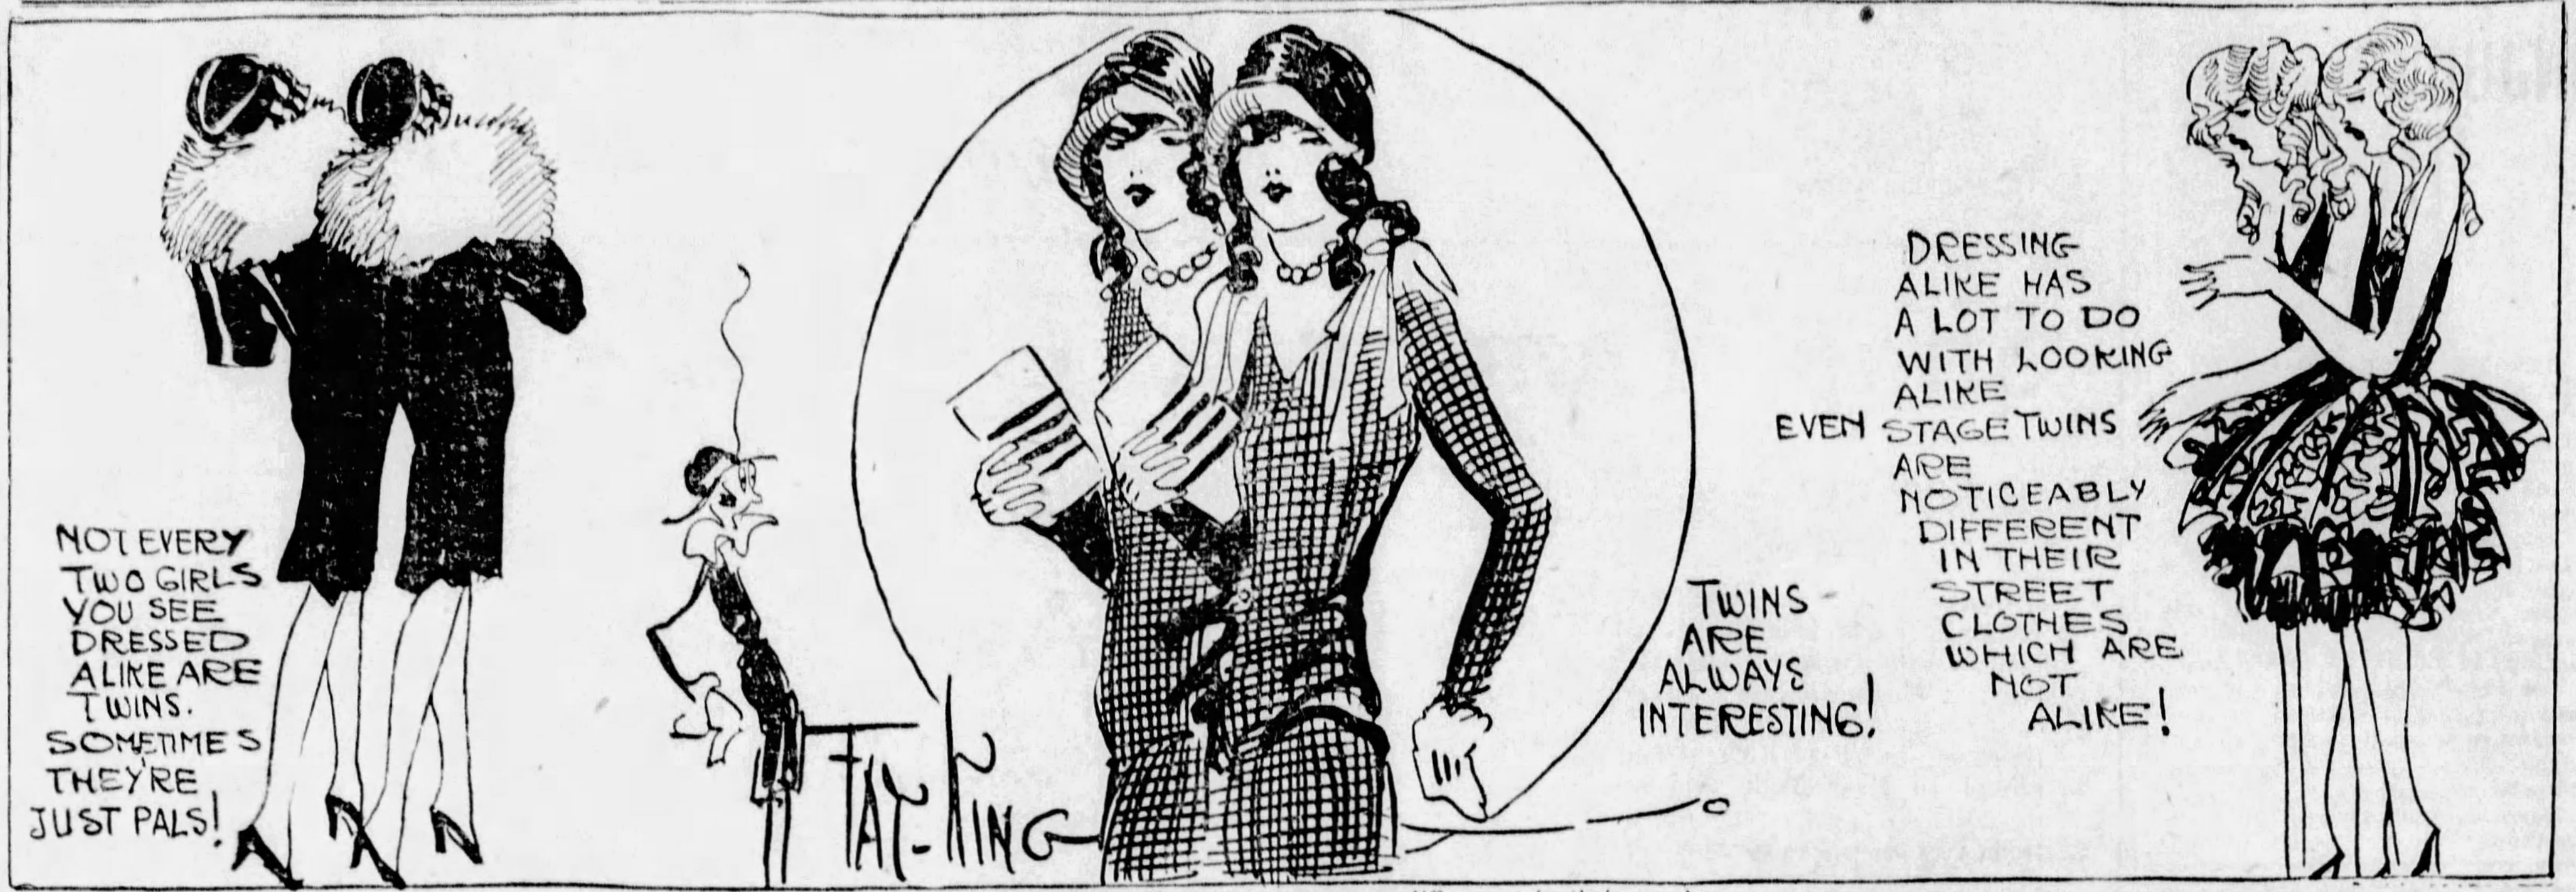
Their eyes met and locked.

"How dare you!" she said through clenched teeth.

Then forgetting that she was ultra-modern, Frances like a true Victorian ran away. She was a frightened, little girl again, trying to escape her shadow! She ran and ran, but she heard footsteps following her. She found Dick behind a tree. His arms suddenly closed about her.

The "shadow" had caught her—and was declaring feverishly that he would never let her go.

Twins, Blood or Dress, Intrigue Fay King



NOT EVERY TWO GIRLS YOU SEE DRESSED ALIKE ARE TWINS. SOMETIMES THEY'RE JUST PALS!
FAY-KING
TWINS ARE ALWAYS INTERESTING!
DRESSING ALIKE HAS A LOT TO DO WITH LOOKING ALIKE
EVEN STAGE TWINS ARE NOTICEABLY DIFFERENT IN THEIR STREET CLOTHES WHICH ARE NOT ALIKE!

By FAY KING

TO ME, twins are always adorable!

Still, some of the most attractive "twins" I have known were not even related. They were just chums of a like age and color who delighted to go about dressed the same!

And some real twins I have observed were not as much alike as they should be, one being much larger and appearing more months—than minutes—older than the other!

Some "twin-sister acts" that appear on the stage dressed alike appear as much like other twins who appear together.

And even these twins who look alike in their stage costumes can appear quite discernibly different in their street clothes which are not alike!

Only the other day I mistook two little girls for twins. And their mother told me there was two years difference in their ages!

And so you see "twins" can be quite deceiving in more ways than one.

I often find myself wondering just how twins, by choice or birth, manage the controversies of dressing alike!

Do they agree that one shall decide every other costume they will wear?

Does one wear a hat and dress she does not like one time for the other's sake?

And then does the other make the same concession next time? Or have twin types the same taste—even though not related?

And I should think there would be a good deal of trouble in love affairs—for he who admires one must admire the other also, and they would both admire him—I should think!

But not being a twin I can only guess at these things!

OCEAN FLIER DIES

INJURIES KILL ITALIAN ACE

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 16.—Maj. Carlos Del Prete, Italian flier, who recently flew from Rome to Brazil, died at 6 a. m. today from injuries he received in a recent airplane crash on the waters just outside Rio De Janeiro.

Del Prete and his companion on the Rome-Brazil flight, Maj. Arturo Ferrarin, were injured last week when a Savoia monoplane winged over as the two started an exhibition flight.

Del Prete's legs both were broken and only yesterday doctors found it necessary to amputate the Italian's right leg, as gangrene had set in, threatening his life.

Through the night he was reported resting comfortably and doctors were hopeful that the poison had not gained too much headway through his system.

"A delicate subject —but these girls must be told"

—a dean of women says

Unfortunately this delicate subject is seldom discussed. Now, a new patented process deodorizes this scientific sanitary pad completely

EVEN among girls who are very frank with each other, there is a question of daintiness, of fastidious personal care that is unfortunately seldom mentioned. Yet many women are unconsciously guilty. At certain times they are seriously offensive to others. With realization comes constant fear and worry.

Today these fears are ended. Science has discovered a way to counteract this offense.

*Kotex now completely deodorizes

Kotex has brought a new idea of feminine hygiene to women all over the world. In the past ten years they have learned new comfort, new ease of mind through this sanitary protection. Now, after years of work, a process has been perfected that completely, amazingly ends all odors. In Kotex laboratories the one remaining problem in connection with sanitary pads is solved.

Shaped to fit, too

Because corners of the pad are rounded and tapered, it may be worn without evidence under the most clinging gown. There is none of that conspicuous bulkiness so often associated with old-fashioned methods. And you can adjust the filler, make it thinner, thicker, narrower—to suit your own special needs. It is easily disposed of, no laundering is necessary. A new process makes it softer than ever before.

Buy a box today . . . 45c for a box of twelve. On sale at all drug, dry goods and department stores; also, through vending cabinets in rest-rooms.

Marie Prevost Signs Contract To Portray Heroine in Picture Based on Mormon Pioneer Life

By REGINA CREWE

(Copyright 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.

MARIE PREVOST has just signed a contract to play the bright, particular starring role in a motion picture which bids fair to qualify for the class of real epics. Everything connected with the production indicates that it will result in one of those masterpieces which are worthy of perpetual preservation. The working title of the film is "The Coming of the Mormons." Needless to say, this will not be the final release name.

The tale deals with the winning of the West, and the man who will translate it into terms of celluloid is Lewis Moomaw. If you recall that South Sea classic, "Moana," you'll recall Moomaw. And unless I forget, he also won fame with the Alaskan sensation, "Chechacos," several years ago. The picture will be filmed on the original locations in Utah. And Marie has left for Salt Lake City, via airplane.

They tell a story about the cowboy star, Hoot Gibson, being approached in a restaurant by a waiter who was also a movie fan. The waiter asked Hoot if he was the cowboy who wrestled a steer, and Hoot replied: "Sure, bring one on—one steak at a time!"

It didn't take Hollywood long to see that Pauline Frederick, just arrived in the Cinema City, is more charming in appearance and a better bet for pictures now than ever. Warner Brothers, who seem to work while others sleep, have signed Pauline to star in the screen version of the stage hit, "On Trial," which they have purchased. This is the show in which Mary Ryan and Lowell Sherman panicked Broadway some years back.

It is an ideal vehicle for the all-talking picture which Warners plan. Lois Wilson, fresh from local stage triumphs in four plays during four months, has an important role. Lois lost a part in the all-star film, "Stark Mad," because of contract trouble with Columbia. But Harry Cohn has relented, and left Lois free until September. So after a week's rest in the hills she steps into "On Trial." The man in the film is Holmes Herbert, and the picture will have the directorial guidance of Archie Mays, who has just finished Fannie Brice's "My Man."

Columbia, like the tax-collector, always seems to get 'em sooner or later. Victor Varconi is busily engaged in leading "The Sinners Parade," which is the title of a film in which Dorothy Reier is the girl.

Some progress is being made by Henry King in assembling his cast for "She Goes to War." As you know, Ivan Lebedeff will be the "heavy." Gertrude Astor seems set for one of the three girls in the picture, and it looks like Clifford Holland for the second man. Margaret Seddon is certain of the mother part, and just to do a little prophesying, the astrologers think that Marian Nixon may have the leading role. We'll know for sure in a day or so.

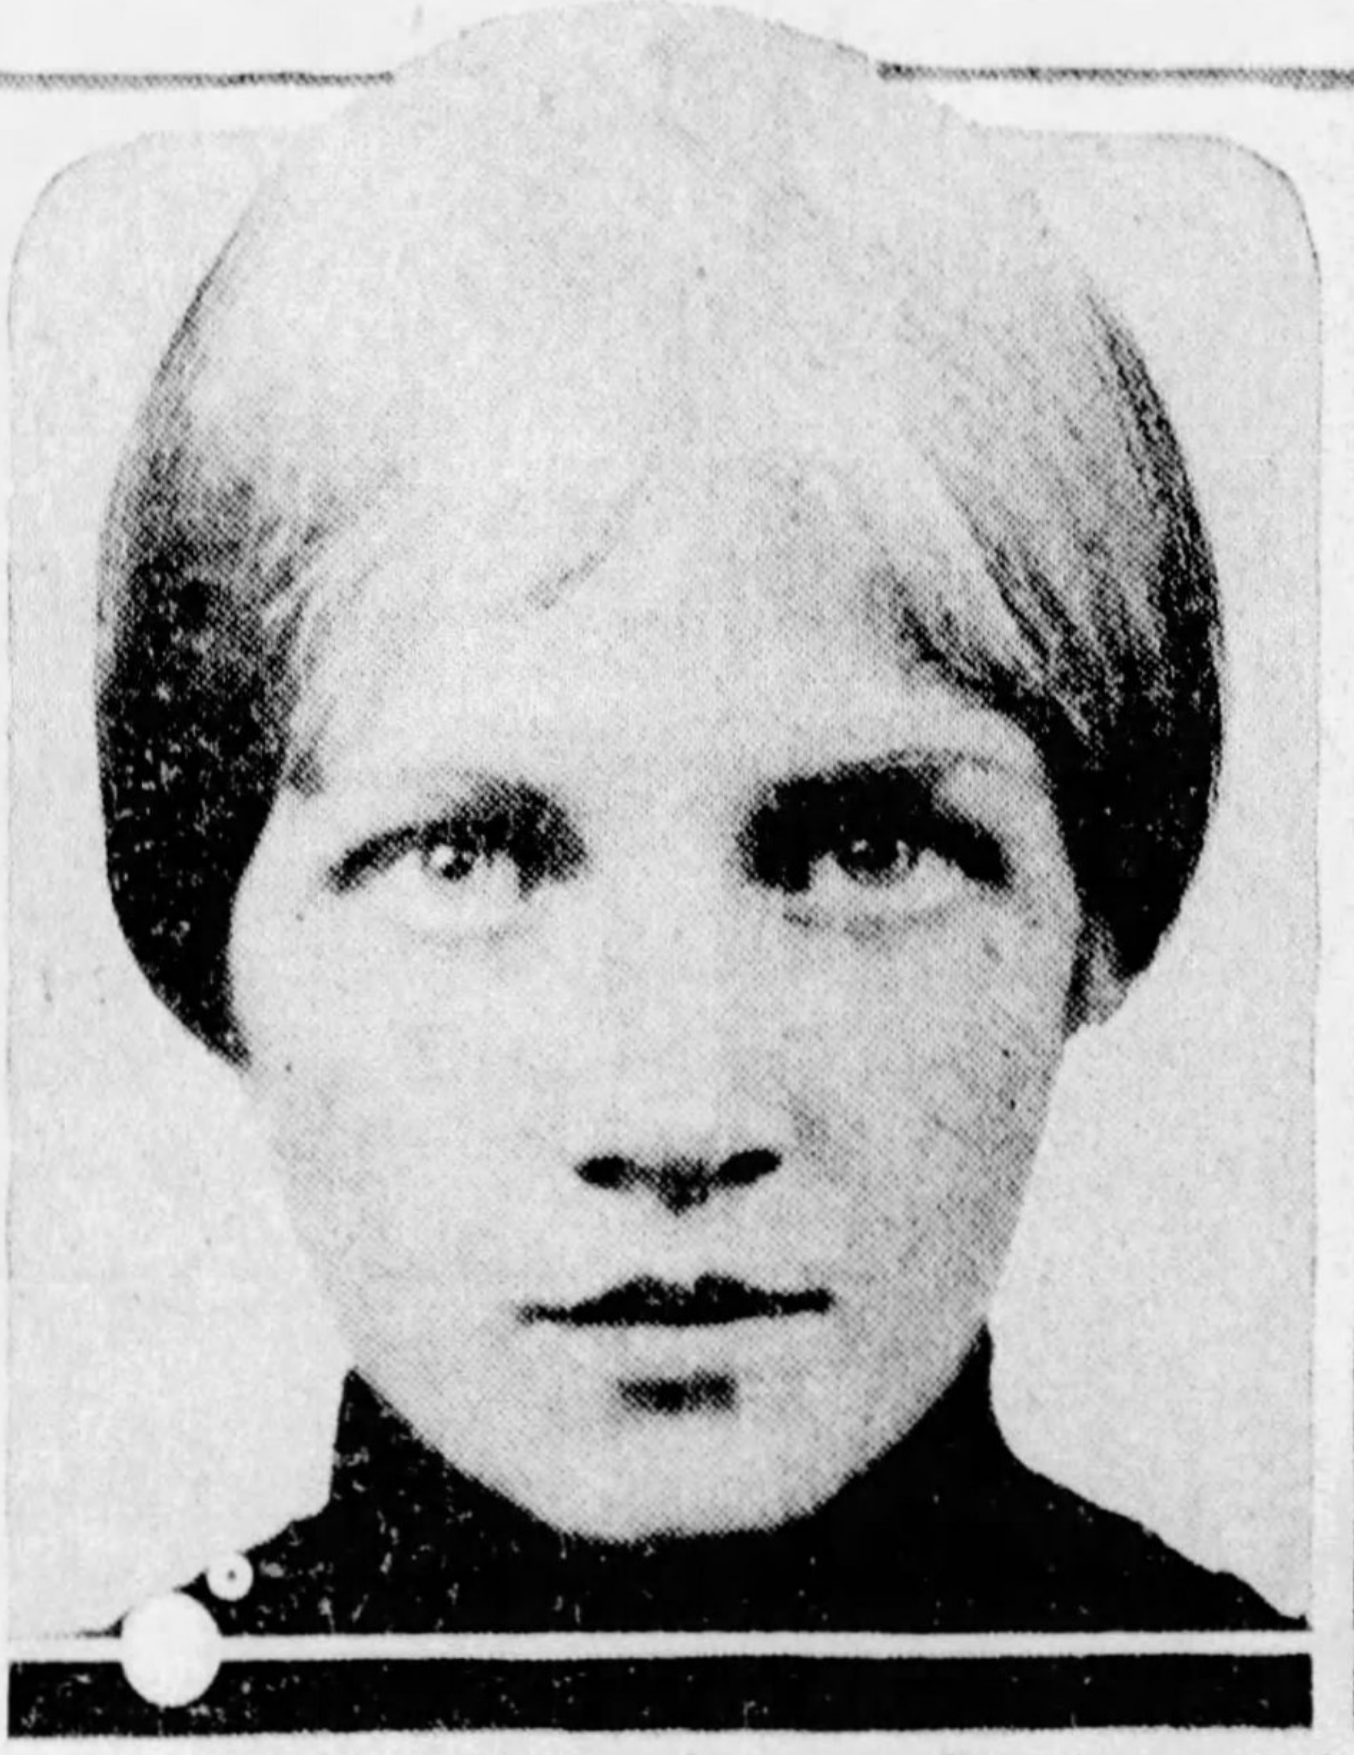
Victor Schertzinger writes songs when he isn't directing films. And sometimes when he is. Vic wrote "Marcheta," "Just An Old Love Song," and has now done two more for Nancy Carroll to sing in the sound sequences of Paramount's film, Manhattan." They are called "Gotta Be Good" and "Another Kiss." Understand that the song-writing director has also composed a number for John McCormack, the Irish tenor. It is "Rose of Erin." Nancy Carroll, incidentally, is a niece of Billy Lahiff, who resides at "The Tavern" in New York town.

They're putting sound and dialogue in Leatrice Joy's picture, "The Bellamy Trial," which is composite of several fascinating murder trials of the past few years. In the silent drama courtroom scenes were "poison" because there is little physical action. But with the "talkies" they should be a "wow."

Clive Brook is leaving for "Merrie England" on a long fought for vacation. But the production schedule demands Clive's return after only a week in Dear Ol' Lunnon. Then he must play opposite Evelyn Brent in "Tahiti Nights."

FACE TO FACE WITH FOLK WHO AMUSE IN VARIED WAYS

George Sharp, the manager, himself, will be seen at the head of his company in "Upstairs and Down" in the Pitt next week.



Ann Harding, who has been spending the summer here, will be seen next week in the Nixon in the leading role in "Smilin' Through."

John Barrymore is to come to the Penn screen in "Tempest," which is to be the film feature in that house the week of August 27.

Thomas Meighan is announced as the screen star in the Stanley for next week, when he will be presented in "The Racket."

SOLOIST IS FEATURE NIGHTLY IN SANDERS

Hugh Wiley, soloist and entertainer with Jan Garber and his recording orchestra, which is playing nightly this week for dancing in Sanders, is scheduled for a number of individual presentations the remainder of this week. Fifteen musicians comprise the Garber unit. There is dancing each night in Sanders, on the Terrace Garden and Spanish Patio floors.

No matter if you are six or sixty, you'll enjoy the 4 pages of Color Comics that are a regular part of the Evening Sun-Telegraph!

SHARP TO PLAY IN PITT

The role to be essayed by George Sharp in "Upstairs and Down" in the Pitt next week, was originally played by Leo Carillo. Mr. Sharp played a similar role in the London production of "Lombardi, Ltd."

Seats go on sale in the box office of the Nixon today for "Smilin' Through," which the Nixon Players will present next week with Ann Harding playing the leading role.

The Alvin, it is announced, will reopen Labor Day with Hal Skelley in "Burlesque."

Ramon Novarro comes to the Penn as its screen star next week in "Forbidden Hours." Renee Adoree plays opposite Novarro. "Babes of Broadway" is the title of the stage revue. It marks the debut of Joseph Santley, former musical comedy star, as a producer for Loew-Publix.

"The Racket," Tom Meighan's starring vehicle, coming to the Stanley next week, is based on the play of the same name. It was written by Bartlett McCormack, Chicago newspaperman, from his observations tramping the "police beat" in Chicago.

Attractions appearing in the Academy this season will be booked through the Mutual Burlesque Association. There will be a different show each week. The house opens with a midnight show Sunday.

Alice White plays the faminine lead in "The Big Noise," which comes to the Grand next week. Formerly a script clerk, Miss White got her first motion picture role in "The Sea Tiger" with Milton Sills.

Topping the vaudeville in the Harris the last three days of this week are the Six Victorias as "A Band on Wheels." On the screen will be Glen Tyron in "Hot Heels."

Vaudeville in the Sheridan Square Theater the last half of the week will include Milt Bronson and Girls. On the screen will be "Hot Heels," featuring Glenn Tyron.

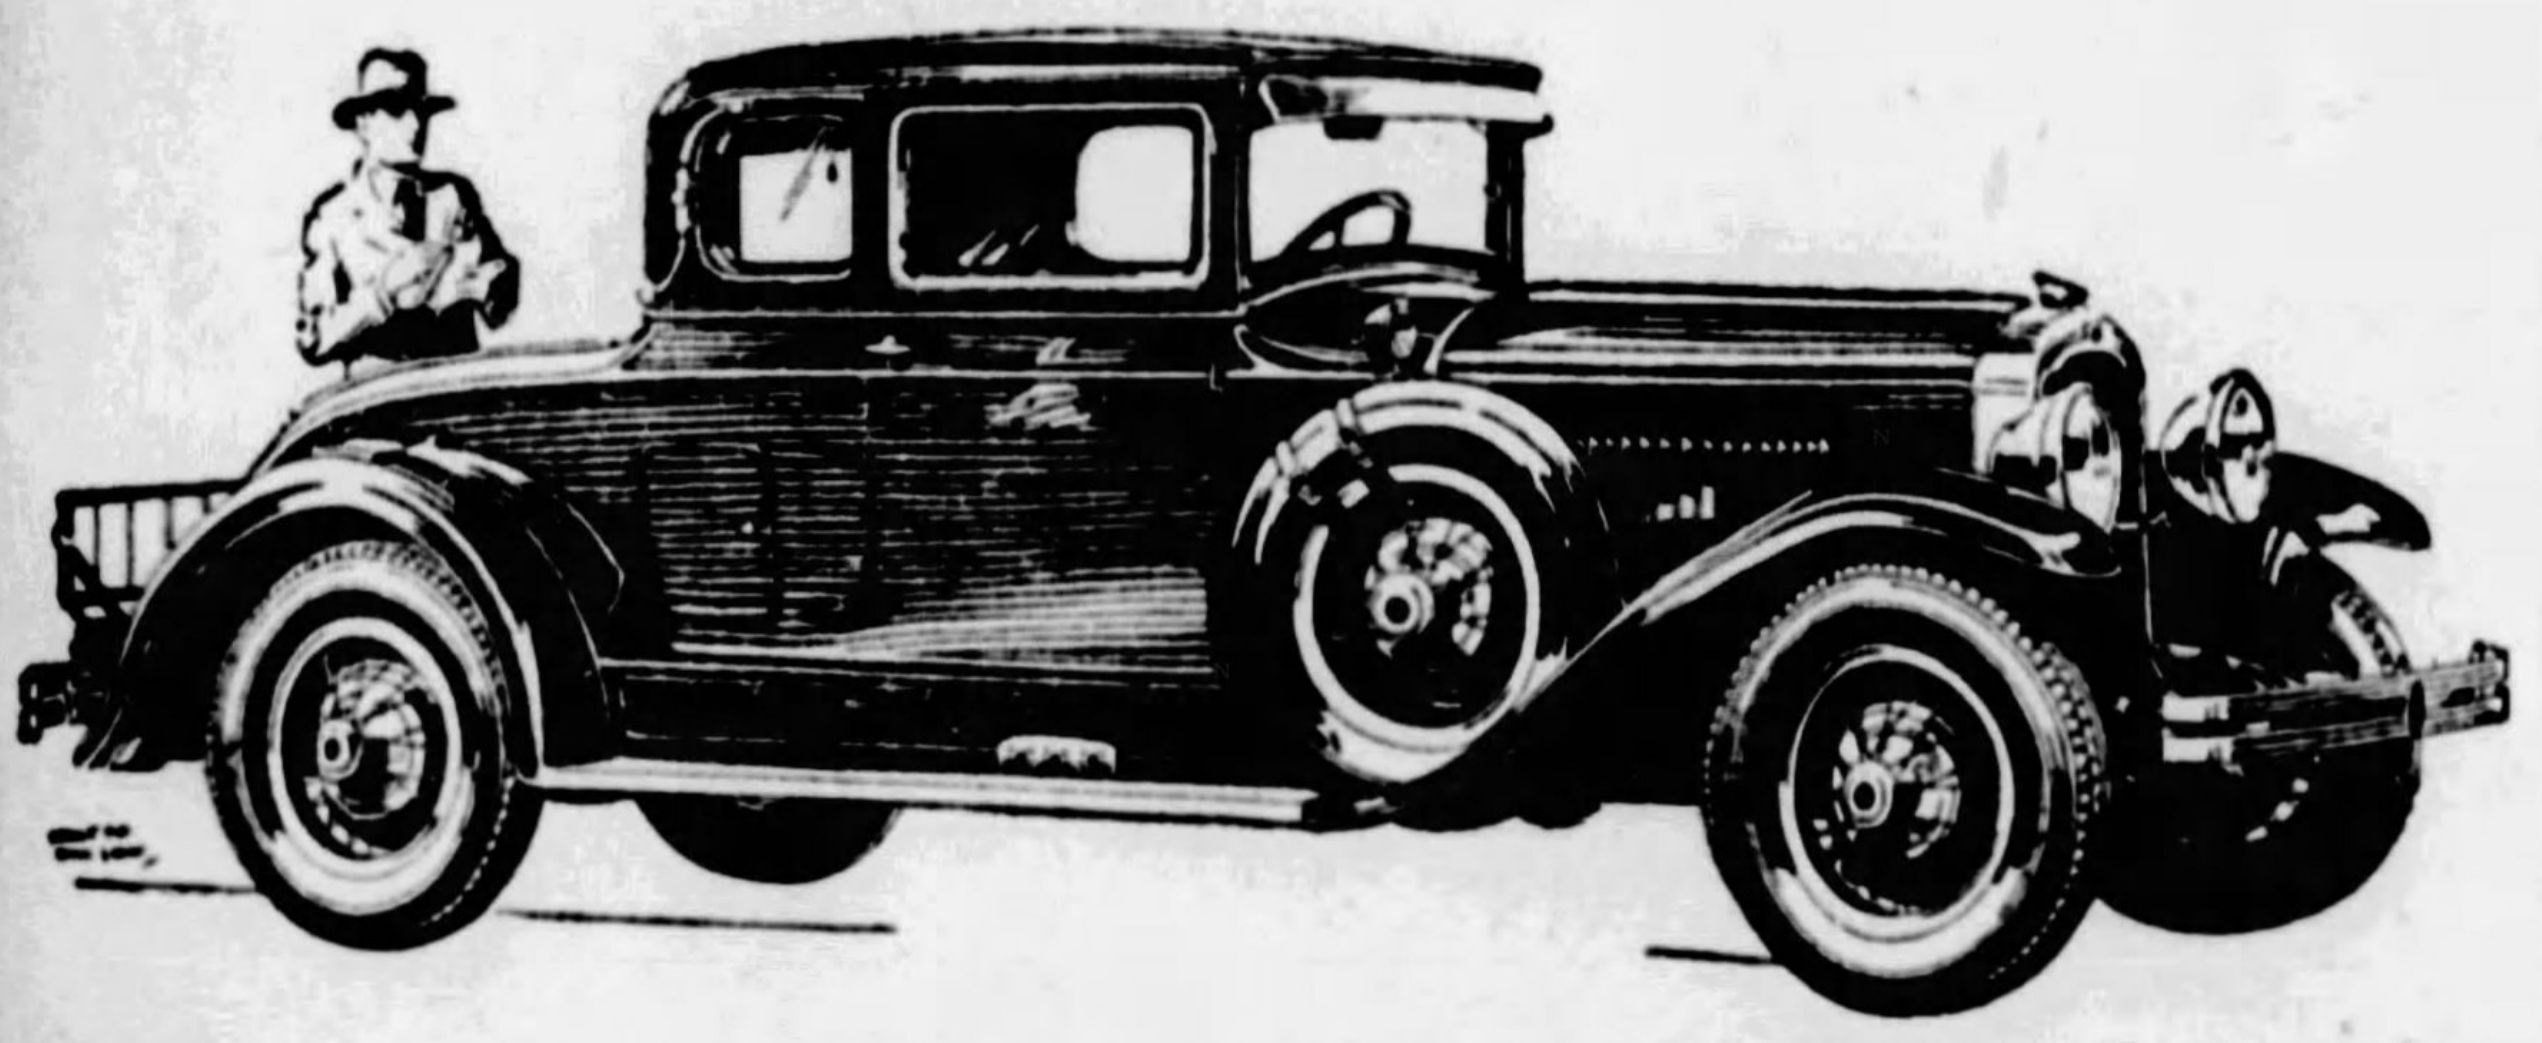
.. to do ALL THINGS WELL—as a pencil and five cent note book will prove



Almost every car that roams the highways and byways today is alleged to have some particular virtue in which it excels.

That you who buy these automobiles may have some basis for fair comparison, Reo makes this simple suggestion.

Try it out with each of the two, three, four, or more automobiles you demonstrate before you buy. A pencil and five cent note book can be your only tools.

After each demonstration jot down those things which impressed you most in the car you've just driven: the acceleration—the steering—the riding—the speed—the comfort—the style—or whatever the outstandingly impressive points may have been.

Do this for each car you try.

Then drive the Reo Flying Cloud of 1929 with your note book before you.

Check it on every point that each of the other cars did well. Check its top speed against the fastest of the others.

Stand off twenty feet and compare the Reo Flying Cloud's lines with the handsomest of the others.

Point it up hills which only a few of the others could climb handily.

Stop it on shorter notice than the best of the others.

Pit it against the flashiest performer you've driven when the stop light turns green. Take the rough roads faster than you dared to in the easiest riding of the other cars.

We know what your answer will be. For the Reo Flying Cloud of 1929 is built like the famous clipper ship for which it is named—built to do all things well.

RUN-DOWN WOMEN REGAIN STRENGTH
Find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound A Dependable Medicine

MRS. HELEN SEDIVI
1939 National St., Tacony, Phila., Pa.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I really can't express in writing how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. After my second baby was born I was always tired. I read so much of what the Vegetable Compound has done for others that I gave it a trial. It has certainly done wonders for me. I have praised it to single and to married women and intend to continue it. It seems that taking your medicine has made me a different girl. I also secured Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation and they have helped me wonderfully."—Mrs. Helen Sedivi, 4939 National Street, Tacony, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Weak, Nervous Woman Helped

Terre Haute, Ind.—"I have a baby six months old and after he was born I felt so badly I could hardly do my work. I was weak, nervous and run-down. I have taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and would not be without it. I feel lots better and am able to do my housework. I also take Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation. I would like you to print this letter in some of the papers for I have often heard remarks about your testimonials. They say, 'You never see letters from anyone in this city. It is always somewhere else.'"—Mrs. J. K. Monce, 1801 Blaine Avenue, Terre Haute, Indiana.

NEWSPAPER ADS BOOSTED BY FILM FIRM

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—An appropriation approximating one million dollars, to advertise Vitaphone, is announced by Warner Bros., the entire sum to be spent in the daily newspapers of the country. The selection of newspapers, in preference to all other advertising methods, states H. M. Warner, is based upon the experience of Warner Bros., with preceding national campaigns, when all methods of advertising were used.

"Advertising entertainment presents unusual problems," states Mr. Warner. "In every other line of business a definite line of campaign can be set and checked in such a way the firm will know exactly what returns come from any given medium. We have no such definite guides in placing advertising for entertainment, however, although the theater was among the first lines of business to use extensive paid announcements. We have conducted other national campaigns for our pictures and Vitaphone, and from each we learned something. Planning this campaign we made exhaustive tests, and, at the end, came to the conclusion that the daily newspapers, with their close and continual contact with the public, was the logical medium which would give us adequate return for the amount of money we planned to spend.

"It is not that we fail to value all advertising," said Mr. Warner, "for there is no form of public announcement that we do not use in our business. Because entertainments concerns a wide public, we must endeavor to reach every class of people. We use, at times magizines, weekly periodicals, billboards and have a radio station at our studio in Hollywood. But, taken by and large, there can be no doubt that, for entertainment income, the best possible results are derived from the daily newspapers, because they are the mouthpiece to the public."

MILK-ICE FUND PAST $1,600 MARK

Today's single gift to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund brings it to a total of $1,604.32. Now watch it grow to $1,700! The donation which took it into $1,600 came from Mrs. R. L. Williams and was for $5.

Sometimes hearing of the splendid work the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Milk and Ice Association is doing someone is prompted to make a donation, but in the hurry and stress of other and more personal things, the good action is forgotten. No matter how small the gift you intend making to the fund, let it be made today. The money is needed and needed badly by the association which has been operating under financial handicaps and stretching every penny to its utmost limit.

It takes only $1.50 a week to feed an association baby. But there are 300 babies. How about that kindly impulse you felt stirring just now? Isn't it worth $1.50 to you to know that you have fed a starving baby for a week?

The fund to date:

Previously reported	$1,599.32

Who Has Burning Sore Feet Corns or Bunions?

Healing, Soothing Unguent Gives Quick Relief or No Cost

No longer need you suffer from sore, burning, swollen, aching, tired feet, callouses or corns, bunions or blisters—for foot specialists have perfected a marvelous soothing unguent which makes foot troubles a thing of the past.

This amazing formula dates back centuries when the ancients sought relief from feet, burning and aching from hot sands of the desert. Just as those people of antiquity bathed their feet with healing oils and unguents, so you can get quick relief with Coolene, a marvelous cream, containing frankincense and myrrh in addition to penetrating, healing oils which soothe the aching, burning feet at once.

No need soaking your feet in hot, cold or medicated baths. No powder to dry, crack and blister the skin. No plasters, pads or dangerous cutting, which do more harm than good. Coolene penetrates quickly to the sore, aching tissues of the feet and relief is had because you reach the source of the trouble. Vanishes instantly. Ivory-white—cannot stain. Get Coolene tonight at any good drug store. Must wake up with a new pair of feet or money back. Get Coolene today at any good drug store, such as May Drug Stores.

HOOVER TO RETURN EAST SOON

International News Service.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Aug. 16.—Herbert Hoover will leave Los Angeles at 6:30 p. m. tomorow for the East, follow-a busy day as guest of honor in several Southern California cities. The Republican presidential nominee today approved plans for a monster reception for him at Los Angeles and neighboring towns.

Party leaders in Arizona have planned to meet their standard bearer at Williams, Ariz., shortly after noon Saturday. Hoover and his party plan to visit Grand Canyon late Saturday, leaving Williams about midnight on their way East. A stop probably will be made at Albuquerque, N. M., but the nominee will not discuss politics.

Stops will be made Monday at Dodge City, Newton, Emporia, Hutchinson, Topeka and other Kansas cities.

The Hoover train is due to reach Kansas City, Mo., at 8:40 p. m. Monday. Herbert Hoover, Jr., an instructor at the Harvard School of Business Administration, is to meet his parents and brother at Kansas City.

The candidate will go directly to West Branch, Ia., reaching there early Tuesday morning to have breakfast in the house where he was born. His speech on farm relief is to be delivered Tuesday evening before probably 20,000 farmers.

Two days will be spent by Hoover at Cedar Rapids, Ia., in conference with farm leaders. He will then continue eastward. Chicago is not on his itinerary. He is to cut off Chicago at Englewood.

The nominee is due in Washington, D. C., the evening of August 24.

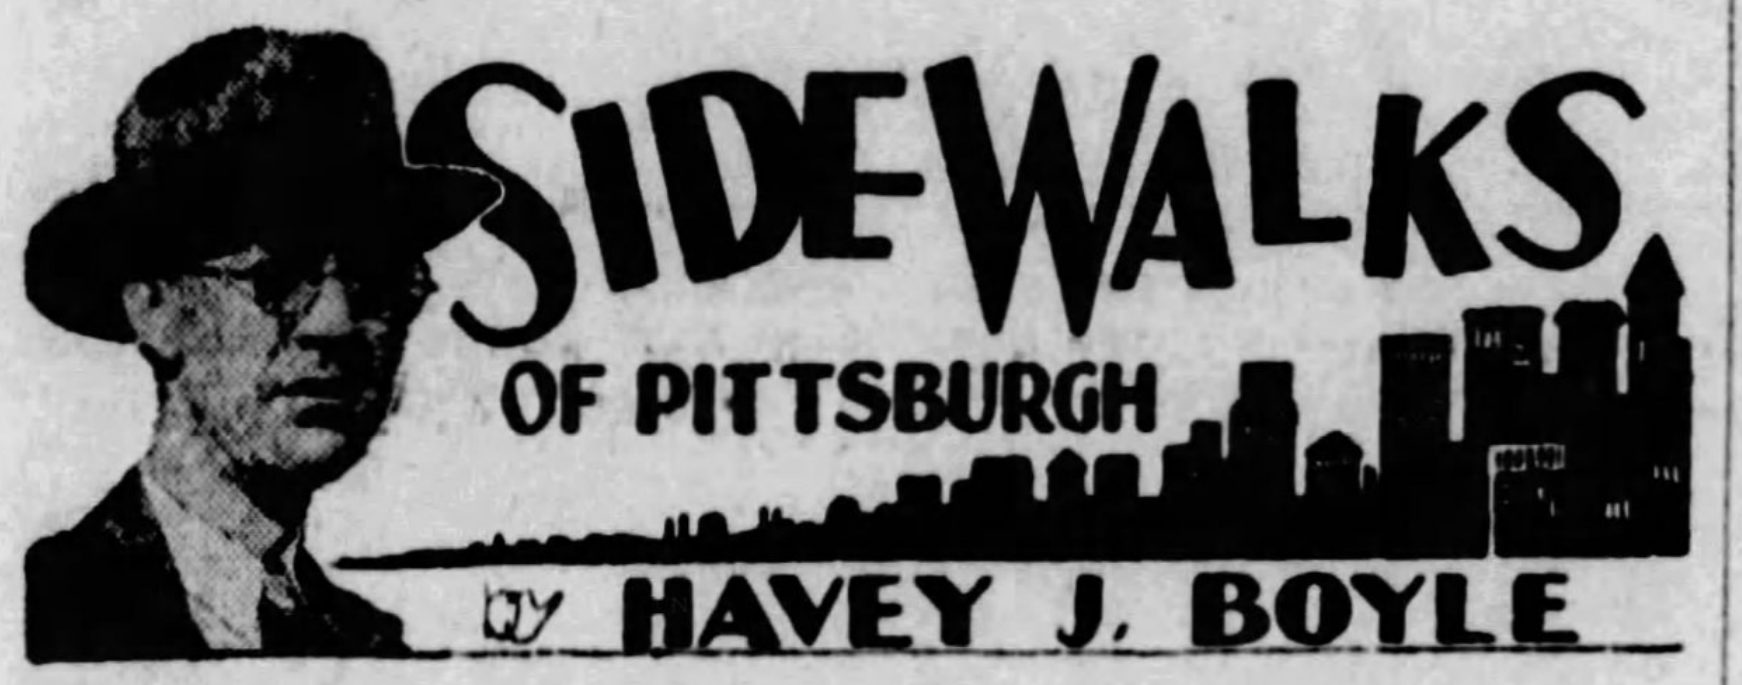
WOMAN HUNTED AS KEY TO HOLDUP AND MURDER

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—If Sheriff's officers can find the woman whose telephone message led to the identification of Angelo Francisco's body last night, they believe they have the key to the $12,000 robbery of the state bank at McHenry, Ill., Monday.

Francisco's body was found propped in the rear seat of an abandoned automobile, partly hidden by the tall corn in a field near McHenry, yesterday. There were 47 bullet holes in the machine, which was identified as the one in which the bank robbers made their escape.

The body was taken to a morgue, where Francisco's parents last night identified it. Officers wondered why the Franciscos came so promptly to view the body, whereupon the dead man's father, Anthony Francisco, explained.

Angelo, the father said, had been making his home with a woman whose name was given the police. This woman, he said, telephoned the elder Francisco late yesterday, suggesting that he look at the body of the man found in the automobile, in the belief that it might be Angelo. Police believe the woman knew about the plot to rob the bank, and feared to attempt Francisco's identification herself.



SIDE-WALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

ONE of the things that is interesting city people in the amusement line is the talking movies. The "sound pictures" have been nicknamed the "talkies," but it is probable that something more descriptive of the sight and sound drama will be manufactured. Probably a head-line writer, pressed for the right word, will come up with a good one.

Denny Harris, who is president of the Harris Amusement Company of Pittsburgh, thought when the "talkies" first came out that they would ultimately bow to the silent drama, but he has been forced to change his opinion by the way the "talkies" have caught on with theatrical men and the public.

• • •

MR. HARRIS reports that it is almost impossible to get "talking moving pictures" equipment at present. Three firms engaged in turning out the equipment have on their books orders that cause them to make no promise of shipment earlier than a year from this date.

He adds that the "talkies" have not reached the state of perfection they eventually will find, but that rapid strides toward perfection are being made every day. One drawback now is that figures in the background speak in the "talkies" as loudly as do the characters in the foreground.

INCIDENTALLY, Mr. Harris showed us a new mixed drink. At lunch time he mixed a glass of cream and milk with a portion of White Rock. We have seen White Rock mixed with other things, but never before saw it introduced to milk and cream. The new drink may be fine, but as for White Rock we're a little bit old-fashioned.

Discussion of the "talkies" brought up the question whether the state board of moving picture censors will be allowed to censor the "lines" in a talkie. It was the impression that if the law does not so provide now, it will as soon as the Legislature goes into session at the start of next year.

THE first "talking movies" we ever heard and saw were in an edition of "The Follies," in those days when the "Follies" brought to Pittsburgh in the same cast such notables as Ed Wynn, Bert Williams, W. C. Fields, Eddie Cantor and Frank Tinney.

There was shown a picture of Mr. Williams working as a structural iron worker, being assisted by Mr. Wynn. Both Mr. Wynn and Mr Williams stood in the darkened wings and spoke lines in keeping with the action on the film. Other talking pictures, of course, were the magic lantern slides showing bird life in Brazil, with the professor-lecturer pressing a cricket-like button to tell the operator to change the slide.

THE "talkies" are going to put a new value on dialogue writing, an art which the movies, save for an occasional sub-title, have been able to get along without. Now is the acceptable time for those youngish reporters, with plays up their sleeves, to make an advance on New York and Hollywood to crash the "talkies." There are possibly a lot of scenario writers in California, who are quite successful, but who will have to make way for dialogue artists.

For a reasonable consideration we'll send along the play that we wrote a long time ago. It has a great opening line. It is spoken by a butler. He, holding up both hands in horror, says: "Harf-pawst 10 and the mawster not up yet." We have always liked that one.

THE MAWSTER NOT UP YET!

ARMSTRONG CO. ANNUAL FAIR OPENS

FORD CITY, Pa., Aug. 16.—Practically the entire county turned out for the Armstrong county fair—the seventh annual exhibition staged here. In addition to the big display of livestock, farm produce, fancy work and other fair features, the racing program set for today was above the average.

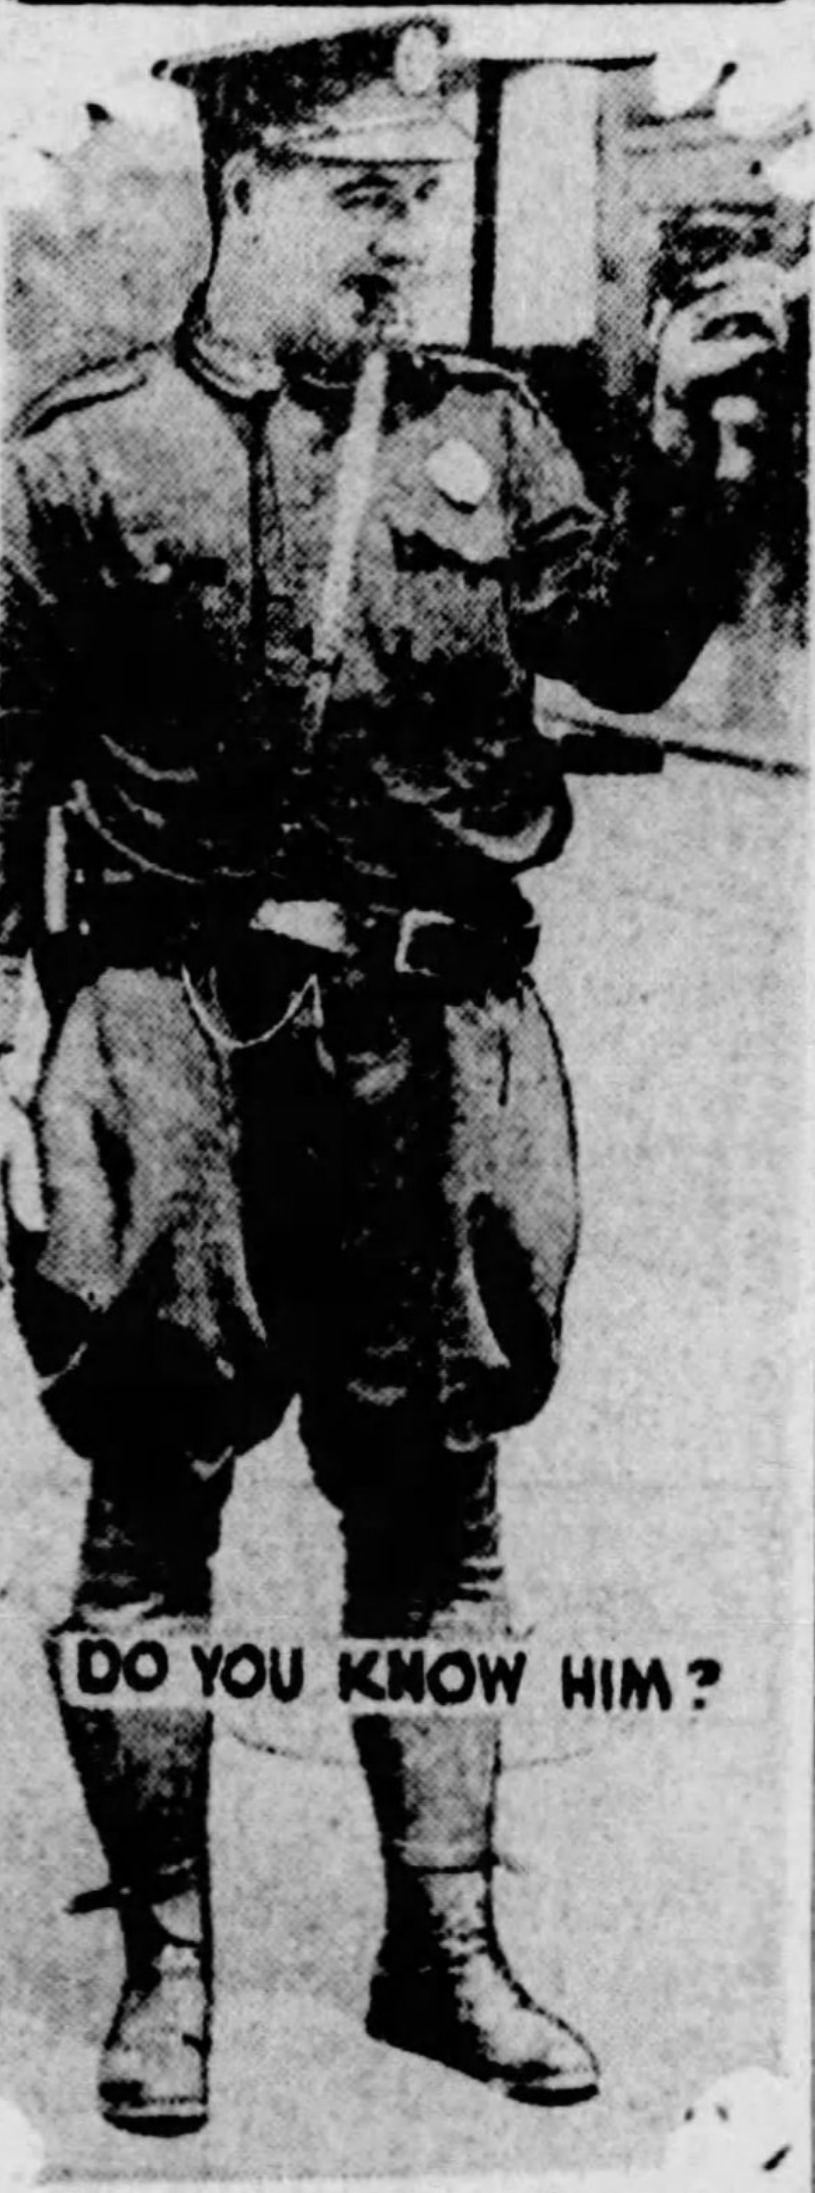
One of the largest aggregations of racing stables ever assembled in Armstrong county is now quartered at the track. One hundred and twenty horses are here for the race meet, which will wind up Saturday afternoon. They are the pick of the tristate territory.

Today there will be a special race between a horse and auto from a standing start. The distance is 200 yards. Numerous acrobatic events are carded and tonight there will be a bathing beauty contest.

$200,000 BIDS FOR CITY WORK OPENED

Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang today opened bids aggregating nearly $200,000 for city improvements. The bids will be tabulated and the contracts awarded within a day or two. Virtually all are for new sewers, repaving and rebuilding streets and for heating apparatus.

Do You Know Your Own 'Traffic Cop?'



DO YOU KNOW HIM?

MEET HIM!

Honestly, now, if you were asked, could you tell the name of the traffic patrolman on your corner, the one who speaks to you when you pass by? The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, if you can't, will help you a bit. Each day there is published the photograph of one of the city's traffic officers. Here is one for today. His name tomorrow!

YESTERDAY'S "TRAFFIC COP" WAS NORBERT GRANEY, MARRIED, 1037 ENSIGN AVENUE, WHO HAS SPENT FIVE OF HIS EIGHT YEARS' POLICE SERVICE AS A TRAFFIC OFFICER. HE IS AT SMITHFIELD AND WATER STREETS.

PRISONER ERRS IN ADDRESS

Ernest E. McFee, arrested as a robbery suspect at Avalon early yesterday, gave his captors the wrong address, police learned when he said he lived at 1715 Broadway avenue, Beechview.

S. P. Granovitz and family occupy the house at that address. They said McFee had made his home there about two years ago, before the Granovitz family took over the house. It is not known where McFee has been living since that time.

McFee was held for court last night by Justice of the Peace Arthur Davis, of Emsworth, charged with entering the W. W. Espy drug store, Avalon. Jack Bernstein, 34, of Aliquippa, is being held as a suspect.

Fight Dents His Silver Skull, Won in War

The silver trophy which C. H. Stevens, Homestead Negro, brought back from the World War was severely dented last night and police of the borough are searching for F. R. Geck, Negro, who is alleged to have put the dinge in Stevens.

A piece of shrapnel tore away the forehead of Stevens and the surgeons inserted a silver plate where the bone had been shattered. Last night Stevens and Geck quarreled over a girl and Geck is said to have struck Stevens across the forehead with a piece of iron pipe. Stevens was sent to Homestead Hospital unconscious and Geck disappeared.

RUNNING HORSE OWNERS BEATEN IN FIRST STRIKE

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Chicago's turf program at the Hawthorne race track continued today after a 10-hour horsemen's strike, the first in American turf history, had threatened to close the track.

The controversy between horsemen and officials of the Chicago Business Men's Association, which controls the track, was settled by an ultimatum presented by John C. Schank, president of the association.

In a midnight meeting Schank told the horsemen they would either race today or be thrown off the track. The horsemen then agreed to race.

Today's program had been threatened with cancellation following a controversy between horsemen and the management over the collection of 1 per cent of all purses to go into the general fund of the Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association.

Former Senator Johnson N. Camden, of Kentucky, led the owners in their objection to the 1 per cent being taken from winning purses.

The Horsemen's Association, however, refused to run horses against entries from stables not affiliated with the organization.

An arbitration committee was appointed by the horsemen to carry their demands to the Illinois Turf Association.

Operation Separating Twins Off

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The proposed operation to separate Mary and Margaret Gibb, 17-year-old Siamese twins, has been indefinitely postponed due to unfavorable publicity.

Dr. Francis P. Weston, New York surgeon who had charge of the case, said he has removed them from the private hospital where they were admitted a week ago. Dr. Weston did not reveal where the twins were taken.

PACIFIC AVENUE HOME DAMAGED $500 BY FIRE

Cain Seeks Sheriff Post

Capt. Robert S. Cain, county paymaster and former county commissioner, today verified the report that he would be a candidate for sheriff next year.

"The announcement made yesterday of my candidacy was a little premature, but I am in the race," Cain said. The law prohibits a sheriff from succeeding himself, and, according to rumors, Sheriff Robert H. Braun will seek another political office, probably a seat in City Council.

FAYETTE CO. PLANT, LONG IDLE, RESUMES

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 16.—After being idle for several years, the New Castle Lime and Stone Company, near Dunbar, is now operating with 68 men employed. A steam shovel is stripping earth from the rock, and L. D. Jones, superintendent, expects to increase his force.

STORE ROBBERS SENTENCED

Thomas Lauvers, 17, and Regis Hughes, 17, both living in the Homewood district, who were arrested in connection with the police investigation of petty robberies in East End stores, pleaded guilty to charges of larceny in Criminal Court today and were sentenced by Judge Thomas D. Cannahan to the State Reformatory at Huntingdon. Although he maintained that his age is only 17, it was brought out in the testimony that Lauvers is married and has one child. Lauvers also pleaded guilty to three charges of entering a building.

MORGANZA FOR YOUNG ROBBER

Pleading guilty to attempting to enter the jewelry store of S. H. DeRoy & Co., Smithfield street, on July 31, Stephen Conti, 17, was sentenced to Morganza today by Judge Thomas D. Carnahan in Criminal Court. At the time he was arrested Conti told detectives he had been paid $125 to rob the store, but he denied this today. He also admitted breaking into a clothing store in Ellwood City and stealing two shirts.

WALSH DENIES NEW SHAKEUP

Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh has no intention of further "shaking up" the police and detective bureaus, he said today. A report that the ax was about to fall on a hundred or more sleuths and police in the near future was branded as false by the police head.

The latest rumor followed the drastic changes made more than a week ago, when a police inspector, captains, detectives and lieutenants were either demoted or transferred.

INJUNCTION APPEALS FILED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The Lake Cargo coal cases in which the Interstate Commerce Commission was enjoined from interfering with a rate reduction of 20 cents a ton by Southern railroads on coal from Southern fields to lake ports yesterday reached the Supreme Court.

The cases, four in number, were appeals from a three-judge statutory court at Charleston, W. Va., which last April 14 enjoined the commission from cancelling rate schedules proposed by the Chesapeake & Ohio, Norfolk & Western, Louisville & Nashville and other southern railroads.

The court in its injunctions declared the commission should be prevented "from interfering with industrial conditions in the localities affected" and prohibited the commission from "forbidding a reduction of rates which will preserve a differential that has prevailed for many years."

After declining to order a reduction in rates of northern railroads requested by operators of coal mines in the Pittsburgh-Ohio district, the commission later reversed its position and ordered a reduction of rates.

Southern railroads then filed with the commission schedules, making a corresponding reduction, but the commission, after a hearing ordered the schedules cancelled.

The southern railroads at once sought and obtained an injunction to prevent the commission from interfering with their reduced rates.

The four appeals, docketed today, were brought by the government by the Barton Coal Company, the Pittsburgh Operators, and the Baltimore & Ohio and other railroads serving the coal fields in Pennsylvania, Northern West Virginia and Ohio.

The coal fields interested in the reduced southern rates are located in Southern West Virginia, Eastern Kentucky, Eastern Tennessee and Southwestern Virginia.

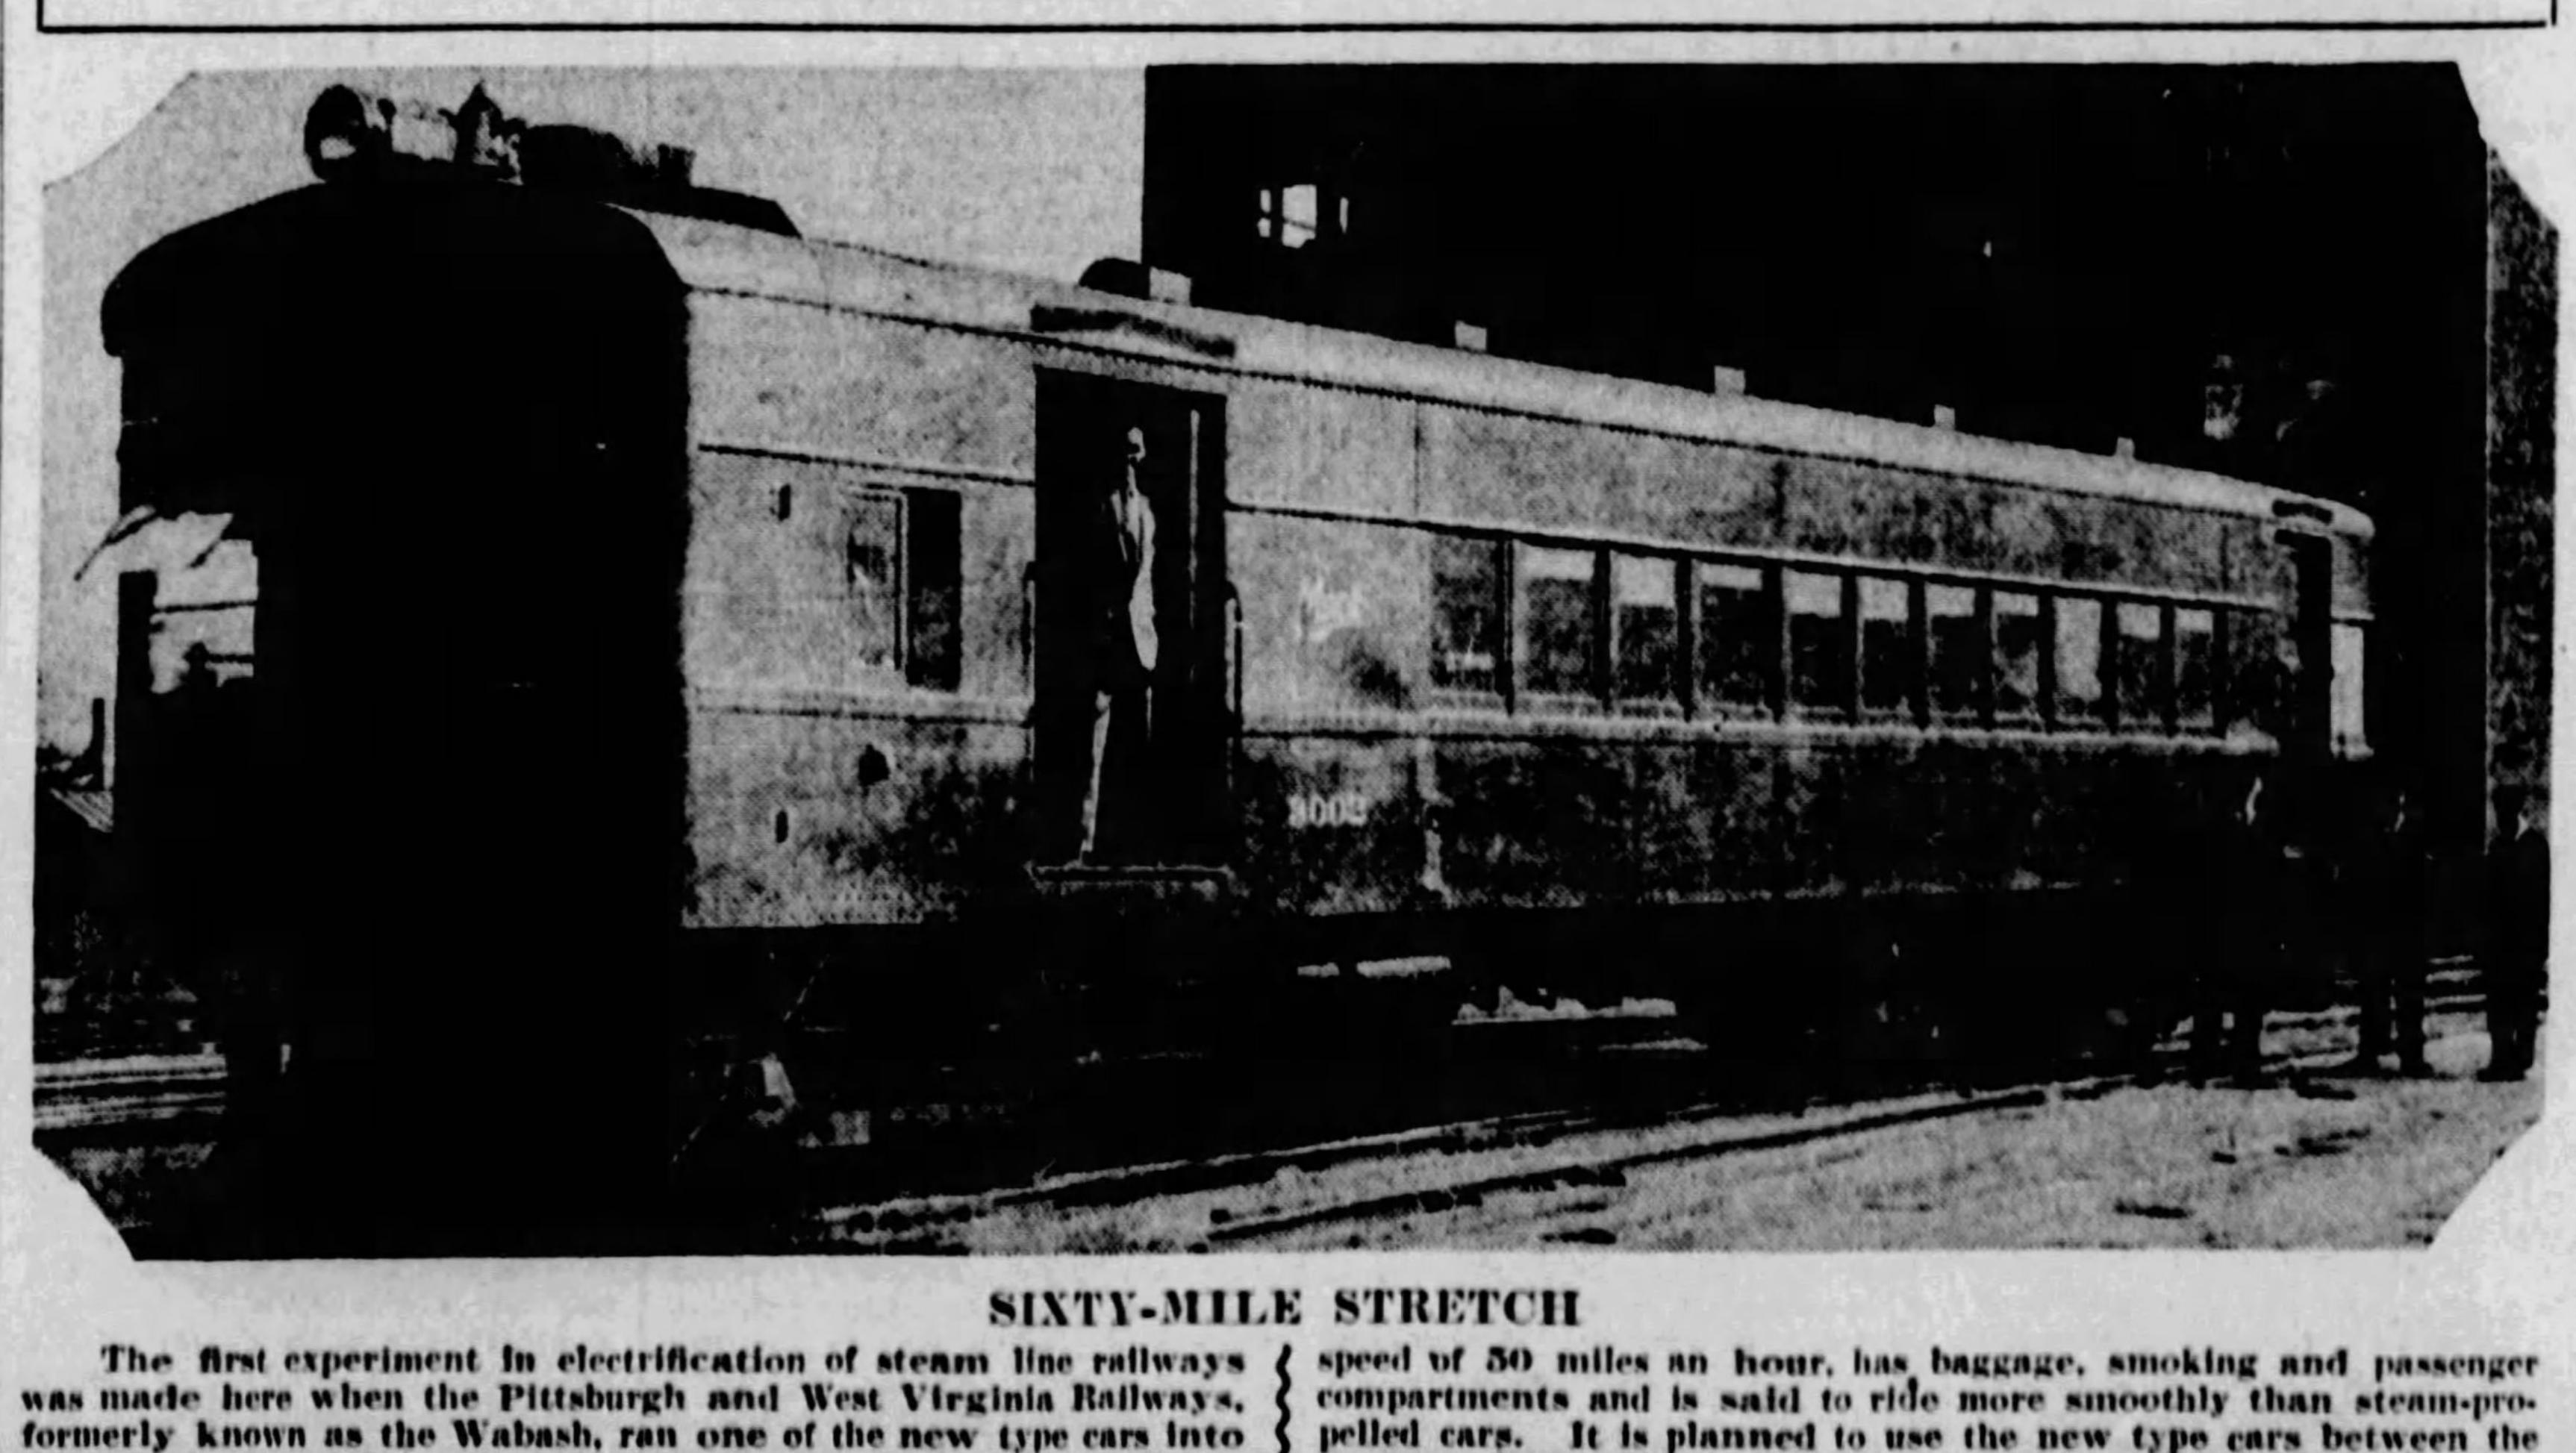
NEW TYPE ELECTRIC RAILROAD CAR TO RUN HERE



SIXTY-MILE STRETCH

The first experiment in electrification of steam line railways was made here when the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railways, formerly known as the Wabash, ran one of the new type cars into the terminal at Liberty avenue and Ferry street. The car has gasoline motors for the generation of electric current, attains a speed of 50 miles an hour, has baggage, smoking and passenger compartments and is said to ride more smoothly than steam-propelled cars. It is planned to use the new type cars between the local terminal and Pittsburgh Junction, 60 miles southeast of this city.

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 16.

See where Mr. Lowden now is complimenting Hoover, and on the other side, Charley Bryan, brother of W. J.'s, and also Josephus Daniels, the man that took the cocktail shakers off the Navy, are out for Al.

They say he is accused of being a wet. But he has never been accused of being a Republican.

All of which shows that when the votes are counted this fall that every party man will be where he generally is. No matter how bad any candidate is, he can't possibly be as bad as the opposing party.

Yours, WILL.

P.S.—Hoover will be here today. I hope he promises us Boulder Dam.

Marie Thinks Getting Out in the World Keeps A Married Woman Alert

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ione Farr, just out of high school, gets a position with Max Weimar, a music publishing house in New York, to which she commutes from her home up the Hudson. Her chum, Marie Karey, is engaged to Palmer Elliott, a young lawyer, whom she later marries. She is always holding up as a model Ione's married sister, Jenepher, who has a small son and also holds a fine position in a smart New York shop. Benz, Weimar's office manager, takes Ione to Tin Pan Alley, where she meets the famous song writer, Wolfie Speed, and later persuades Antony Ros, a matinee idol, to use Speed's new song, after Benz has failed. Weimar is delighted and increases her salary and gives her a much better position. Ione falls in love with Alan Blake, an accompanist, and they plan to be married as soon as Blake can support her. She is inclined to be jealous of Fluff Hartwick, a new girl in the office. Meanwhile, she gives up most of her friends. She feels that Jenepher is proving that a wife cannot hold down a job and run a household and do both successfully. Benz takes her motoring and she wonders if she is giving up too much. She tries to be nice to Fluff, but the latter repulses her and she has her first quarrel with Blake on account of her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

THEY were going to visit Marie and Palmer that evening. It would be Alan's first sight of the new home and Ione was looking forward to it with eager expectancy.

She felt a little odd triumph in the success Marie and her husband were making. She wished intensely for Alan to see. Prove there could be a glad, beloved home with the wife working outside—yes, he'd have to see. Perhaps he'd be influenced. Not so easy to give up her job now, even if he got Barns' place.

So she kept thinking as they met after work and rode gaily across the ferry.

On the train she said, laughing, "I see the Vine clinging your way, stalwart Lanny."

"What is it, a new one? Do I burst into merriment now?"

"Oh, some of us call Fluff Hartwick that. She's so clingy and cuddly."

"Gosh!" He turned to her with a glint in his eyes. "Lordy!" he said, coldly. "How you women love each other!"

"Why—but, Alan, I didn't give her the name. They call her that in the office—Eddie Benz to her face. She doesn't mind. I only was repeating—"

"Smart lot, they are! Little thing like Fluff Hartwick all by her lone and up against making a living! I should think you'd want to be nice to her, Io."

She said, through trembling lips, "I tried but she wouldn't let me."

"That's nonsense!"

She sat miserably, looking down at her hands. Their first quarrel—and over silly little Fluff Hartwick.

CHAPTER XXII.

HOW had this thing come to her? What evil could steal tween her and this boy she loved with every beat of her heart?

She had thought Fluff a pitiable thing of so small consequence as to be ignored. Yet now her very insignificance had become of tremendous account, a bewilderment and an anguish to one who had wished her no harm.

"The best example of the species vampire . . . knows the first trick Eve pulled for Adam's befuddlement and all the others invented since . . ."

This came back to Ione: Eddie Benz's half humorous appraisement of Fluff Hardwick. Eddie saw through her all right. Yet he admitted ruefully that against his better judgment he had given her work she would be too careless and too incompetent to do.

Not very strange that Lanny with all his young chivalry should be taken in. But that he would hold Fluff above his love for her!

She cowered before the hurt, mind throbbing. He saw her look of tragedy and spoke with the stinging impatience of the male who feels himself somehow put in the wrong.

"Snap out of it, Io, for the love of goodness. The woman is nothing to me. It just didn't seem like you, saying a thing about her. She's a pathetic creature, it bothers me to see anyone so futile. She oughtn't to be working at all, matter of fact."

Her thought cried, "That's the trick she's befuddled you with—oh, yes! You can't see and you'd call it nonsense if I told you. How can you?"

Thus she wrestled with the age-old problem of the Other Woman, sitting with her face averted and a tightness at her throat.

He went on talking of commonplace things and she managed to answer in a hushed way. When they got off the train in Lyall snow was falling—big, swirling, feathers that wrapped the trees in ermine and made a Christmas card of every lighted window.

She cried "Beautiful!" He flung his arm around her and they went more blithely through the drifting white. By the time they reached the top of the hill she knew he had forgotten Fluff Hartwick; forgotten, indeed, that her name had been mentioned.

Resolutely Ione tried to put the whole thing from her. But the best she could do was leave it as one throws a thing into a corner and slams shut a door.

Palmer met them, all friendliness, beaming with pride. He took them straight through to the kitchen where Marie was scurrying about in a bungalow apron, a streak of flour on her face. He stood with his chest out, grinning. "Ever see the like of her? Say, she sure can throw together a vicious chicken pie! Tell you what, boy, you don't start to live till you're fixed up like me! Come on; show you the shebang."

"Oh, give them a chance to take off their things, Pal. If you aren't the darnedest!" Marie eyed his stockiness with a melting adoration.

It was like a doll house, the place they showed with such pride. An overstuffed divan and chair, a small table and a floor lamp quite filled the living room. There were two tiny bedrooms upstairs and a blue and white tiled bathroom.

While Palmer took Alan down the basement to exhibit the marvelous furnace· Marie conducted Ione through all the rooms, bringing up before the console she had put in the dining room in the one bit of available space.

"Isn't it gorgeous, Io? Solid mahogany—tell you, it was worth saving for! Pal is that pleased. Do you know he seems to care more every day? Not only for his home, but for me? Sometimes I feel myself almost too happy." Her eyes were wet.

"Oh, Marie, why shouldn't he? Well, I'm beginning to think your way is right. I see now why so many women want to keep their jobs after they are married.

"It isn't only that the cost of living nowadays makes marriage hard for young folks. But getting out in the world keeps a girl alert. She doesn't settle down and grow stale and one sided with nothing but housework to fill her days.

"Marie, did you ever think the old-fashioned wife is in competition with the up-to-date women a husband meets in his work? While she is settling in household routine, beginning to let herself go to gingham dresses and the style-before-last bob, they're keeping step with the minute, always making themselves alluring with pretty clothes and the knicknacks that count so much to appearance?"

"Why Io!" Marie gave her a sharp look. "A husband loves his wife for what she is whether she's in gingham or satin. You sound like Jenepher tonight. What's getting into you? Too much success, dear."

"It's just that I've been thinking"—

"And don't forget it isn't the easiest life in the world. You get awfully tired. All day in the office, home at night and week-ends—no chance to go out without thinking of the dishes when you get home, and maybe the laundry to gather up. I'm not going to do it forever. I'm getting around to seeing it wouldn't be fair to Pal nor myself."

They were very jolly at the dinner table. Palmer kept telling how they managed. One night he would do the dishes, while Marie dusted and made the beds and gathered up the old newspapers and emptied ash trays. The next night they would change off. Saturdays a woman came to scrub and clean up. Marie paid for that from her own salary.

"BUBBLE—OR ALL THE WORLD?"

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

NOT many of us but say: "I'm not superstitious! I don't believe in it." And yet there persists—from the dim days when a savage girl (with a skin cinched tight about the middle of her body, leaving legs, that never knew any semblance of a shoe, bare to the primitive world of Winter and Summer, and a head that knew no hat, save a broad leaf to be cowered under in lashing rain), lifted her eyes from the yellow glow of the night fire to the cold glitter of the stars and wondered at, feared and worshipped them—there persists a seeking for signs of the destiny that waits her around the corner in the heart of the girl who has descended from her. She goes along with one bright eye cocked for the black cat, the ladder, the pin on the sidewalk, the delicate sickle of the new moon and the face of her beloved-to-be. And the heart of a girl is eternally optimistic. It does not matter how dark signs are and how tattered her belief in a beautiful fate has become through saturation in the atmosphere of a hurrying, unsentimental world, she always really believes that nothing but the fairest fortune, the most wonderful love, is to be hers in the end, with nothing but the old-fashioned ending, "happy ever after," to follow after. And Cupid helps a lot in his myriad of appearances. For he seems to besprinkle the world as though there were millions of him, in all sorts of character.

Now he's skinny. Now he's short and pudgy. Now he's an angel with huge wings. Now he's comic, with nubbins that would never get you any farther than a bungalow for two. Now he's Karmi—god of dreams and walker in Paradise.

But whatever he is or appears to be, he is an untiring blower of bubbles, each with the face of your fate in it, if you choose to believe.

He tosses them into the air and calls, "KNOW YOUR FATE. Only a moment of your time. Stop long enough to believe the most ancient forecaster. Look into this rainbow globe and see your destiny—the man you are to meet and love!"

And very few girls go by with a cynical eye!

Faces kind, saturnine, dark, fair, young, older and wiser, understanding, luring, movie-heroish, stout and clever, plain and good, worshipful, domineering.

"Will I know him? WHICH is he? This wizard shows me a cloud of faces and doesn't say. But I know I'll know. One always knows."

That would be wonderful if a girl always did! Love doesn't help. He just shows his wares and calls his call.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

PASSING THE PAPRIKA

A MAN'S heart is always awakened by love—but after marriage it is so apt to roll over and go right back to sleep again.

A man can always make a fool of a woman who loves him—provided she doesn't beat him to it by making a fool of herself.

It is a bitter shock to a man's vanity to discover that the girl to whom he has been making love just for a pastime has just been letting him do it merely as a little diversion between two serious love affairs.

• • •

A man usually figures that if he is only half an hour late, his wife is sure to be peeved; but if he can stay out long enough for her to visualize him lying on a stretcher, she will fall on his neck with relief instead of with reproach.

HELEN ROWLAND

One of a man's sweetest forms of philanthropy consists in making love to all the women he is sure won't take him seriously, and thus helping them to hold onto their vanity without letting go of his freedom.

The thing that wears a man all out around the house is having to spend half his time explaining why he didn't do the things he ought to have been doing the other half.

• • •

Nothing makes a man so desperately sure that he WANTS a woman as her effort to convince him that he doesn't.

• • •

The only thing that makes a woman more nervous than having a man off somewhere else when he ought to be at home is to have him hanging around the house when he ought to be somewhere else.

• • •

The richest lovers often make the poorest husbands; probably because the man who has the money to change his automobile every year usually has the time and the impulse to change his heart just as often.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, August 17

THE single lunar transit, Moon in square aspect with Saturn, marks this as a day for dogged determination and resolution to forge ahead and wrench success and ultimate reward from stubborn obstacles and many postponements and procrastinations. Only diligence and faithful service, patience and perseverance will promote the best interests. Personally, there may be unconventional affairs.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of persistent effort and patient service if success is to be wrenched from delays and tenacious obstacles. These promise eventual recognition. Discretion in personal matters is admonished.

A child born on this day should be fitted for a life in which there may be many obstructions and vicissitudes to be surmounted. It should be schooled in patience and perseverance in early infancy.

Reward comes from faithful service.—EMERSON.

Madge's Sympathy Turns to Eleanor Lincoln

IT WAS only for a few minutes that I permitted Philip Veritzen's patent boredom at the beach picnic festivities to spoil my own zestful enjoyment of the moonlight singing which marked the close of our busy day. I realized fully, of course, and with chagrin, that it was at my recommendation he had chosen this particular form of entertainment when at Lillian's broad hint he had proposed "throwing a party" for her. But both common sense and resentment told me that my employer was simply a spoiled child whose exotic tastes and training made it impossible for him to enjoy anything as primitive as the doings of the day just ended. If I permitted his reaction to detract from the enjoyment of the evening I should be as foolish as he.

I knew that Lillian's gibing had disposed effectively of any intention on his part of breaking up the affair earlier than our usual time of departure, and I settled back against the sand heap over which my blanket was spread and joined enthusiastically in the old songs which, led by Noel's violin, we were sending out over the moonlit ocean.

But I found that something more troublesome than Philip Veritzen's ennui was subtly shadowing my enjoyment of the evening. The light of the moon fell full upon Eleanor Lincoln's features, and I noticed that even though softened by that kindliest of all lights, there was a certain suggestion of haggardness totally incongruous with the fresh young beauty of her face. Remorsefully I remembered Mrs. Ticer's tale of the terror signified by an owl hooting to which she believed the girl was being subjected, and scored myself that unwittingly I had permitted my prejudice against my young neighbor—an evanescent intangible thing at best—to invest my attitude toward her. She sorely needed a friend—Lillian and I had agreed upon that point, and as her teacher, even for a short time, mine was the opportunity.

She was seated between Dicky and Noel Veritzen, but she was talking to neither. Junior, as always upon the beach picnics, was cuddled in his father's arms, but for the first time since we had brought him to the beach he was not asleep, evidently intent upon fulfilling his announcement that he meant to stay awake until we went home. His questions were keeping Dicky busy, while Noel was so palpably distrait as he watched Mary and young Mr. Jackson seated close together upon an upturned boat and singing zestfully, that he might as well have been a mile away as far as entertaining his neighbor was concerned.

They were but a few feet from me and with a sudden impulse I leaned forward and called to her.

"You don't look comfortable on that sand heap, Miss Lincoln. Won't you come over here and share mine? It really is like a comfortable sofa."

She sprang to her feet with such alacrity and so lithe a movement that both Dicky's outstretched hand and Noel's were left ridiculously suspended in the air.

"Thank you so much," she said brightly. "I really have been envying you that seat."

"Why didn't you come over before?" I reproached her.

"I didn't quite dare to come unasked," she returned, but there was a curious quirk of inflection as if she were surprised at her own meekness.

I dropped my voice to a murmur, tried to invest it with sympathy and kindliness.

"Am I so formidable then?" I asked. "Truly, I'm sorry. I don't mean to be. I don't wonder you think so, though, after our last lesson. I am afraid that I did not afford you sufficient opportunity for asking aid of me. But when you come in again on Tuesday I'll try to straighten out the lessons for you. I want you to believe that I stand ready to help you in any way at any time."

Chicken in the Shell.

Put a carefully prepared young chicken into a kettle with a quart of water, a slice of bacon, a sliced onion, half a bay leaf, a few cloves, a few sprays of celery and a blade of mace. Simmer, covered, for an hour then lift the chicken and remove the meat from the bones discarding the skin. Dice the meat. Melt together in a saucepan a tablespoonful each of butter and flour, cook two minutes then add a half pint of cream. Stir until the sauce is smooth and is thickened then add a tablespoonful of sliced truffles, two dozen fresh mushrooms chopped fine, pepper, salt, a saltspoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of worcestershire sauce, then the chicken. Let stand until hot then break in the yolks of two fresh eggs, cook two minutes gently, then stir in a wineglass of sherry jelly. Serve in buttered baking shells that have been heated.

Treating Snake Bite to Prevent Poisoning

IN the late summer and early fall we are apt to run across the dangerous snakes. When the water drys up in the hills and mountains, the snakes come down into the low-lands. They are seeking water and food.

DR. COPELAND

Comparatively few persons are bitten by snakes. Very few persons are bitten, probably because we hate snakes and avoid their haunts. So inborn is the dread of serpents that we look askance upon the occasional individual who says he likes them.

Fatal effects from snake bites in North America are extremely rare.

The immediate local effect of a snake bite is trifling. The danger comes from the effects of the poison upon the heart and nervous system. The purpose of any treatment which may be applied is to prevent the poison from getting into the general blood supply. When this takes place the poison is carried to every part of the body.

If the hand or foot has been wounded, a ligature of some sort should be tightly tied about the limb, above the wound or between the wound and the heart.

The wound should be sucked out and washed with soap and water if they are available. No harm will come from sucking if the mouth is healthy and without broken tissues.

Permanganate of potash crystals, if they can be had should be rubbed into the wound.

There are various serums which may be injected, but these should be used by the doctor. They may be had on telegraphic request from the New York Zoological Garden or possibly from your local Board of Health.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Pittsburghers Kept Busy With Gay Social Season at Various Summer Playgrounds

FROM reports that keep coming in, it is evident that those folks who have gone out of town to escape the warm weather are having just about as gay a social season as we have here in winter. There are no debutantes, of course—at least no Pittsburgh debutantes—but there are all sorts of parties and dances, not to mention the yachting parties.

Just for instance, the A. Rex Flinns, who are at "Red Top," one of the Ocean House cottages at Watch Hill this season, entertained 20 guests at luncheon last Sunday at the Misquamicut Golf Club, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Jones, III, had about five guests at luncheon at the club on the same day. And on Tuesday, Mrs. William N. Frew and Mrs. William J. Holland, who are both guests for the summer at the Ocean House, gave a bridge tea at the club. They had about 10 tables, I believe.

CLASS OF 1927 -:- MT. MERCY ALUMNI TO MEET -:- LUNCHEON SATURDAY

DOROTHY W. CRANNELL

Miss Dorothy W. Crannell is general chairman for the reunion Saturday of the class of girls graduated from Mt. Mercy Academy in 1927.

VIRGINIA GROSS

Miss Virginia Gross will be the toastmistress at the luncheon, part of the reunion celebration of the Mt. Mercy Academy girls of 1927.

HEDWIG SUMERAC

Miss Hedwig Sumerac is chairman in charge of arrangements for the luncheon Saturday. After the luncheon, there will be a theater party.

From Spring Lake, in New Jersey, I hear that Mrs. T. Clifton Jenkins, of Morewood avenue, gave a large bridge tea yesterday afternoon at her villa, "Swanhurst." Mrs. Jenkins has been doing a lot of entertaining this summer, and at this particular party she had a most distinguished guest of honor, Mrs. A. Harry Moore, wife of the governor of New Jersey.

Elizabeth and Clara Jenkins assisted their mother in entertaining the guests, and another aide was Laura Worthington, of New York.

AND speaking of the Jenkinses, I understand that Mrs. Alfred E. Jenkins has arrived in New York on the Lapland after a trip abroad, and is making a short stay at the St. Regis before coming home. Also in New York are the Newton Chapins, who are stopping at the Savoy-Plaza, and Mrs. Simon Patterson, who is at the Barclay.

THERE was a small wedding on Tuesday at noon in which I am sure you will be interested. It was that of Marie Henrietta Thorne, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John M. Thorne, of the Schenley Farms Terrace, and Frederic L. Bishop, also of Schenley Farms Terrace. They were married in the Church of the Ascension by the rector, the Rev. Dr. H. Boyd Edwards, and the bride's small niece, Jean Reineman, was her only attendant. Frederic L. Bishop, Jr., was the best man.

After the ceremony there was a breakfast for the immediate families at the Twentieth Century Club. Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are going to spend their honeymoon abroad, I understand.

ONE of next season's debutantes is out of town just now, too. She is Margaret Holdship, daughter of the Charles Frederick Holdships, of Sewickley, and with Amelia Davis, of Woodland road, Sewickley, she is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Twing Brooks, of Beaver road, Edgeworth, at their summer home at Gables, Hyannisport, Cape Cod.

Among other Sewickleyans who are away are the Frank W. Jarvises and Dorothy, who have left to spend about 10 days at Cambridge Springs. And I hear that the George Cass Hutchinsons, of Broad street, Sewickley, are back home again after spending a fortnight at Soo Nepi Park Lodge, Soo Nepi Park, N. H.

THE marriage of Miss Jacqueline Jackson, of Houston, Tex., and Pittsburgh, and James F. Grady, newly elected president of the Pittsburgh Academy, was solemnized last Thursday at 5 o'clock in the Community Church, New York, by the Rev. Leon Kosser Land. Miss Rose Walters was maid of honor, and Charles Corbett, of New Rochelle, was best man. A supper in Giolito's Italian Cedar Garden followed the ceremony, with just a few close friends attending. After an eastern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Grady will be at home in South Millvale avenue. The bride, who is a daughter of Judge John S. Jackson, of Alvin, Tex., attended the Lauterdale School for Girls and later was graduated from the Edmundson Hospital Training School for Nurses, Council Bluffs, Ia. She also was graduated from the Pittsburgh Academy and is now a special student at the University of Pittsburgh. Mr. Grady is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Grady, of Boston, and is a graduate of Boston College.

AT 9 o'clock yesterday morning in Sacred Heart Catholic Church, the marriage of Miss Rose-Marie Green, of the East End, and John Edgar Huntington Allen, of Lexington, Ky., was solemnized. Miss Marjorie Kretz, of the East End, was maid of honor, and D. Baldwin Perrin, of Virginia, was best man. A breakfast for the bridal party followed the ceremony in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club. Mr. and Mrs. Allen are motoring to Mr. Allen's home in Kentucky and later will drive to Bradford, where they will be guests of honor at a reception to be given by Mrs. Arthur McGregor. They will be at home after September 15 in the Georgian Apartments.

BEFORE an embankment of palms and ferns interspersed with yellow roses, the marriage of Miss Anna Grace Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Weimer Steele, of Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, and Blair Vallance McMillin, son of Mrs. Margaret McMillin, of Savannah avenue, was solemnized last night at 8:30 o'clock in the Steele home by the Rev. Frank W. Reber, of the East Liberty Presbyterian Church. The bride wore white chiffon and lace and her tulle veil was held with bands of orange blossoms. She carried a shower of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her sisters, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Dorothy Steele, were bridesmaids, wearing bouffant frocks of green and yellow taffeta and tulle and carrying orchid gladioli. Dudley McMillin was his brother's best man and John Martin was usher. Albert Reeves Norton played the wedding music. Mr. and Mrs. McMillin have left for an eastern trip and after September 4 will be at home in Jeannette.

MRS. BEATRICE CRAWSHAW CUMMINS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Garrett Crawshaw, of Homewood avenue, whose marriage to Gordon C. Walton, of Rochester, N. Y., will be solemnized Saturday night in the Crawshaw home, will have her sisters, Miss Margaret Helen and Miss Katherine Sands Crawshaw for her attendents. Fred L. Walton, of Rochester, will be his brother's best man and the ushers will include A. Francis Waddell, Douglas Dean, Walter Dauenhauer and Dr. Joseph K. Wampler. The Rev. R. C. Van Camp will perform the ceremony.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES N. LONG, of Sheridan avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Luella Long, and Harrison R. McCready, son of Robert A. McCready, of South Negley avenue, which was solemnized Tuesday. After a motor trip in the East, North and West, Mr. and Mrs. McCready will be at home in Pittsburgh.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. H. W. M'HENRY, of Stratford avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. West, of Squirrel Hill avenue, are home again after a motor trip to Bedford Springs.

STERLING COURT No. 50, Order of the Amaranth, will hold a card party tonight in the Moose Temple in Penn avenue. Mrs. C. N. Moore is chairman.

A CARD party will be given tonight by Pennsylvania Chapter No. 204, order of the Eastern Star, in the home of Mrs. Lillian Forsythe in Chalfonte street. Miss Hattie Ficker will assist the hostess.

* * *

S. M. COPELAND, of the Morrowfield apartments, is spending a few days at the Hotel Piccadilly in New York, and before returning home will visit friends in Massachusetts.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

JULES MASSENET'S picture of an Alsatian village during the Franco-Prussian War in 1870 will be a feature of the Maxwell House hour to be heard through the NBC System, including KDKA, at 9:30 o'clock tonight. "Scenes Alsaciennes," written in that year of sad memories for the French, is a musical series of four sketches: "Sunday Morning," "At the Tavern," "Under the Linden Trees" and "Sunday Evening." While the first three parts depict the quiet and peace of the village square, the last, "Sunday Evening," contains the roll of drums and blare of bugles, indicating the French retreat. Other selections to be heard include "Old Colonel March," by Shilkret; Godard's "Adagio Pathetique," a popular number in salon arrangement, and the closing selection, that stirring paraphrase, "The Evolution of Dixie," by Lake.

A program of operatic selections will demonstrate the versatility of the Goldman Band during the concert to be broadcast over WCAE at 9:00 o'clock. The program will open with the "Processional March" from Gounod's "Queen of Sheba." It will contain such highlights as the bright "Overture" to Rossini's "Barber of Seville," the "Ride of the Valkyrie" and "Magic Fire Scene" from Wagner's opera. During the same period listeners will hear excerpts from other famous grand operas by Verdi, Bizet and Rimsky-Korsakoff. The entire program will be more symphonic in nature than conventional band music. Edwin Franko Goldman, as usual, will personally wield the baton.

Another 30-minute program will be broadcast by the Hoover artists over the NBC System, including WCAE, at 8:30 o'clock. Lucy Marsh, soprano, and Lambert Murphy, tenor, famous to radio listeners as the "Hoover Honeymooners," will contribute two duets—the popular numbers "I Need Someone" and "Back in Your Own Back Yard." The orchestra will be heard in the Kahn composition "Will You Be Sorry?" and Dougherty's "I'd Rather Cry Over You."

The weekly encampment of the Flit Soldiers will be heard through KDKA and other station of NBC at 10:30 o'clock. The song numbers will include "King for a Day," sung by Sergt. Hare; "Everything We Like, We Like Alike," sung by Corp. Jones, and three duets, "F'rinstance," "Oh, Is She Mad at Me!" and "We've Got That in Kentucky, too." The Flit soldiers orchestra, under the direction of W. C. Polla, will play a special symphonic rhythmical arrangement of one of the better known classics and also a special orchestration of one of the popular tunes of the day, with vocal chorus by Sergt. Hare and Corp. Jones.

Knox to Match Wits With Knox

R. Knox will face R. Knox across a desk in the Federal Building in a prohibition case soon.

The first R. Knox, 45, was arrested by government dry agents yesterday in connection with a raid on a saloon at 352 Baldwin avenue, Hays borough, in which, it is alleged, seven gallons of whisky and 48 pints of beer were seized.

Knox gave $1,000 bail for appearance August 27 before United States Commissioner Roger Knox.

The Varsity Column

by Jess M. Carver

INTRODUCING TOBY UANSA of the University of Pittsburgh, and you may as well give the McKees Rocks pride a big hand now—for you'll be giving him one once the football season gets going.

Tony Uansa.

Uansa looks like one of the most promising ball carriers of this year's Pitt squad. Maybe he won't fill the shoes vacated by Gibby Welch—and again, maybe he will. Certain it is that he is a fast baby, and a hard hitter, with great possibilities as a broken field runner, being an elusive chap when it comes to the tackling of him. That last crack had an Irish sound.

He acted as Gibby's understudy last fall and filled the bill to a T. They said that Tony outshone Gib at Drake, where he tore off several fine long runs and scored a couple of touchdowns. He looked very good against Nebraska here, and went well against Wash-Jeff and Penn State.

AS promising a football marvel as Uansa, more so perhaps in that his physical proportions are such as to cause one to get the wrong idea of his ability and of the sort that do not make speed and agility easy, is big Karcis, of Tech. Karcis weighs over 200 pounds and is somewhat under 5 feet 10 inches in height. But he is fast and graceful despite his great bulk, and is about as hard hitting a player as will be seen in action in this territory this year. Karcis was almost unstoppable in high school, and ripped to shreds most of the lines he was pitted against while playing for the Tech freshmen eleven last year.

You can give this gent a big hand, too, and if you happen to be playing against him, you'd best give him mitts with a leg chain or bull rope into the bargain.

CY LUNGREN and Harold Dangerfield, two members of the Penn State backfield for the past three years, have been engaged as assistant coaches for the coming season by Hugo Bezdek. Both will be in college to continue their studies this year and will act as part-time assistants during the football season. These appointments round out the Penn State staff and will give the Lions eight coaches for varsity and freshman elevens.

Lungren, who is playing in the Montgomery County League this summer, is a former Germantown High School and Peddie Institute athlete. He followed up a brilliant prep school record with one even more unusual at Penn State. Last spring he was voted his ninth varsity letter after completing his third year as a regular on the ball team. Lungren previously had made three letters in football, three in basketball, and two in baseball.

DANGERFIELD played as a halfback and quarterback for the last three seasons, being used more often as signal-caller in the last year and alternating at this position with Lungren. He also played lacrosse, winning a letter in this sport last spring in his first season. With the addition of these student coaches, the staff will be made up of Hugo Bezdek, head coach and director of athletics; Burke M. (Deutchland Uber Alles) Hermann, freshman coach, and Bob Higgins, Larry Conover, Red Griffiths and Squeek Hufford, assistants.

STANTON HEIGHTS OUT OF PLAY

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

WITH margins of victory ranging from a mere half point to eight and one-half, four district country club golf teams, Allegheny, Shannopin, Oakmont and Highland, qualified to meet later in the season for the championship of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association league in a series of matches yesterday.

Stanton Heights, favored to get into the final, was eliminated by the Oakmont contingent by half a point at Fox Chapel. Oakmont scored 30 points, Stanton Heights 29½, Alcoma 9½ and St. Clair 8.

Shannopin turned in another rather unexpected victory at Westmoreland, beating the field with 26 points. Greensburg was second with 17½, South Hills had 16 and Fox Chapel 12½.

Allegheny won the matches at the Field Club, scoring 17 points, and at South Hills, Highland won with 25 points to the Field Club's 24½.

Bob Lyne and George Flynn equaled the course record at Westmoreland with a pair of 68's and James Fownes came close to setting a new mark at Fox Chapel with a 72 to head the individual performances.

Col. Joe's Son Sets Marathon Golf Mark

Joseph Thompson, Jr., son of the late Col. Joe Thompson, of athletic fame, scored a new marathon golfing record for the district yesterday at the Beaver Valley Country Club when he played 136 holes, according to Walter Andrews, professional there.

Young Joe, who is only 17, had an average score of 45 for his tedious grind, his lowest card for nine holes being 41, and his highest 50.

Thompson, according to Andrews, is none the worse for his experience. At one time Col. Thompson offered his son $100 the day he played 100 holes—and young Joe went his dad one better.

STAGG IS 66 TODAY

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Amos Alonzo Stagg, for 37 years coach of the University of Chicago football team, celebrated his sixty-sixth birthday today.

TILDEN, HUNTER MEET DEFEAT

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—In the most surprising day of tennis the eastern turf court championships ever have brought forth, Big Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, No. 1 and No. 2 in the national ranking and first two seeded players in the tournament were eliminated in the quarter final round. Both were defeated in straight sets, Tilden losing to Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa., 6-4, 6-3, after Hunter had been downed by 19-year-old Berkeley Bill of Austin, Tex., 6-4, 7-5.

After the first set, Tilden obviously was not trying very hard to defeat the former Lehigh player. His performance was far from his best and his heart did not seem to be in the match.

Hunter's defeat was not due to any laxity on the part of the second ranking American player, but rather to the remarkable game the young Texan displayed. Hunter made a game fight but could not cope with Bell's aggressiveness.

GIRL PLACES FOURTH IN MARATHON SWIM

CHARLEROI, Pa., Aug. 16.—Four of the 10 swimmers that entered the Monongahela marathon swim finished the eight-mile grind late last night with Wilbert Meyer crossing the finish line first. Albert Deitz, was second, John Kozon third and Miss Charlette Spridik fourth. The winners' time was five hours 18 minutes.

WEST VIEW SMOKER

A smoker for the benefit of the West View football team is being arranged for a date early in September. Stanley Phillips, well known amateur boxer, is in charge of the event. Phillips is negotiating with the best of professional and amateur boxers to show their wares for the benefit of the West View eleven. The smoker will be held in Masonic Hall, Madison and Pressley streets, North Side. Paul Muzzio, manager of the eleven, is in charge of the distribution of the tickets.

ACCEPTS CHALLENGE

DETROIT, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Upon his return from a fishing trip, Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, announced his acceptance of the challenge of Johnny Farrell, national open champ, for a series of matches for the "championship of the world."

CHICAGO TRACK CLOSED; OWNERS, HORSEMEN ROW

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Chicago's turf fans were without a home today and possibly for the remaining eight days of the summer meeting at Hawthorne.

A controversy between the horsemen and officials of the Chicago Businessmen's Association, operators of Hawthorne, over the collection of one per cent of all purses to go into the general fund of the Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association, caused today's program to be cancelled. Whether the track would be reopened tomorrow depended on whether the horsemen decided to fill their entries today.

HAMM WINS CENTURY IN SWEDISH MEET

SALCHOW, Sweden, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Ed Hamm, world's record-holder and Olympic champion in the broad jump, won the 100-meter dash in a track meet between American and Swedish Olympic athletes. His time was 10.5 seconds. Three other Americans—Henry Cumming, Henry Russell and Roland Locke—were second, third and fourth respectively.

Emerson Spencer of Stanford University won the 400-meter run for the Americans in 49.1 seconds, while the Yankee team also finished ahead in the 400-meter relay.

SPORT COMMENT

Poor Umpiring Marring Great Race in National League—Spectators Back Bush in Protest—Pitt Gridders Underweight as Training Season Nears—McGraw Takes Conservative View of Giants' Chances.

IT IS regrettable that what promises to be one of the greatest finishes seen in a National League pennant race in a long time is being marred by bush league umpiring.

Reports of off-color work on the part of some of the National League arbiters are being received at regular intervals from other points along the circuit, and Pittsburgh fans surely are in a position to join in the general complaint.

Donie Bush.

DURING the series with the Dodgers in particular, the umpiring here has been poor. Klem and McCormick have been wrong in a number of decisions, and both clubs have suffered.

The climax came yesterday when the Pirates were deprived of what would have proved the tying run through McCormick's ruling that Brickell was out at the plate on Hargreaves' single to right in the eighth inning.

MANAGER BUSH of the Bucs, who was put off the field after a vigorous protest on the decision, still insists that Brickell was safe, and in this contention he has the support of the majority of the spectators who were in a position to see the play.

Yesterday's defeat was only the third suffered by the Pirates in their last 13 games, and all three of the lost contests were dropped by one run.

THE Robins make their final appearance of the season today, and Burleigh Grimes, who has won 12 of his last 16 games and 15 of his last 20, will go after his twenty-first victory of the year. A win will give the Pirates the season's series against the Dodgers, as they already have beaten Robbie's crew 11 times, more games than any other club in the league has been able to take from Brooklyn. Grimes has broken even in four games against the Flatbushers. Carmen Hill has been Pittsburgh's most effective weapon in the season's meetings with the Robins, the bespectacled hurler having trimmed them four times in as many tangles with them this season. Remy Kremer is credited with three victories over the Dodgers against one defeat.

TO PUT additional weight upon some of his Pitt football players, instead of following the usual procedure of removing superfluous avoirdupois, is a new problem that will confront Coach Jock Sutherland when the Panther squad starts practice at the Windber camp next month.

Alec Fox.

Several of the gridders who have been working at the Stadium during the vacation period, marking off the seat spaces anew and burning numbers into the wood, have found the exercise the most effective kind they ever tackled in the summer months as far as the keeping down of poundage is concerned.

IN FACT, the work and the heat have proved rather too "successful" as a combination for the prevention of excess poundage.

Capt. Alec Fox, for instance, is down to 165 pounds, whereas his normal playing figure is 175. The New Castle boy fears he soon will look like a quarterback or halfback candidate instead of the powerful guard whose great work last season won the 1928 captaincy for him.

TOM PARKINSON, the big fullback, is another who shows the effects of the hot weather. From the viewpoint of the average citizen a man who had "fallen away" to 191 pounds would still have more than his share left, but that is below Parkinson's playing weight and he will have to go slowly when practice begins in order to pick up what he has lost. At that, Fox, Parkinson and the other Panthers are eager for practice to get under way, and the usual Pitt football spirit and enthusiasm will be as strongly in evidence as ever when the squad heads for the training camp on September 2.

WHILE on the subject of football—rather unseasonable though it may be in the present heat wave—it will be interesting to University of Michigan men and fans in general to learn that Benny Friedman, former Wolverine quarterback star, is going to appear in a new role when the 1928 season opens.

Benny Friedman.

Detroit will be represented by a team in the National Professional Football League, and the first move of the promoters after purchasing a franchise was to sign Friedman as captain and quarterback.

AN EFFORT will be made to get as many as possible of the former Michigan gridders who played with Friedman during the latter's final year in college.

Benny was with the Cleveland Bulldogs last season.

There will be 12 clubs in the league and the schedule, which has just been drafted, will be announced at an early date.

RING fighters in the old days often battled for side bets, but fancy the modern boxer, who is first of all a business man, foolishly risking his own money on the outcome of his bouts. Jack Curley, who assisted in guiding Jess Willard to the heavyweight title, has returned to the fight game as manager of Johnny Squires, South African heavy, and when the latest elimination series was being arranged he suggested each entrant chip in $2,500 for a jackpot to be turned over to the ultimate winner. Curley expressed the belief that if a fighter had some of his own money at stake he would battle a lot harder than if he had nothing to lose. No doubt he is right about that, but the other managers present were not eager to run any such risks and Jack was voted down.

Wilkinsburg Bill McKechnie, former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates and now serving the Cardinals in a similar capacity, is confident his club will come through with the National League pennant despite reverses suffered in recent games. The Cards are being pressed by the New York Giants, but Bill figures his team has the punch to keep in the front down the stretch.

CHILLY SAUCE

BY CHILLY DOYLE

THE Yankees continue to flounder, but the Athletics, on top of their remarkable spurt, find it hard to close in on the leaders. The A's had another fine chance to gain a full step yesterday; they were trimmed at the finish by the Tigers and are still four and one-half games in arrears.

The World Champions do not reflect appropriate qualities as they strive to hold to their honors. At times the Huggins Clan can look almost as sorry as the Quakers, judging by their play in the present crisis. When Tony Lazzeri was out, some of the critics argued that the Yanks missed the Italian boy in a manner hard to describe. But Tony is back and they still stagger.

IN OUR own league the plays of the leaders and their most serious rivals is far more impressive than the daily actions of the Yanks. The Cardinals sagged a bit as they were finishing up their long tour on the road, but they now are engaged in "teeing off" on the hapless Braves.

Those Bruins continue to make the road hard for the Giants. The Polo Grounders seemed to be in possession of the second game of the series yesterday, when they broke a tie in the ninth by scoring two runs. Noted for spurts on Wrigley Field the Bears ran true to form by scoring three runs and winning the contest after two were out.

THE Giants, however, will be very much in the race if they are able to get the better of the series with the Cardinals, which starts tomorrow. Larry Benton will be ready to work the opening game and Larry is a hord boy to trim.

Catcher John O'Connell and Pitcher Elmer Fulwiler reported to Manager Donie Bush yesterday

At West New York, N. J.—Gaston Charles and Petie Mack drew, 10 rounds.

FRANKIE FRISCH
RABBIT MARANVILLE
JIM BOTTOMLEY
CHICK HAFEY

HUSTLER

Sent to the Cardinals by the Giants in exchange for Rogers Hornsby, Frankie Frisch has won a warm spot in the hearts of the St. Louis fans by his excellent work around the keystone sack. Apparently dissatisfied with his connections in Gotham, Frisch took a new lease on life when he joined the Redbirds and as a result has been playing brilliant ball. He also is being boomed for the player prize.

SPARK PLUG

Rabbit Maranville, rescued from the minors when the Cards found themselves hard pressed for utility infielders, is holding down the regular position at shortstop. Rabbit got his chance to play regularly after Thevenow suffered an injury and his work has been of such high caliber that Manager McKechnie has been forced to keep Thevenow on the bench.

SUNNY JIM

Bottomley's brilliant performances at the initial sack for the Redbirds has placed him first in line for the most valuable player prize of the National League this season, many critics believe. A hustler at all times, Sunny Jim is regarded as one of the main cogs in the St. Louis machine. Bottomley slumped during the last stages of the 1927 race, but his work this year indicates that he is back in his stride.

SLUGGER

Chick Hafey, leftfielder of the Cardinals, is rated as one of the hardest hitters in the major leagues. Swinging from the right side of the plate, the Cardinal slugger has figured prominently in the club's climb to first place. Hafey seems to have the range of the leftfield walls throughout the National League, as the majority of his drives land in this sector.

SCHENLEY GOLFERS REACH FINAL

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

CONTINUING the brilliant play that has characterized her victories in the early rounds of the tournament, Miss Jessie Gould reached the finals of the women's city golf championship being played over the Schenley Park course when she defeated Mrs. H. D. Evans in the semi-finals this morning by a score of 6 up and 5 to play.

Miss Lucille Bejach, favorite to win the championship, defeated Mrs. Blair in the other semi-final match, 4 and 3, and will meet Miss Gould tomorrow in a 36-hole match to determine the successor to Mrs. L. G. Riley as champion. Mrs. Riley did not compete this year. Eighteen holes will be played in the morning and 18 in the afternoon.

While Miss Bejach is favored to win the title, Miss Gould is not without her followers. Those who have watched her sweep through the early rounds are picking her to make a

HEENEY TO SAIL FOR HOME NEXT WEEK

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Tom Heeney, unsuccessful challenger for the world heavyweight championship, is to leave next week for his native New Zealand accompanied by his American bride. Accommodations have been engaged aboard the Canadian-Australian liner Aorangi, which sails Wednesday from Vancouver and is due in Auckland, N. Z., September 10.

Tilden, Hunter Out Of East-West Play

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—For the second time in a month, the bugaboo of Bill Tilden's closing tennis days—the palyer-writer rule of the United States Lawn Tennis Association—has barred the outlawed ace of American courts from tournament play.

Shortly before Tilden, captain of the United States Davis cup forces, and his crack team-mate, Francis T. Hunter, lost their matches in surprising straight set fashion to two youngsters in the Eastern turf court championships at Rye, N. Y., the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association announced that Big Bill could not play in the annual East-West matches tomorrow and Saturday at Forest Hills.

With the statement of P. Schuyler Van Bloem, vice president of the association and a member of the committee in charge of organizing the Eastern team, that it would be "unsportsmanlike to use a player against whom charges are pending," the same situation arose that barred Tilden temporarily from the finals of the Davis cup play with France.

But unlike the situation abroad, where the decision was reconsidered and Tilden was allowed to play pending the outcome of his "trial" before the U. S. L. T. A. here August 24, there is no chance that the lanky Philadelphian will get into the matches. The lineup of players and time schedule for the 10 contests not only omitted Tilden's name, but that of Hunter as well.

The New Rochelle star, a close friend of Tilden, and ranked second only to Big Bill in this country, declared that he would not participate unless Tilden did. Mr. Van Bloem said Hunter's name was left off the list because he had not notified the association of his intent to play up to Tuesday.

SOX GET HOFFMAN

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Clarence Hoffman, crack outfielder of the Sacramento Senators of the Pacific Coast League, has been selected by the Chicago White Sox under their pick-of-the-club option in which Earl Sheeley, first baseman, was sent to the Coast League team this spring.

RISKO LOSES ON FOUL BLOW

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—One careless left swing to the body, landing deep in foul territory below the broad waist of huge Roberto Roberti, last night cost Johnny Risko as many defeats as he gathered in Tex Rickard's entire heavyweight elimination series.

That one punch, landing in the Italian's groin after one minute and 39 seconds of fighting in the sixth round, sent Roberti writhing to the floor, unconscious, but victor over the Cleveland boy on a foul.

Roberti, scaling 221 pounds to a meager 187 for Risko was the first of the man-mountains that have come along in Risko's career and passed by with their shields rather than on them. Risko, according to the Associated Press score sheet had a clear margin in three of the five full rounds fought while Roberti won the first two.

SHOOT AT CANONSBURG

Western Pennsylvania trapshooters are guests of the Canonsburg Sportsmen's Association today at the annual August shoot staged on the association's grounds on the Snodgrass farm, on the McMurray road, three miles east of Canonsburg. Shooting began at 9 a. m. and is to continue throughout the day.

THEIR two star shortstops beset with injuries, the Pirates are making a game attempt for recognition in the National League. They will tackle the Dodgers again today, the game to be the farewell appearance of the season for Uncle Robbie and his players.

The Dodgers had to have the benefit of the breaks to cop yesterday's contest. With Dazzy Vance up the enemy might have looked for a comparatively easy contest, but imagine their embarrasment as Dazmarine was shelled off the hill in the eighth. A disputed decision at the home plate prevented the Buccos from deadlocking the fight. The score was 6-5.

Burleigh Grimes today will try to avenge the result of yesterday. The only major-league owner of twenty victories pitched flawless ball in his last joust, but owing to the fact that Red Lucas was invincible Burleigh had to bow in a 1 to 0 contest.

SHORTSTOPS HURT

Both Glenn Wright and Dick Bartell are out of action with bad legs. Little Dick, who has been playing magnificent ball in the absence of Wright, reported yesterday with a badly swollen ankle. Dick overtaxed himself in trying for a ground ball on the previous afternoon. During the remainder of that day there was nothing to indicate that the sprain would keep Dick on the bench but when he reported yesterday the bad spot was in such shape he was ordered out of action.

In the crisis Manager Bush called upon Mack Hillis, Columbia, S. C. graduate. He played fine ball around second base and he won a lot of supporters in Pittsburgh by hitting a homer off Ol Daz. The drive, however, was an ordinary

LOCAL NETMEN ADVANCE

SANDLOT BASEBALL

by TOM BIRKS

THE Dan Heeps' hitting power at Oakmont in the Suburban League flashed the fact that Jock Collette's pitching ace will have to show some stuff in Saturday's game if the Hill club is to go any further in the Class A eliminations.

Riddell, playing third base, is one of the hardest hitting infielders in the district. Rankin, Miller and Trapp are all hitting the pill.

THE biggest attraction in sandlot circles this season will be the appearance of Bill Amos, famous Wash-Jeff grid star with the Canonsburg team at Sullivan Field on Sunday.

Bill is only one of the numerous sandlot stars that play on Hughy Turner's club, and this will be the first appearance of the Gunners in Pittsburgh in many years.

THEN McKinley, for many years a favorite around Lawrenceville will be in the game; also Ostander, classed by the writer as the hardest hitting infielder in the tri-state district on the sandlots. When Ostander takes a toe hold, the stands will see some swinging typical of Babe Ruth.

THE Jimmy Smith club, aided and abetted by Carl Stewart, won its initial game in the county loop at Born Field against the Homewood stars with another great crowd in attendance.

Carl Stewart must have gotten some kick out of that five-run lead given him by his mates. Stewart was right on top of form as in the Beltzhoover game. Carl would rather beat Homewood than any other club in the country, for the Homewood boy has gotten plenty of bumps when pitching out at the playgrounds.

QUITE a number of the Pirates attended the game as the guests of Jimmy Smith and got a real taste of sandlot baseball as played around Pittsburgh, where you fight for everything you get.

And incidentally, Bimmy Steele lost his first game in 18 starts. This is the best season that Steele ever had in this district, and after winning 17 straight, including the game with the Grays, Bimmy ran into Pat O'Shea's war bludgeon and lost the verdict.

STEELE'S wonderful pitching this season has been lost sight of in the hitting power of the Homewood club. Fans have become used to the East Enders getting a flock of runs that the pitching staff has been overlooked. In fact, the writer had not noticed it until a fanning bee in the East End brought out the fact. Bimmy is a real hurler and should get all the credit that goes with winning 17 straight games.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md., Aug. 16.—Near upsets featured the men's singles play in the quarter-finals of the Western Maryland tennis championships on the courts of the Women's Civic Club here yesterday. John Brown, Connellsville, who copped the district title on the local rectangles in 1920, brought the gallery up cheering by pushing Gwynn King, Washington ace and defending champ, to 3-6, 6-4, 8-6, in a spectacular drive and volley duel.

Later, G. A. Sawin, Pittsburgh veteran, carried S. Jarvis Adams, Jr., twice holder of Western Maryland laurels, to 6-4, 2-6, 6-2, in a hard hitting baseline battle.

King will encounter Bill McCabe of Coraopolis in the upper semi-final today. McCabe swept aside Paul Sullivan, 6-3, 6-1 yesterday.

In the lower semi-final, Dr. John O'Loughlin, West Penn title holder, is slated to take on the redoubtable Adams. O'Loughlin eliminated his teammate, Jack Lauler.

Lauler and Sullivan were more fortunate in the doubles and passed into the semi-finals by downing the home club, Felty and Scrivener, 6-0, 6-4. O'Loughlin, pairing with King, defeated a brace of rival squads, to attain the same round, despite occasional ragged teamwork.

Sara Wright, Frostburg satellite and ex-champion of Western Maryland, was close to defeat at the hands of Miriam Sullivan, P. A. A., finally winning 6-4, 5-7, 6-2. The win landed Miss Wright in the women's semi-finals. Elizabeth Hugus, of Wheeling, also slipped into the semi-finals, her victims being Margaret Coulehan, of Cumberland, and Mirian Wells, District of Columbia junior champion.

Mrs. Lloyd DeLloyd Thompson, Washington, Pa., flash, and 1926 and 1927 champion here, advanced two notches toward a third consecutive triumph by edging out Ruth Lynn, Cumberland, 1-6, 6-0, 6-1, and Frances Ebeling, Mountain Lake, 6-1, 6-0.

the ninth, set them back to three and a half games behind the Cardinals, all in the "won" column, however.

The New York players are reported to be still outspoken in their self-confidence in the matter of their pennant chances, but Manager John McGraw is more conservative. He has been through the mill too often to take anything for granted.

John McGraw.

"IF WE have a little luck on this trip," McGraw is quoted, "we may win. We've got a good team, a hustling team. But the Cardinals have the lead, a two weeks home stay ahead of them—and this is the middle of August. The chances are in their favor, but we'll put everything we have into a drive against them and we may be able to upset them."

FAVORITE MEETS DEFEAT AT WAYNESBURG RACES

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—Two straight heat victories and one split heat win featured the harness horse races at the opening of the annual Waynesburg fair here yesterday. Worthy Roberts won the 2:25 trot in straight heats and Davie scored another sweep in the 2:24 pace.

In the 2:18 trot, Tamerland, after running third in the first heat, with E. G. McKylo first and Anna P. second, came back to win the second and third heats and first money. Anna P. finished second, beating the favorite, E. G. McKylo.

LARGE CROWD EXPECTED AT BRIDGEVILLE RACES

Indications are that one of the largest crowds of the year will attend the two automobile races, scheduled August 26, at the famous Bridgeville Speedway, one of the best half-mile board tracks in the country.

Two races will be presented, the feature event of 75 miles bringing together some of the best drivers in this section of the country. Henry Coslow, manager of the track, has mailed out a number of entry blanks and judging by the early returns a strong field of drivers will be enrolled.

The qualifying trials will be staged at Bridgeville Saturday afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock. The first race on the program is a 25-mile affair.

National Public Links Team to Be Honored

Arrangements are complete for the testimonial banquet to be given Carl F. Kauffmann, champion, and members of Pittsburgh's national public links team in the Schenley Park Golf Club tonight. It is anticipated that the largest crowd ever to attend an affair of the sort at Schenley will be on hand.

The golfers will receive the first official City of Pittsburgh trophy in reward for their fine work in the recent national tournament, as well as individual trophies, medals and other prizes at the dinner. John Jay Burke will present the J. Frederick Byers cup, emblematic of the city championship, to Kauffmann for permanent possession.

Mayor Charles H. Kline, President of Council James F. Malone, City Council, County Commissioners E. V. Babcock and Joseph G. Armstrong, Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang and other distinguished guests will mark the gathering.

Tunney Sails Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Gene Tunney sails today for Europe—alone.

The retired heavyweight champion departs on the Mauretania of the Cunard Line unmarried to Miss Mary Josephine (Polly) Lauder, his fiancee and heiress to a $50,000,000 estate, to keep his walking tour engagement with Thornton Wilder, novelist.

A large number of Tunney's friends were expected to be at the dock to see him off late today, but Miss Lauder, it was believed, would not brave the avalanche of reporters and cameramen, even for a last glimpse of Gene.

Gene laughingly denied reports that he and Miss Lauder would be married in Italy, asserting that his fiancee would not even be in Europe while he was there. He said:

"The date for the wedding has been set and that's all I can say. I am a Catholic and I intend to remain in that faith."

This strengthened reports that Tunney and Miss Lauder, an Episcopalian, were to be married by the Rev. Francis P. Duffy, rector of Holy Cross Church here. The time of the wedding, it was said, would be in the fall.

Gene denied that he had been approached by Morris Gest with an offer of a star part in a Shakespearean spectacle. He said:

"I'd be highly honored at such an offer, but I have had none. Nor could I accept even if I had. I have no stage aspirations."

Asked what his career would be after he returned, Tunney said:

"A man's career is something he needs to think about. I won't say I haven't done a lot of thinking. Of course I have, but I expect to do a lot more while I'm in Europe.

"I'm telling you the absolute truth when I say I haven't decided what I shall do. It will be a business, not a profession. That's all I'm sure of. I'll decide definitely when I get back."

MRS. PRESSLER ADVANCES

INDIAN HILL GOLF CLUB, CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Harry Pressler, of Los Angeles, kept up the keen pursuit of a second successive western golf championship by defeating Mrs. Lee Mida, of Chicago, 2 up, scoring 41-38—79 in a hectic match that thrilled a large gallery.

The champion's third round of victory brought her into play with Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, who won a hard fought match from Gertrude Boothby, Minnesota champion, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Hill had to score one under par for 15 holes to down the long hitting Miss Boothby who had won the driving and the putting and approaching contests with Mrs. Hill second in each of those events.

Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, shooting a superb 40 on the first 9 and getting a lead of 3 up at the turn kept up good golf on the homeward trip and defeated Mrs. Elaine Rosenthal Reinhardt, of Dallas, three times champion, 4 and 2.

Dorothy Page, of Madison, Wis., 1926 champion, won the right to meet Miss Wilson in the semi-finals by defeating Miss Kathleen Wright, of Los Angeles, 5 and 4.

single that swerved far out of the reach of Rube Bressler and Arnold Statz, the rocket rolling to the fence.

Sparky Adams doing emergency duty, in the shortfield won the plaudits of more than 5,000 people who were out to see the excitement. Adams is no stranger to the position, he having played it many games for the Cubs.

The real hero of the Dodger victory was Joe Harris of very pleasant memory. Coulter Joe was up to his neck in the invaders' success with a prodigious homer over the scoreboard, a capture in the ninth that spoiled the tying run and other fielding features including the throw to the plate that caused the protest when Umpire McCormick called Fred Brickell out on the close action.

BUSH EJECTED

Manager Bush was ejected from the field for his forceful protest of the questionable play. The incident was an event of the eighth inning. With Traynor on third, Brickell on second and one out, Hargreaves singled to right. Brickell may have been held up by the thought of a possible capture of the ball and when he started for the plate Harris let fly with the rocket to Hank DeBerry. There was a big collision of the catcher and Brickell and Fred was declared out.

Vance was on the ropes about this time and when he walked Joe Dawson, Uncle Robbie yanked him in favor of Jess Petty. Petty weathered the storm, but in the ninth he had to have Harris' thrilling catch to save the contest.

With one out in the last round P. Waner singled. Barnhart batted for Grantham and popped out. Up came Pie and the fans pleaded for a hit. Pie's sock to right-center looked like the punch needed to put the team back in the game, but the smart Harris was playing well up toward the pocket and after a good start he made a tumbling catch of the ball.

O'LOUGHLIN, GOODMAN WIN IN TOURNAMENT

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Junior and boy tennis stars competing for the national championships on the courts of Culver Military Academy confined their efforts to doubles yesterday. The singles are already down to the last eight in each division.

I. Goodman and William O'Loughlin, Pittsburgh entrants, defeated Fred Brace, Pontiac, Mich., and Martin Buxy, Miami, Fla., 6-0, 6-2.

and worked out under the direction of the Pirate boss. The newest recruits will get plenty of opportunity to show their skill here. The team is in need of a reliable catcher, in particular.

WITH 1,000 of the apple boosters in attendance to swell the throng that was out to watch Ol' Dazmarine in action, the crowd at yesterday's game was unusual. Vance always is a good attraction, and of late Fred Fussell has won many admirers who delight in seeing the smooth left-hander perform. Fussell had the odds and breaks against him in his latest showing.

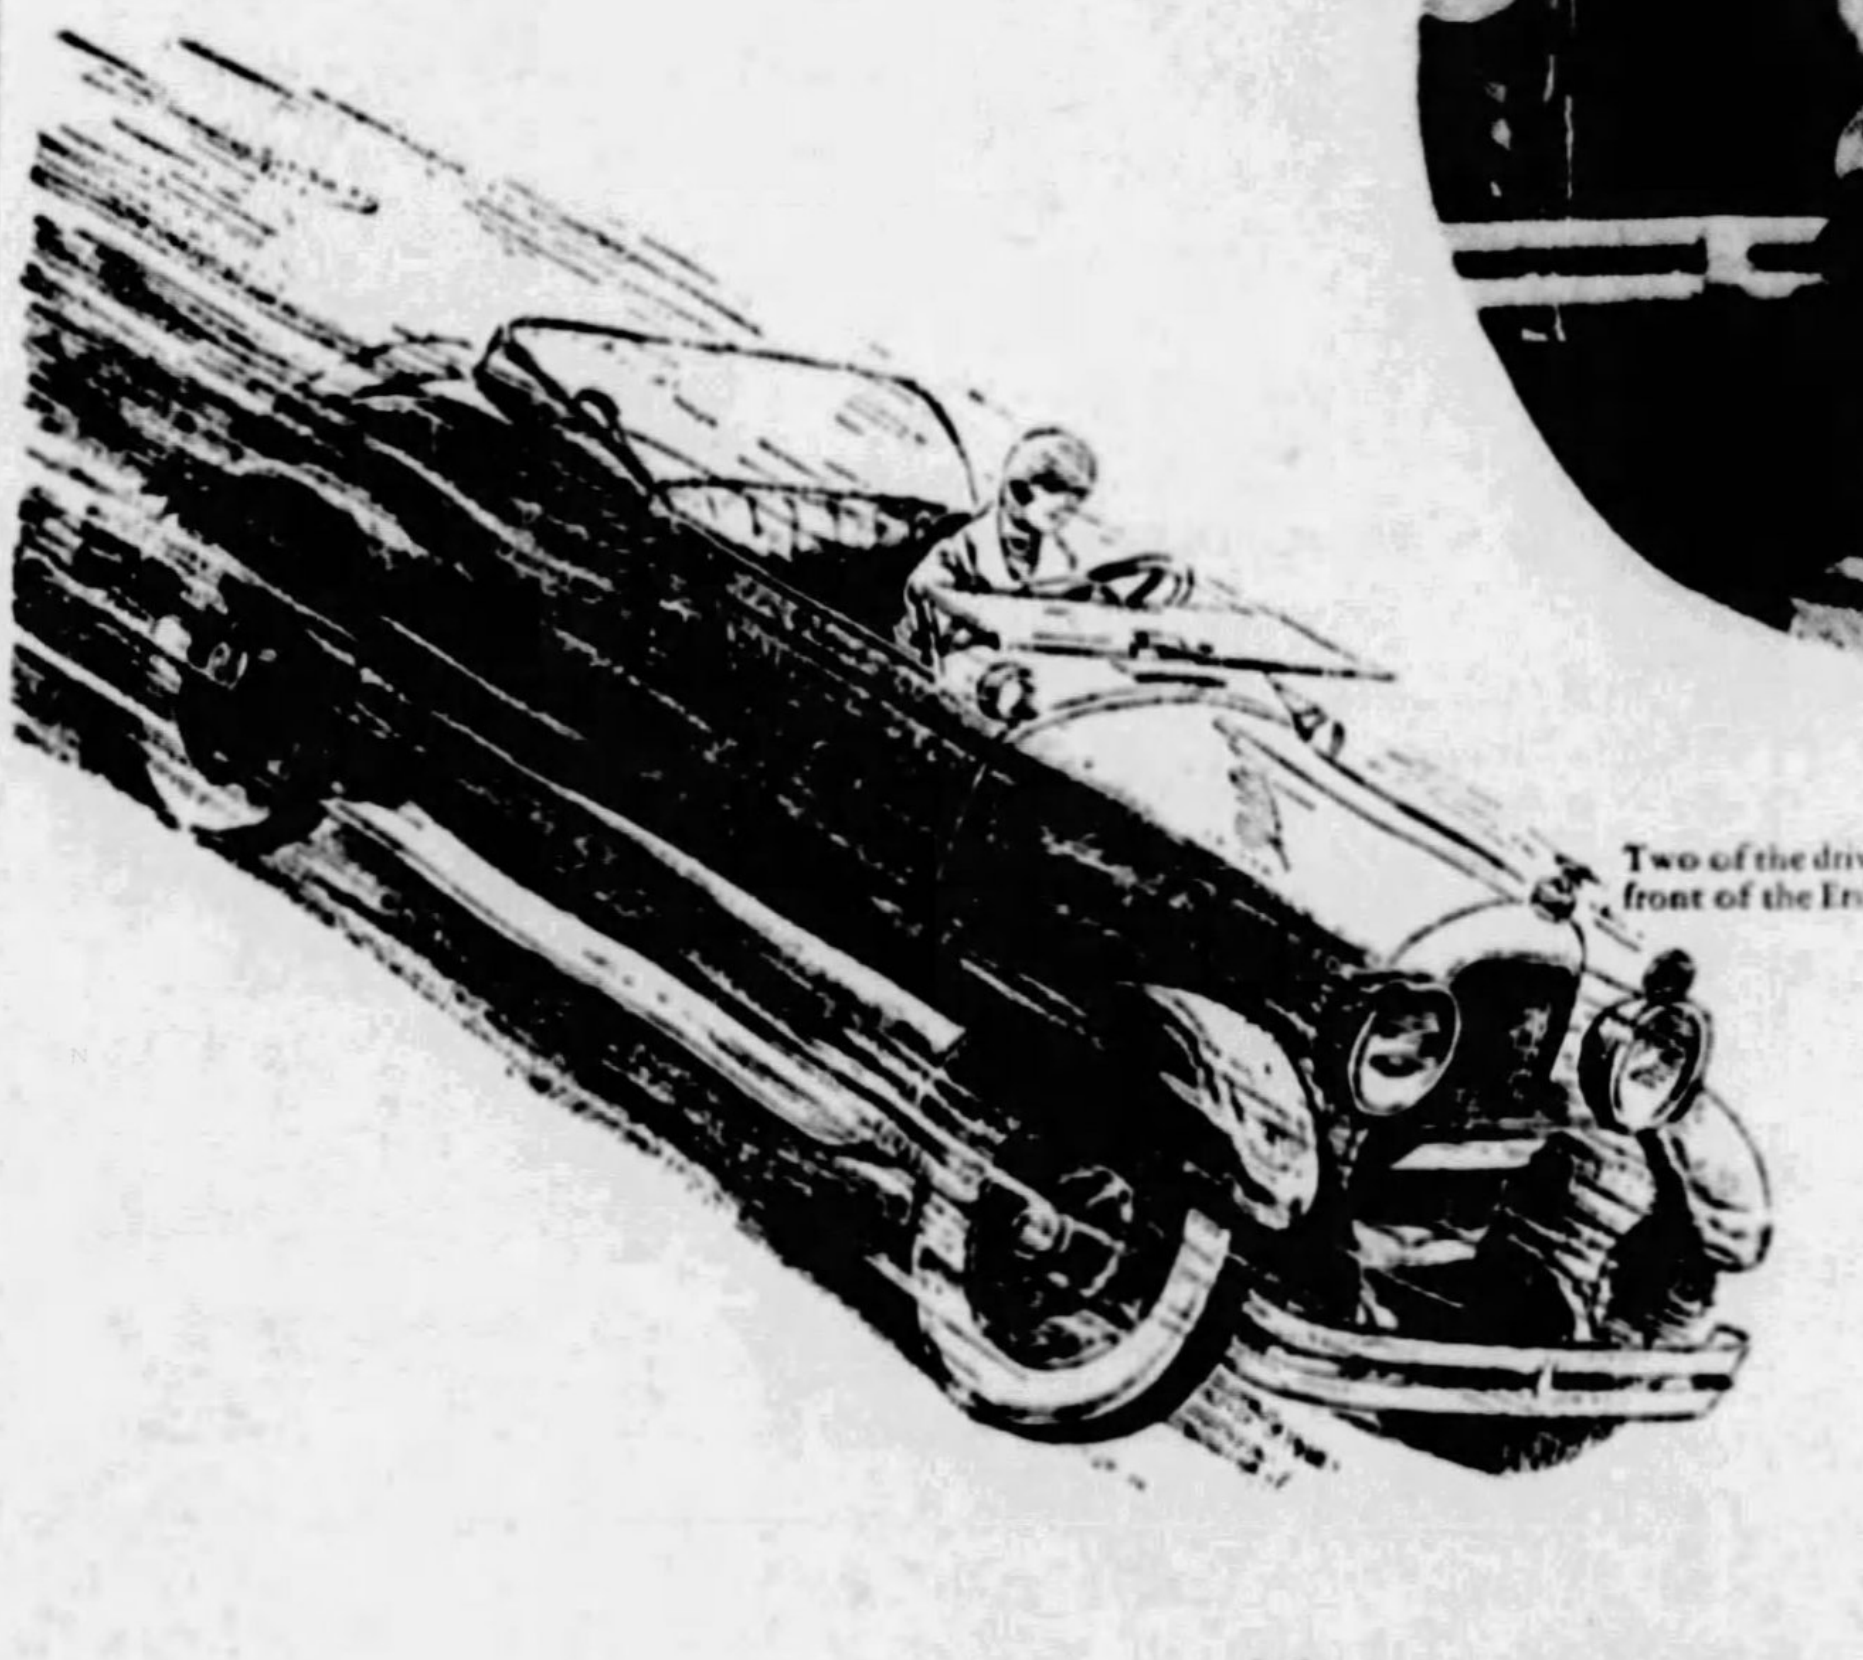
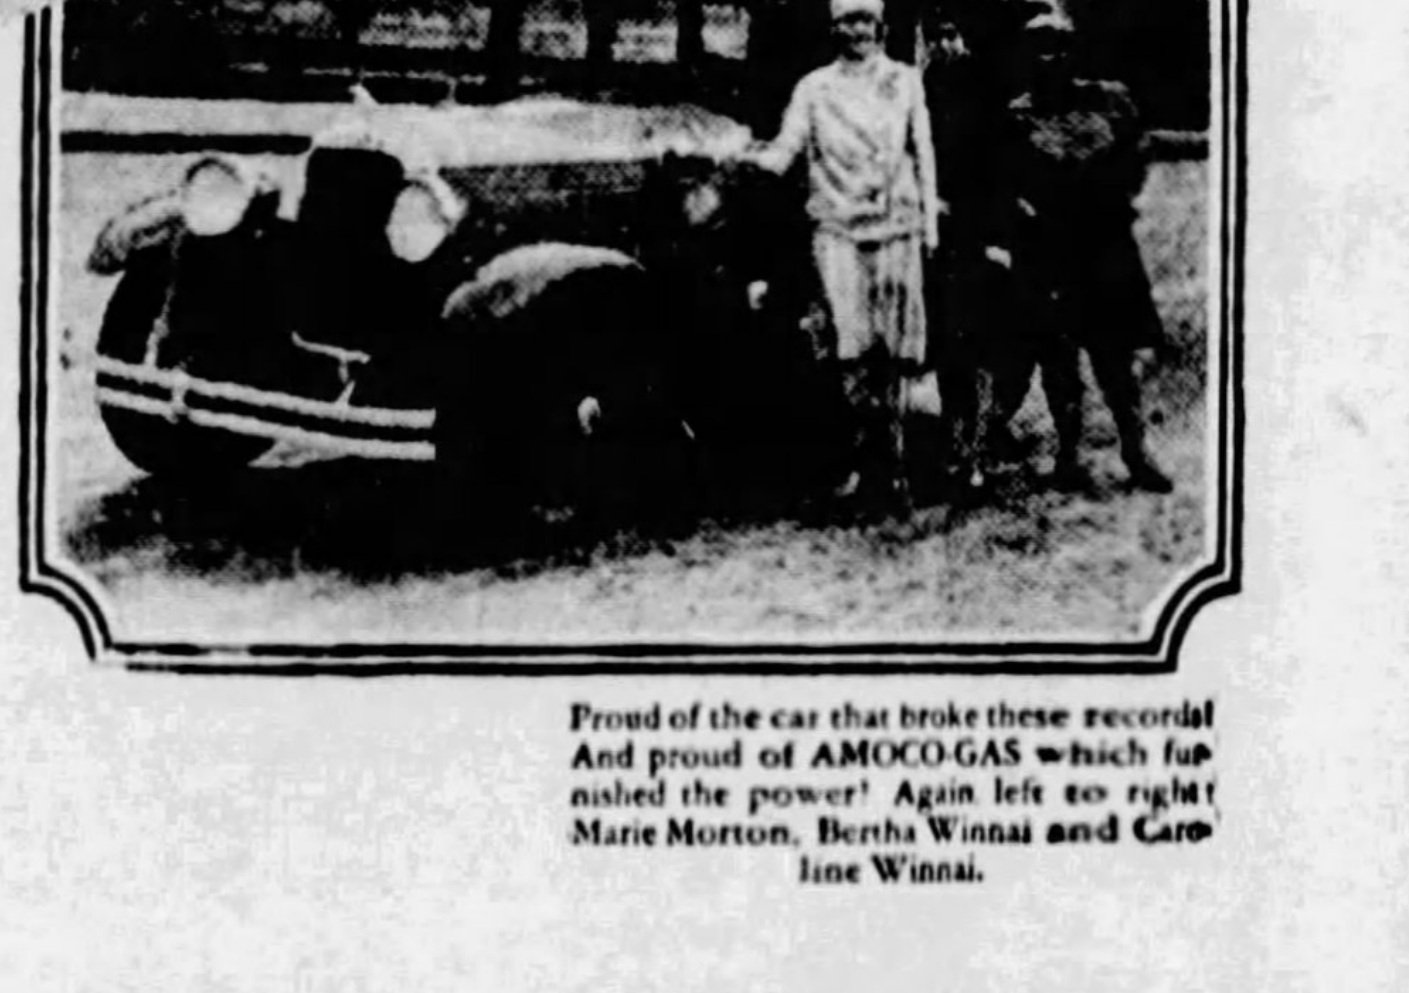
AMOCO-GAS
Women drivers set some speed records with Amoco-Gas!

Three of the drivers who took turns at the wheel of the Studebaker during the 500 mile runs. Left to right: Marie Morton, Bertha Winnai and Caroline Winnai.



Two of the drivers "snapped" in front of the Erskine Club Sedan.



Proud of the car that broke these records! And proud of AMOCO-GAS which furnished the power! Again left to right: Marie Morton, Bertha Winnai and Caroline Winnai.

To demonstrate the ease of driving and the ease with which high speed could be maintained over a long period The Studebaker Corporation of America recently ran four unique 500-mile tests at the Atlantic City Speedway.

A group of women pilots took turns at driving four Studebaker models over a 500-mile route. And a fully equipped stock Commander Roadster covered the 500-mile trip in 388 minutes--an average of 77.21 miles per hour under feminine handling.

The Dictator Sedan--another Studebaker model--made 500 miles at an average of 60.37 miles per hour. A President Eight five-passenger Sedan was driven 500 miles by the women pilots at an average of 70.1 miles per hour--while an Erskine Club Sedan covered 500 miles at an average speed of 58.6 miles per hour.

Four great records for women drivers--all certified by the American Automobile Association--and all made with AMOCO-GAS!

Women drivers everywhere will be proud of the splendid showing made by these girls--and naturally enough their choice of AMOCO-GAS will be the strongest sort of a recommendation to every woman who owns or drives a car!

Stock Exchange Failures Rare; Governors Get Credit

By B. C. FORBES

A SMALL New York Stock Exchange failure the other day serves to draw attention to the absence of serious disturbances of this kind during recent years. Time was when Wall Street experienced failures on almost every occasion when the market moved sharply in either direction. Why are such failures now rare?

THE governors of the Stock Exchange are entitled to chief credit. Whereas members used to have their affairs supervised hardly at all, the governors now exercise the strictest supervision. The financial standing of each house is examined, and whenever anything suspicious pops up, a searching investigation is made.

Under the system now in force, there should not be in future any terribly serious bankruptcies among members of the institution.

THE Stock Exchange and Wall Street are so frequently criticised, often without real basis, that a word about the Exchange governors may not be amiss. Briefly, they represent the flower of Wall Street brokers. They are elected because of their high standing and reputation. A governor, under the way things are now run, is in a position to obtain so much confidential information about other members that no man not thoroughly trusted would receive a sufficient number of members' votes to be elected.

Not only is the character of the governors beyond suspicion, but those familiar with the facts know that much time and the most earnest attention are devoted to the duties. The president of the exchange—the present incumbent is E. H. H. Simmons—actually devotes more time, wholly without pay, to the work of the institution than to his own affairs. Certain committee heads also fill office at very great sacrifice of time and money.

THE best proof of the efficiency of the governing body is the remarkable absence of failures and of unsavory practices by members. This absence of failures is the more remarkable when it is considered how enormously stock speculation has expanded during the last few years. Whereas a million-share day formerly was an event accorded the front page of metropolitan newspapers, 2,000,000-share days and 3,000,000-share days have become common, and we have witnessed 4,000,000-share days and one 5,000,000-share day.

Consider also how drastic have been the ups and downs in many highly speculative stocks—some issues have had a range of more than $100 between the year's high and low quotation.

Nor has the rise in money rates to the highest levels in seven years tended to make the broker's path smoother.

ADMITTEDLY, many houses today demand very substantial margins on stock purchases—so much so that there has been complaining. But such a course is really in the best interest of the buyer of stock as well as of the broker. Quotations for a great many stocks have this year reached wholly unprecedented levels. The higher the stock rises, the more room there is for it to fall, of course. Therefore, protection against possible emergencies is both warranted and commendable. Indeed, brokers could very properly be censured were they to accept orders for speculative issues on thin margins because there would be grave danger that the buyer would be wiped out.

THE truth is that the black sheep in Wall Street are few in comparison with those who are absolutely honest. The Stock Exchange authorities promptly punish any member found guilty of the slightest infraction of their extremely strict rules. The crookedness popularly associated with Wall Street is not to be found among Stock Exchange members or members of other local exchanges, but among shysters who haven't the slightest standing or the slightest recognition in respectable Wall Street.

Investigate before you invest—investigate, more particularly, the house you propose to deal with. Don't take its own say-so for its probity and record. Consult some trustworthy source not suggested by it.

Decent Wall Street houses are as decent as decent houses in other lines of business.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The movement of fruit and vegetables at the local wholesale produce district was good today. All fruit and vegetables were sold at about unchanged quotations.

The egg and cheese markets were steady at the quotations listed. Buter was very firm and the quotations were unchanged.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Money Rates Ease Again.

The market got away to a strong start today as the Street attitude on the money situation underwent a gradual change as a result of reports that the banking authorities were assuming a more lenient credit attitude. Reserve operations in the open market indicated a change of its position as regards government securities and there were reports of conferences among leading financial interests having as their subject the matter of the tense money market's impairment of the general business situation. Call loans renewed at 6 per cent but later receded to 4½. Yesterday the charges for demand accomodation fell back a full 2 per cent from 7½ to 5½. Business is rolling along at an entirely satisfactory pace in its recovery from the let-down around the end of last year and the beginning of 1928, but the attempts of the Reserve authorities to "spank" the stock market has run the cost of all credit up to the highest point in years and business interests not directly connected with securities trading were beginning to wonder just what benefit is going to accrue to the main business structure.

Bank Acceptances Lowered.

The rate for call loans on prime bank acceptances has been reduced to 4¾ per cent from 5½ per cent, and a little more activity is reported. Time money was softer in tone this morning, but loans were still commanding 6½ per cent.

Government Bonds Stronger.

United States Treasury 3⅜s and 4¼s turned buoyant today, the former gaining 15-32 to 103.16, while the latter was 11-16 higher at 111.16. Treasury 4¼s also turned higher gaining a similar amount to 106.16.

Young Silent on Situation.

Governor Roy A. Young, of the Federal Reserve Board, declined positively to discuss the matter under consideration by the board as to a change in policy respecting the credit situation by member banks of the Federal Reserve System. He would not admit that the credit situation had been considered, but did state that the board has held several important meetings during the past week. What matters were under discussion by the board he refused to state, declaring no statement would be made at this time.

Railroad Stocks Advance.

Some observers interpreted the strength in the railroad stocks today as an indication that the ease in the money market may be more than a temporary affair. For some time the rails had ignored the trend in some of the leading industrials, but today there was a noticeable increase in demand for all carrier shares. The best investment issues as well as some of the speculative rail stocks shared in the improvement. Railroad freight loadings for the week ended August 3 compared favorably with both the preceding week and with the corresponding week a year ago—in the first case showing an increase of 14,646 cars and in the latter a gain of 24,584 cars. A feature of the latest report was the improvement registered in the loading of miscellaneous freight compared with the previous week, the increase amounting to 12,265 cars. Grain and grain products continue to compare favorably with corresponding 1927 periods.

Marlin Rockwell.

Marlin-Rockwell Corporation earned $2.66 a share in the half year against $1.81 a share on a smaller amount of stock outstanding in the first half of 1927. Net profit rose to $965,806 from $625,049.

Fewer Freight Cars Ordered.

Only 582 freight cars were ordered in July, smallest in some time, compared with 2,422 in June. Awards for seven months were 28,916, against 44,460 in the corresponding 1927 period. The Missouri Pacific has ordered 100 automobile cars from American Car and Foundry.

1927 Automobile Output.

The output of motor vehicles of all classes in 1927 by American producers totaled 3,335,805, valued at $2,537,912,192, according to data collected by the biennial census of manufacturers taken in 1928 and announced today by the Department of Commerce. Of this total, 2,873,380 were passenger vehicles, valued at $2,174,718,977, not including public conveyances. The aggregates, according to the department, represented decreases of 19.9 per cent in number and 13.9 per cent in value as compared with 1925, the last preceding census year.

Zinc Consumption High.

World stocks of zinc on August 31 are estimated at 63,000 metric tons by the foreign correspondent of the American Zinc Institute, with 38,300 in the United States, 6,100 in Germany-Poland, 4,200 in Canada and 4,800 in Belgium. The report cites that world production of zinc for the first half of 1928 of 708,000 metric tons was the greatest ever, and as stocks on June 30 were not much different from that on January 1, it follows that world consumption of zinc is higher than it ever was in war or peace time.

Flour Stocks Exceed 1927.

Flour stocks in 10 leading cities totaled 493,000 barrels August 1, a decline of 4,000 barrels since July 1 but a gain of 34,000 barrels over stocks on hand August 1, 1927, figures compiled by Archibald Gassaway, secretary of the Toledo Produce Exchange, show. Stocks in Eastern cities have remained on about the same levels but those in northern milling centers are considerably larger. Good milling wheat has been scarce throughout the country for several months and the arrival of the new crop is expected to relieve the situation.

Favors Inland Steel.

Hornblower and Weeks' stock market comment today says, in part: "We expect something of a sensational move in U. S. Steel during the next two months and strongly feel Steel stocks, as a group, will be the chief leaders in the market. Inland Steel represents a neglected opportunity from the standpoint of earnings and selling price. Since the earnings of this company have been relatively the most satisfactory of any major steel company during the last two years, we expect Inland Steel will share in the attention which U. S. Steel is commanding as a market leader. We do not expect Inland Steel to be long available at the present investment levels."

Republic Raises Bars.

Republic Iron and Steel Company has opened books for fourth quarter business on steel bars at 2 cents, Pittsburgh. This is an advance of $2 a ton over present maximum price of 1.90 cents and follows advance made some time ago by U. S. Steel Corporation. Base price of No. 24 gauge black sheets under new schedule is $2.75 a 100 pounds.

Glass Industry Doing Well.

The glass industry is carrying on with as small a force as possible, while nearly all of the factories engaged in making window, wired, rough rolled and plate glass are operating, according to the National Glass Budget. Some of them could, however, be turning out more glass. Production of window glass was lower during the past week than heretofore, as two plants are closed down entirely, and blocks were being set in a couple of other factories. By the first of September, one of the factories will be ready to go back into operation, and other plants will have settled down into steady production. There was a decided increase in the amount of imports of window glass received at the port of New York within the past week, and from what seems to be authentic information, there will be a further increase in the amount of flat glass that will be laid down in this country from foreign glass manufacturing centers. Orders seem to be plentiful for plate, and fairly satisfactory for wired and rough rolled glass. Every indication tends to the conclusion that there will be an unusually large amount of glass sold during the remainder of the year. Building operations are keeping up well and this, along with the fact that the automobile and mirror industry are both taking more glass than was actually anticipated, speaks well for the future.

Employment Conditions Better.

Automobile industry during July continued on high level of employment and satisfactory conditions also prevailed in steel and iron industry, the Labor Department states. Conditions generally over the whole country were satisfactory. A slight decline in factory employment was noted during July, but decrease was more than offset by increased activity of outdoor industries. Crop harvesting and extensive road building programs furnished employment for a large number of workers. Building operations also continued in good volume and department states prospects are bright for sustained employment on high level.

World Copper Output Down.

July production of copper in principal producing centers, which furnish about 98 per cent of the world's total, was 153,190 tons, a daily average of 4,942 tons, against 156,474 or 5,215 daily in June, and 132,186 or 4,264 daily in July, 1927, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. For seven months production was 1,036,439 tons against 953,826 tons in the same period a year ago. Further confirmation that the copper industry is in the soundest position on record is obtained from the July statistics. Not since monthly figures on the industry have been compiled has the total of copper stocks been at such a low point. On August 1 the total supply of refined copper in North and South America was down to 109,742,000 pounds, indicating a depletion of supplies during July amounting to 7,876,000 pounds. The North and South American supply of refined copper has been drawn down every month this year with the exception of March when it increased 720,000 pounds. In the seven months to July 31 there has been an aggregate reduction in copper stocks of 80,854,000 pounds.

Smelters at New High.

American Smelting and Refining moved into new high ground along with other favored industrial stocks and its advance had a favorable influence on other shares in the metal and mining division. American Smelting management is understood to be contemplating seriously extending the company's activities to a new field—the manufacture of white lead. In some quarters it is said that negotiations are under way with several small paint concerns, including Eagle Pitcher Company, which would mean the company would be in that field from the output of the metal to the consumption for paint purposes.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The cotton market opened barely steady today at declines of 18 to 23 points under realizing by recent buyers and southern or local selling, probably influenced by easier Liverpool cables and talk of prospects for clearing weather in the eastern belt.

The initial selling sent prices down to 18.67c for December, or about 23 to 26 points net lower, but offerings were not particularly heavy and the market rallied 8 or 10 points from the lowest on covering by the end of the first hour.

Private cables attributed the relatively easy showing of Liverpool to hedging combined with continental and Bombay selling, but that cloth and yarn sales were more encouraging in Manchester.

The market showed renewed firmness later on increasing complaints of crop deterioration and reports of greater insect activity. Early sellers were among the buyers on the advance which carried the price of December contracts to 19.20c, or 53 points above the low of the morning and about 27 points net higher. A few stop orders were uncovered and after their execution the demand slackened somewhat. Prices showed reactions of 6 to 8 points from the best at midday.

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

Bituminous Users Take 15 Months to Use Up Surplus Coal Stored by Companies as Strike Threatened.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE passage of 15 months has been necessary for bituminous coal consumers to use the surplus stocks of coal which were accumulated to meet the strike shortage—an emergency which never materialized.

Before the expiration of the Jacksonville wage scale on April 1, 1927, no one knew how many men would answer the strike call of the United Mine Workers of America. In previous strikes many of the miners in nonunion workings removed their tools.

The influence of the strike call was an unknown factor. Our industries did not take chances. They piled coal.

ON THE day the union miners stopped work industrial consumers had stocks of coal on hand which were practically double the normal supply. The United States Bureau of Mines estimated that 75,000,000 tons of coal were piled. This compared with 40,000,000 tons on April 1, 1925 and with the low point in 1926 of 36,000,000 tons on May 1.

The day after the strike call it became apparent that these mountains of coal were a useless, frozen asset—an economic waste.

THE regular nonunion fields did not answer the call to arms. The decline in the number of men reporting for work at the properties which had seceded from the union in the 18 months before the strike was not great.

The nonunion fields had been carrying the great burden of the nation's coal demands before the strike and they were found adequate to continue the task after the walkout.

This situation accounted for the unprecedented action of coal prices during the strike period. The expected rush of users to buy coal never materialized. Instead they dropped out of the market and started to dig into their coal piles. Prices receded instead of advancing.

THIS had much to do with the operators' victory over the union.

Long before the strike, a Pittsburgh Coal Company official confided that success in the struggle against the union lay in low prices.

So long as coal operators received prices for their output which were unprofitable, there was no temptation to make peace with the union. No one wanted to start digging coal at a loss.

A flurry in prices would have made peace a profitable venture. No flurry occurred. The operators stayed in line.

MONTH by month coal stocks were reduced but the greatest pull on the reservoir of coal piles was in the three months ended July 1, 1928.

Stocks on this date were reduced to 41,700,000 tons. This was 6,600,000 tons less than on April 1, 1928. It was 33,300,000 tons less than at the beginning of the strike.

Stocks were at the lowest level since August 1, 1926.

The coal industry has climbed out of the hole. In the future demands will be in proportion to actual consumption.

PRICES are still low. The enormous potential production, which stands ready to take advantage of any improvement in market conditions, and the impending settlement of the strike at the remaining union mines makes any sensational rise in coal prices remote. But the coal industry is in better condition today than at any time in the past four years.

THE reduction in coal stocks during the second quarter of this year was made in the face of a seasonally small demand.

The average consumption for the second quarter was 8,312,000 tons a week against 10,636,000 tons in the first quarter. A decrease was also shown in comparison with the the second quarter of 1927, when consumption averaged 8,582,000 tons a week.

AN INTERESTING side light of the Bureau of Mines' report can be seen in the detailed consumption figures which reflect the rapid increase in the production of by-product coal.

In the Middle Atlantic states consumption of coal by the by-product plants in May and June of 1928 was 16.7 per cent greater than in the same months of 1927. In Ohio the increase was 9.3 per cent, in Southern Michigan 42 per cent and in Illinois and Indiana 3.6 per cent.

The only decreases in consumption of coal by by-product coke plants were shown in the districts which have a relatively small share of the by- product coking activity.

PITTSBURGH PLATE UP ON TRADE IMPROVEMENT

The sharp bulge in prices in the New York market during the early trading today was not reflected on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, where quotations remained practically unchanged.

Volume of business here continued to reflect the absence of interest in stocks both on the part of the trading element and the investing public usually favoring the local list. During the first hour of business only three stocks appeared on the board. Standard Sanitary opened the market at 36½ for a small lot, unchanged from yesterday's final quotation. The stock was also dull in New York. On the other hand Westinghouse Electric enjoyed a strong and active market in the East but did not change hands on the local floor. Columbia Gas, another local issue, was also strong in New York.

The fuels showed no change from the trading attitude of the past month. Lone Star Gas hovered around 52, while Arkansas Gas was taken in moderate amounts just under $3 a share. An odd lot of William Zoller Company sold unchanged at 50.

Reports from the glass industry indicating steady improvement in the trade influenced a four-point advance in Pittsburgh Plate Glass which sold at 255 as against the previous price of 251. Standard Plate prior preferred was handled at 25, off a point from the last previous transaction here.

EASIER MONEY SENDS STOCKS ROCKETING

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A distinctly easier undertone in the money market, coupled with a large quota of favorable trade news, furnished the stimulus for another broad advance in prices in today's stock market. Revival of activity and strength in the railroad shares, a dozen of which advanced 2 to 4 points, was one of the features of the day's trading. Gains in the industrial list ran from 1 to 7 points. Trading showed a further expansion in volume.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent, dropped to 5½ and thence to 5, the lowest rate in about a month. Loans in the "outside market" were reported as low as 4½ per cent, due to the heavy influx of funds from the interior. Time money was again reported available as low as 6 per cent. Expectations of a decrease in brokers' loans in the Federal Reserve statement to be issued after the close of the market also helped to create bullish sentiment. Persistent reports that Federal Reserve Banks were buying acceptances in the open market lacked official confirmation, but it was indicated the Federal Reserve board had made no change in its money market policy this week.

Prospects of unusually heavy crop movements this Fall accelerated the buying of the railroad shares. Texas and Pacific and Gulf, Mobile and Northern were bid up 4 points, and Rock Island and Southern Railway 3 points each. Gains of 2 points or more were recorded by New York Central, Reading, Erie, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific.

A wide open break of more than 10 points in Manhattan Electrical Supply, which broke to a new low at 43¼, failed to halt the rise in other specialties. American Smelting, R. H. Macy, Abraham and Straus, Wright Aeronautical, Inland Steel, Otis Elevator, Curtiss, Graham Paige and Simmons Company all sold 4 to 7 points higher, some of them reaching new high grounds.

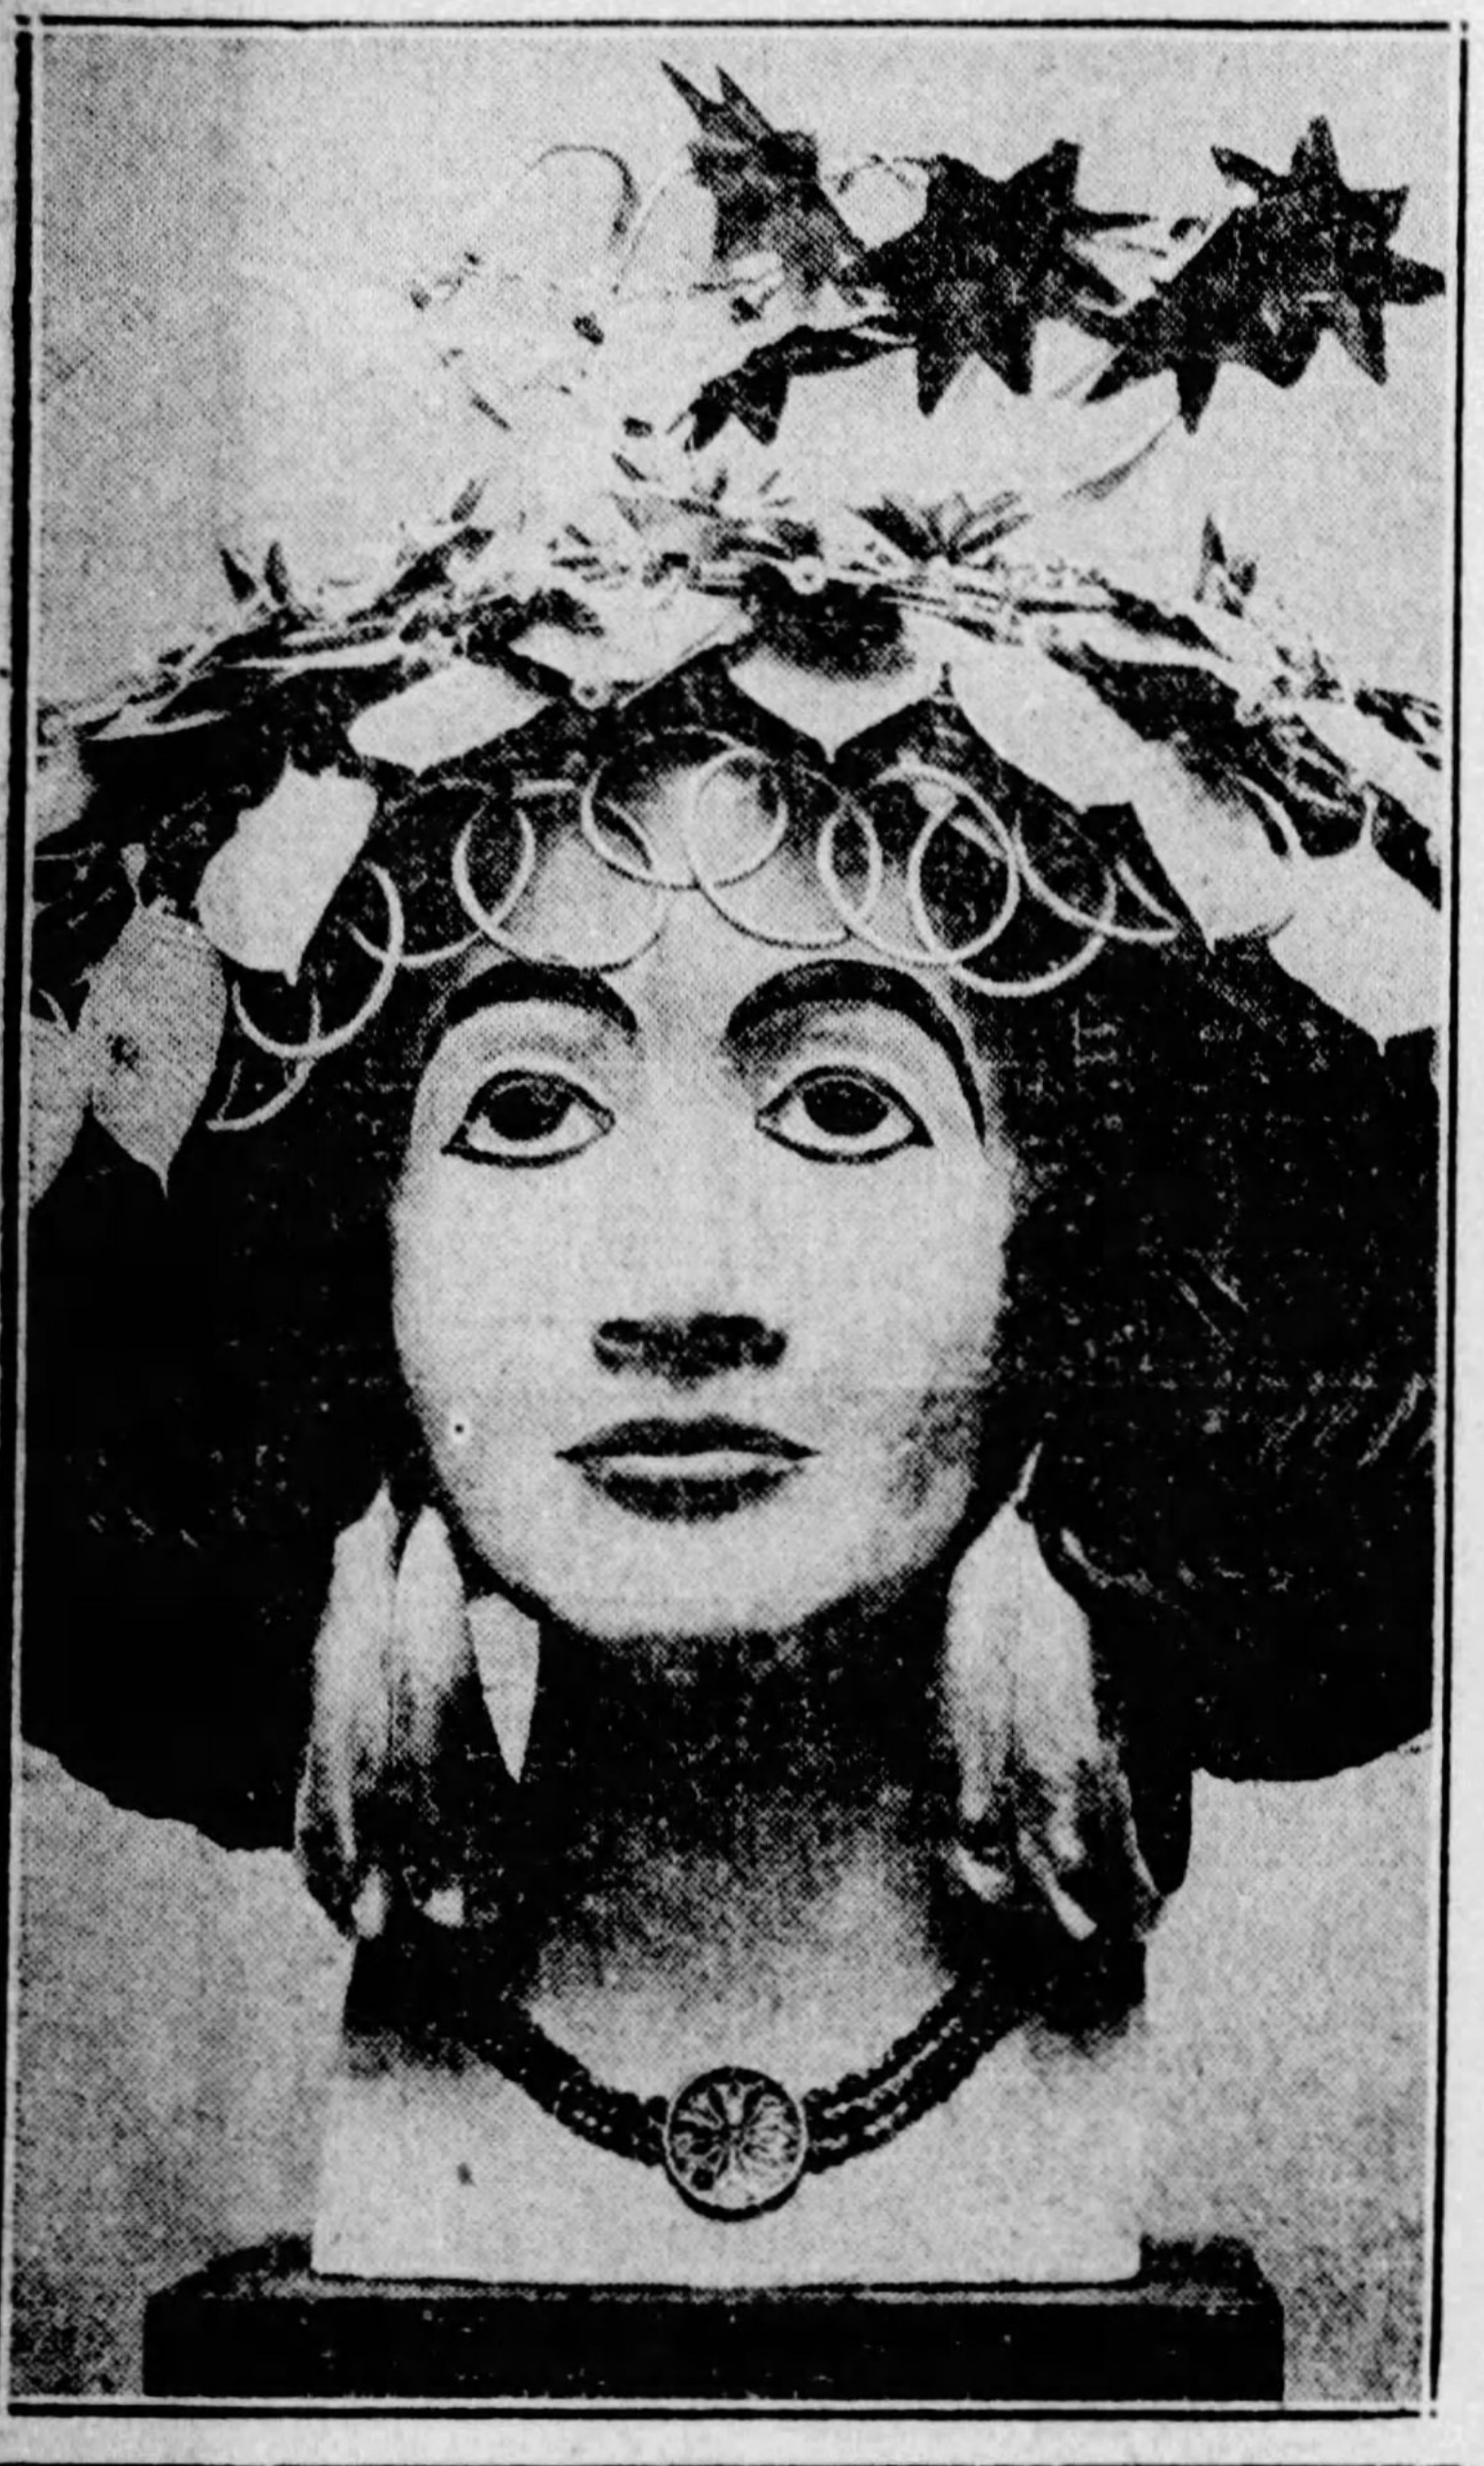
Queen Shub-Ad Modern Looking

Moses Saw Faces and Head Dresses Like This.



QUEEN SHUB-AD, WHO LIVED IN ANCIENT UR, 5,000 YEARS AGO.

Above you see, reconstructed, with scientific painstaking, the headdress, wig and gold hair ornaments of Queen Shub-Ad of Ur.

That ancient city sank into the ground thousands of years ago. This Queen lived her little moment, died and was buried 5,000 years ago.

C. Leonard Woolley, learned archeologist at work in Mesopotamia, finds the ancient Queen's tomb and headdress.

She wore gold ribbon in her hair, beautiful leaves of gold earrings, and the wig that you see.

Her face reproduced in wax, modeled on a female Sumerian skull of the period, gives an idea of the Queen's appearance.

Moses probably saw faces and headdresses of this kind.

Women have changed a thousand times, clothes, hair, ornaments, going out, coming back. But always they have been dissatisfied with themselves as nature produced them, forever seeking improvements.

Eventually they will realize that it is not the gold ribbon, the wig or the earrings on the OUTSIDE of the head, but the thinking, the sentiment, the aspiration on the INSIDE of the head that counts.

Springdale Boys Glad To Help Injured Friend

A few days ago a boy was badly injured in Springdale. It became necessary to amputate his right leg, but first his strength must be built up through blood transfusions. Fifteen of his boy friends volunteered and of these two were selected to give a pint of blood each for the youthful comrade whose chance of life depended upon their sacrifice, which was in vain, as their friend died.

"He would have done it for me," one of the boys said, as if that explained it all. But did the boy ask himself first whether the suffering friend would have done the same for him? Did he make that possibility the contingency upon which he would open his veins to let his blood mingle with the too scant supply in the weakened lad's body? You know he did not. Not one of the 15 asked himself that question.

No person standing on a bank seeing another sink in a stream considers what the other might do in like circumstances. He plunges in and saves a life if he can. Very often his own is a sacrifice. The same impulse, plus that of love for their companion, made the Springdale boys offer to help their friend. It is the way of life and it is a more wonderful way than the doing of things in expectation of payment.

Wise Britain

Better to Feed Than to Fight Men.

Of 12,000,000 workers in Britain, 1,320,000 are out of work. Some are of the non-working class, some lost their taste for work after the experience of war. But the majority are deserving workers. Britain, wisely, sees that these idle get enough to live, taxes supplying the enough.

Pauperizing, you may call it. But Britain knows that even pauperizing is less dangerous than revolution; 1,320,000 desperate men could make trouble.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

A Chicago Mirage.

"On June 7, in the afternoon, for about three hours, Chicagoans enjoyed a marvellous spectacle. The air was wonderfully transparent and very still, and many plainly saw the Michigan shore line, with its beach and its sand dunes, caves and clumps of trees as far away as Michigan City. The smoke from the Gary, Indiana, mills was conspicuously visible. I saw the wonderful sight from the eighth story of the McCormick building, probably 100 feet above the lake level. Michigan City is sixty miles from Chicago in an air line, and the distance of Gary is about 30 miles. Would the curvature of the earth permit such a view direct, or was this a mirage?—W. D. Merritt, Chicago."

UNDOUBTEDLY it was a mirage, one of the most marvelous phenomena of this world of ours, and a fertile source of superstitions and folk tales. Even the explanations of science rob it of none of its mysterious suggestiveness. Whole treaties have been written to analyze and describe the infinte forms of deception that it produces. Its primary cause lies in the refractive power of the air over the rays of light passing through it. Its most characteristic effect is the lifting into sight of distant objects which are so distant that the earth's curvature really carries them far below the horizon. The rays of light from such objects are deviated by the atmosphere in such a manner that instead of passing invisible high over the heads of the distant observers they are turned downward until they meet their eyes. This is equivalent to a lifting up of the object so that they are seen suspended above the rim of the horizon. This is what happened in the spectacle that you saw.

There is always more or less refraction at the horizon, a familiar example being the apparent uplifting of the setting sun, so that it does not disappear until some minutes after it is actually below the horizon. This perceptibly lengthens the day, and a similar effect at sunrise brings the sun up into sight before it has actually risen, geometrically.

But at times, under peculiar local atmospheric conditions, the refractive effect of the air becomes suddenly and temporarily greatly increased, and then it is that mirages occur. Such occurences can rarely be predicted.

In the case you mention the bending of the rays of light over the horizon between Chicago and the Michigan shore was very pronounced, as you can see from the following considerations. Gary is 30 miles from Chicago. Now the curvature of the earth amounts to about 8 inches per mile, and as the distance increases, the depression varies as the square of the distance. A formula that you can always use is that of the square of the distance in miles equals twice the height of the observer in feet. This formula allows for the effect of ordinary refraction, but not for the extraordinary refraction to which a mirage is due. Applying the formula for the distance between Chicago and Gary, we find that the observer would need to be at an elevation of 450 feet in Chicago in order to see Gary on the horizon. Here are the figures: 30 multiplied by 30 equals 900, which divided by 2 gives 450, the observer's elevation.

Michigan City is 60 miles distant, and in that case the elevation would have to be no less than 1,800 feet, thus: 60 multiplied by 60 equals 3,600, which divided by 2 gives 1,800, the height of the observer's eye, in feet. If there were no ordinary refraction the height in this case would have to be 2,400 feet. But the extraordinary refraction of the mirage that you witnessed levelled out the whole effect of the geometrical depression of the horizon, and brought Michigan City up to a visual level with Chicago. Finding out the tricks of this old world rather increases its interest as a dwelling-place.

Friendship

THE crowd into which you must literally buy your way affords nothing worth while.

It is expected, of course, that you will meet your social and financial obligations in the crowd with which you mingle.

But if you have to do more than your share in order to keep yourself within the circle, you are not really a part of it.

And your lavish expenditure does not bring you respect.

Quite the reverse is true.

You are looked upon as an easy mark who can be depended upon to do the work that others don't want to do, or to make outlays that the others shirk.

Perhaps you are quite set up because of the people with whom you associate.

Then it might surprise you if you should decide to take your place as one of them and conduct yourself as the others do.

Very likely you would be soon forgotten.

If such is the case, are you not foolish to remain in a set which tolerates you because you are so easy and foolish?

Such friends are not worth much to you.

You are merely a hanger-on.

Vines

THERE are scars on the trunk of the great oak tree
Where the hand of the storm was laid,
Like a record, written for all to see,
Though the oak stands unafraid.

But the vines have come, with their tender green,
They are clinging and brave and kind,
And they weave for the oak tree their vivid screen
Till its blemish no eye can find.

There are scars scrawled deep on the heart and mind,
Such scars as no years efface;
But when love comes trailing its tendrils kind
It can cover each cruel trace.

Great Passages from the Bible

The Creation of Heaven and Earth

(Genesis 1; 1-19)

IN the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.

And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.

And God said, Let there be light: and there was light.

And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkness.

And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night. And the evening and the morning were the first day.

And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters.

And God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament: and it was so.

And God called the firmament Heaven. And the evening and the morning were the second day.

And God said, Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear: and it was so.

And God called the dry land Earth; and the gathering together of the waters called he Seas: and God saw that it was good.

And God said, Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself, upon the earth: and it was so.

And the earth brought forth grass, and herb yielding seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

And the evening and the morning were the third day.

And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from the night: and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years:

And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth: and it was so.

And God made two great lights; the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night: he made the stars also.

And God set them in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth,

And to rule over the day and over the night: and to divide the light from the darkness: and God saw that it was good.

And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today
By WILL ROGERS

IT'S mighty hard for anybody to give good advice to a guy that's down and out or in jail or having trouble with his wife. The fellow that gives the advice is at a disadvantage if he ain't in the same fix.

There was a preacher talking to a guy that had been in the pen for a long time and had tried to commit suicide because he thought forty years was too long to wait.

Says the preacher, "You got to remember, Smith, that stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage."

The prisoner give him a disgusted look.

"Well, maybe they don't," he says, "but take it from me, bo, they make a darn good imitation of a prison and a cage. You just try to get out of one of the imitations, and you'll change your tune."

Good Explanation

IT was at the scene of an automobile accident. An elderly old lady in one of the first cars to be stopped by the debris of the smashup, leaned from her car as a very much battered man, with a hastily arranged bandage around his ankle, hobbed by.

"Oh, my," she said, "did you hurt your ankle?"

"Naw," replied the man, "I lost both eyes. This bandage slipped down."

New York Day by Day
by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—New Yorkers have never learned to love Central Park as the Frenchman loves the Bois, but the popularity of this great breathing space so close to the heart of the city is growing. Every summer the list of "regulars" in the park increases.

One sees the same faces day after day strolling around the gravel path of the reservoir. And also the same figures flashing by on the bridle path. Central Park to many is becoming a fixed habit. At sunup may be seen a number of the illustrious from Millionaire's Row enjoying a morning constitutional.

The Mall is crowded on pleasant days with children, in charge of nurses, rolling hoops and riding in goat carts. Ponderous motor cars stop at either Mall entrance and fashionably clad men and women alight for a promenade that suggests the Champs Elysees.

There are myriad diversions for the Central Park visitor that offer a sudden relief from the city's jangle. Geese and graceful swans disport in the southeastern lake. The zoo, while small and intimate, offers a careful selection of birds and wild beasts.

On the middle big lake are motor boats and skiffs for hire. Also fly casting platforms. On a nearby meadow is the croquet grounds, where white-whiskered old men totter around with their mallets and umbrellas overhead to ward off the sun.

There are various other expansive stretches of greensward where baseball and other outdoor games are permitted. There is the Shakespeare garden abloom with patches of rare flowers. The old block house. McGowan's Pass Tavern. The Casino restaurant. And the art museum.

There are cliff walks with natural stone steps, quaint bridges spanning placid little streams, wisteria bowers with long comfortable benches, and innumerable other nooks and crannies. To say nothing of the Egyptian obelisk, which glinted by moonlight, is one of the most entrancing sights in the city.

Among the finest physical specimens of the New York police force are the mounted patrolmen in Central Park. Expert horsemen, they have dashed gallantly to rescue and swept hysterical ladies into their protecting arms from fractious horses. And romance has kindled by their gallantry. Two mounted park policemen have married rich heiresses.

Old women who stand at park entrances with toy red balloons tugging in the breeze are not so poverty stricken as they appear. They sell few of their ballons, but the odd change dropped in their hands by passersby is considerable. One is said to own an apartment house in the Bronx, bought with gratuities. Still, all beggars are reputed to own apartment houses.

There is a wooded strip in the park dotted with comfortable benches, known as Lover's Lane. It is a romantic rendezvous for sailors and their girls and an understanding policeman who patrols the idyllic lane walks along the paths gazing at the heavens. He never so much as glances at occupied benches, bless his heart.

A gentleman who flew to New York from Texas this week brought along a pet white rabbit. In crossing the lobby of a Fifth avenue hotel the rabbit leaped from his arms and went hopping down a long hallway.

"We do not permit rabbits here," said an imperious frock-coated floor manager with a gorgeous flower in his lapel.

"Yeah," drawled the Texan. "Well, you catch it. I've always wanted to see a gentleman in a frock coat hunting rabbits on Fifth avenue anyway."

"We don't suppose," reads one of those impassioned get-rich-quick letters, "that anything would tempt you to sacrifice a little time from your profession, even if it makes you independently rich. We wrote you before without answer and see now that not even quick wealth will budge you from what we consider foolish loyalty."

Don't be silly. I can be had.

Billboards
By DR. FRANK CRANE.

Any criticism of billboard advertising must incure the danger of being objected to by those whose "craft is in danger." All the same there are many who believe that billboard advertising not only spoils the beauties of nature and is offensive to the traveler, but that it is unscientific and uneconomical.

Advertising should not only call attention of the possible customer to the article to be bought, but it should pay its own way. That is it should make possible the beneficial effects of the medium.

Newspapers and magazines are the ideal place for advertising. People not only expect it there, but the money spent in putting it there makes the publication possible. Almost every periodical depends upon advertising for the main part of its revenue.

The publisher of a popular magazine, priced at five cents, told this writer some time ago that every copy of that magazine cost him forty-one cents. The profits were in advertising.

The Supreme Court of Kansas has declared valid a legislative statute which prohibited any kind of signs, except official markers, on the highways, also any type of advertising sign within 500 feet of a turn in the road, and intersection, or a railroad grade crossing.

America is known for its advertising, but Arthur Newton Pack, president of the American Nature Association, asks if we are proud of so many of our roadside landscapes walled with ugly signboards.

Connecticut and Maryland have shown us the way of remedying this evil. It is roadside tree planting. A highway lined on both sides with trees is poor meat for the outdoor advertiser.

Trees do not obscure the landscape, but form an attractive frame for it. They make it hard to read billboard advertisements.

In New York and New Jersey, and in other states, it is illegal to attach signs to trees.

Many states have passed laws forbidding advertising signs on rights of way.

Theodore Roosevelt said: "Do not let selfish men or greedy interests skin your country of its beauty."

Henry Van Dyck in an address at Los Angeles said that what Southern California needs more than anything else is to prevent spoiling the beauty of the landscape by advertisments. The Garden Club of America, with 79 clubs throughout the country, has inaugurated a Billboard Restriction Campaign by sending to all member clubs its billboard calendar.

It is pretty hard to withstand the inroads of commercialism, but every lover of nature should co-operate with the Anti-Billboard Campaign.

There is no reason why the highways of America should not be as attractive as those of France. All travelers know how beautiful are the French highways lined with rows of trees.

OH, THESE WOMEN!
By LEOLA ALLARD

A WIFE complains because her husband "just loves animals," and has in their small apartment several canaries, a soft billed Japanese robin, a group of white mice and a monkey. You would hardly call her fussy.

A very up-to-date, handsome matron in Omaha called up a man in whom she has been much too much interested for six years. "I do want to see you," she pleaded. "I am so upset."

He met her for luncheon and spent most of the afternoon consoling her, and telling her he was sure everything would be all right and he would get well.

Who? Her husband was ill and in a hospital and it was about him she was worried.

Can you tie that?

A plain looking girl about 20, standing in a doorwayy on Fifth avenue, talking with a man of 40, and weeping as if her heart would break. The man looked bored to death. Two hours later when I came home they were still standing there and she was still crying.

I wondered if the argument wouldn't have met with better success if she had dried her tears. It doesn't take many tears to make a girl homely and a man tired, and this one was homely when she began.

Any girl who tries to reclaim a man after he has grown tired of her is wasting energy. There is hope if he is angry, or hurt, or jealous. But when he is tired—it's time to call the next case.

From Arkansas I get a letter from a lady who says she wants to know if I am serious about the Governor of Kansas refusing to sign extradition papers for gold digging wives, who want to bring their husbands back to face the music. She thinks I meant Arkansas.

Try it lady and find out. If you can bring him back I meant Kansas.

Righteous Scorn

GREAT indignation is reported to have arisen in Paris following the discovery that certain minor officials in the Parisian divorce court had speeded its process for Americans after taking tips of 40 cents.

The indignation is deserved. Even a French divorce ought to be worth more.
